HARMFUL STOMACH DOSING.

No Need of It When Hyomei is Used to Cure Catarrh

Physicians and scientists agree that the less medicine one swallows, the better. It is in keeping with this idea that Hyomei is recommended by leading physicians throughout this and other catarrhal sections.

When this treatment is used in catarrhal troubles, there is no stomach dosing, for the medicine is taken in with the air you breathe, and goes right to the spot where the catarrhal germs are present, healing the inflamed and irritated mucous membrane, killing the disease germs and entering the blood with the oxygen, driving all catarrhal germs from the system. Do not try to cure catarrh of the head by putting medicine into your stomach, this is neither a scientific nor common sense treatment. Breathe the healing balsam of Hyomei and in a few days you will notice relief, and its continued use will result in a complete and lasting cure.

J. H. Kennedy & Co., seen so many cures made by Hyomei amongst their customers, several of them cases where all hope of relief had been given up, that they give an absolute guarantee of cure. Every penny will be refunded, with every bottle they sell. The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1, while extra bottles of Hyomei, if needed, are only 20 cents. -000-113.

It will doubtless accomplish much along this line in Gastonia.

THE YEAGER-MCLEAN MFG. CO.

Gastonia's Latest Enterprise is a Factory for Turning Out Ladies' Suits and Skirts—Will be Ready for Operation Early in January—Will Employ Seventy-Five Ladies in All and Will Cater to High-Class Trade—Mr. J. F. Yeager and Mr. A. A. McLean the Promoters—First of Its Kind in Piedmont North Carolina.

Gastonia has become so used to hearing of new factories and other enterprises set on foot almost every day that the mere announcement that the town is to have a new factory, especially if it be for the manufacture of cotton yarns or cloth, attracts no great amount of attention, as was the case a few years back. The town's latest enterprise, however, is along an altogether new line and the mere announcement of its inauguration will attract attention not only in Gastonia but throughout the State and even in other States. It is a factory for the manufacture of ladies' garments, consisting of full suits and skirts.

This new enterprise is to be operated by the Yeager-McLean Manufacturing Company, the members of the firm being Mr. J. F. Yeager and Mr. A. A. McLean. Mr. Yeager has for the past several years conducted a millinery and ladies' furnishings store with marked success, and has for the past twelve months operated a small manufacturing plant for custom work, his business having grown from the very start. This business will be continued. Mr. McLean has long been prominently identified with the business interests of the town and as a traveling salesman has met with great success. The firm will begin business Jan. 1st and will occupy the third floor of the Adams building, where the machinery for the manufacturing of skirts will be installed.

In the custom department, which now occupies the second floor of this building and which will be enlarged and in the factory department there will be employed at least seventy-five ladies, as soon as the factory is put in operation; 50 will be employed in the skirt department and 25 will be employed in the custom department. The machinery, especially made for this purpose, has already been ordered and will be installed and ready for work by Jan. 15th. The motive power will be electricity, which will be obtained from the Spencer Mountain Power Company, through the town of Gastonia. An electric elevator will be installed to carry freight and passengers from the first to the third floor.

It is the intention of the company to put salesmen on the road and the goods manufactured will be placed with firms in the larger towns and cities of this and many other States. Only a very high grade of goods will be turned out and only a high class of trade will be catered to. It is difficult to attempt to estimate with any degree of accuracy the value of this new enterprise to Gastonia. It will serve to advertise it over a large territory as the only town in North Carolina where ladies' garments are manufactured. The company has a large capital and, being backed by men who know the business and who have attained success, there is not the least doubt that the product of the new factory will, in a very short time, win a reputation which will increase the demand for Gastonia-made garments to such an extent that the company will have to enlarge its factory and increase its output. The Gazette extends the glad hand to the Yeager-McLean Manufacturing Company and expresses the hope that it will more than realize all its hopes of success.

To Use Electric Power.

All the cotton mills at Malden and the Maiden Milling Company on last Friday signed a contract with the Catawba Power Company, headquarters Rock Hill, S. C., to supply electric power to these mills, beginning next June. The Catawba Power Company is now stretching wires to Gastonia and as soon as the mills at that place are equipped, the line will be cheaper for the mills than steam, produced from either wood or coal as fuel.

READY TO OPERATE.

Clara Mill to Begin Operation in a Few Weeks—Electricity Will be Motive Power—A Modern Plant.

The Clara Cotton Mill, on the Carolina & North-Western Railroad, south of town, is ready to begin operation as soon as the power can be furnished. The mill will obtain its motive power from the Spencer Mountain Power Company. The company expects to reach the mill within a few days and the work of starting the machinery will begin.

The mill building is one story, 269 by 75 feet, and is equipped with the very latest labor-saving machinery. The cards and spinning frames, together with some of the other machinery, are the latest products of the Whitinville Machine Shops, while the pickers are of the Kitson type. There are 5,000 spindles, in addition to the twister spindles, which number 4,500. There are also two warpers, one Denny and one Ball. The mill will turn out fine yarns 40's to 60's both ply and single.

Throughout the mill there are placed 13 motors, 22 of 20 horsepower and one of 50 horsepower. Each motor will drive a certain portion of the machinery, which will enable any part to be stopped without interfering with the others.

The mill site includes 25 acres of land on which there has been built a neat little village of thirty houses, conveniently arranged for the comfort of the operatives. Mr. C. M. Dunn is superintendent and Mr. Stamey Smith will be overseer of carding. The other foremen have not yet been selected.

PARSON HEMPHILL'S MISSION.

He Will Go to Gastonia to Preach and Pasture Among the Wicked of That City.

The Rev. Alexander Hemphill, a colored divine of peculiar cut, has gone to Gastonia, where he will pasture and preach for several months. People who stood about the Southern passenger station, early yesterday, saw Parson Hemphill in all of his glory. He was the most interesting character within a block. On his head he wore a silk hat which was handed down from some of his African ancestors. His coat, a greenish tinted frock, licked the calves of his legs and was decorated from lapel to tail with antiquated campaign buttons, badges and pins. On one side were assembled the pictures of the lamented McKinley, the strenuous Roosevelt and a game rooster, while on the other was arrayed a 20th of May button, bearing the face of Charlotte's mayor, and a McCormick advertising plate.

Parson Hemphill, being a quiet man, said but little during his wait at the station, but his eyes were busy, scanning everything that presented itself. When asked where he was going the darkey said: "I'm on my way to Gastonia to preach de gospel to de wicked sons and daughters of dat city."

"What might be your name?" asked an Observer man. "I'm de Rev. Alexander Hemphill, preacher of de gospel and all-round pasteur."
