ale to remain till spring drives m away. They are considered a burden by some, who eary themselves in shiftless and vain efforts to light on some ans of whiling them away nent that will aid them in killing time To the man or woman, boy or girl, who has an eye to the future and who is ready and willing to use the passing moments and days to the best advantage in a way that will add thing to their equipment for the struggle that lies aheadse winter nights are gold mines. They furnish opportunities for reading and study which are invaluable. As hour or two spent each evening to mion with some muster spirit in the literary world can not fail to broaden one's mental borizon and exert sence that will be farreaching in its effects. Good literature is one of the saving s tauding to dam the m which menaces e civilization such as ours. It is a trite saying, repeated often and in various phrases, but it is nevertheless true that no ope ever reads a good book that it es not exert, unconsciously to the reader perhaps, an influence which is lesting. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and it is not intended to be said here that reading should be in-dulged in to the entire exclusion of other and innocent sports and sents. Both body and alud need rest and recreation. But the man or woman, boy or girl, who has several hours of daure every night and doesn't use at least a portion of it is reading, gleaning ideas and in-formation from the field of liter-ature, is doing bimself or herself an injustice one which all future regrets will avail naught in correction.

noted case to be reopened.

According to dispatches sent out from Asheville, William E. ese, W. H. Penland and J. M. Dickerson, the alleged wreckers of the Phys National ank of that city, are sgale to be tried. This aux is somewhat surprising in view of the fact that, after four trials extending over a number of years, the base was thrown out by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Richmond a year or so ago on a technicality. This new trial will be based on a bill of indictment returned below the Poterul Court at Grammboro on which the bank officials in question were never tried and which was never stricker? Thus the doctor, not withstanding the fact that mother and faller bill of indiceest was returned a short time are at Asheville, Pound guilty is more than one of the four trials and sentenced to terms in the Pederal prison at Atlanta, these defendants—or

We believe it a safe assertion, ilso, that many people in this State, especially those conversant with the circumstances and who have watched the progress of the trials and the widence as produced in the courts, are not satisfied. Already the prosecution of these men, according to the state ment of a government official made to a reporter of The Charlotte News, has cost Uncle Sam $70,000. The mere fact that the government is ready to further prosecute the case, thereby incurring an additional expense of several thousands. would seem evidence enough that the United States secret service and the Treasury Department believe the evidence to be convincing and that Breese, Penland and Dickerson should pay the penalty for their alleged crime. The public will no doubt follow the coming trial with a larger degree of interest than ever before. Since the bank failed, now ten years or more ago, these men bave stown older. Middle-aged then, the hand of time has surely been chronicling the passing years on their faces. which was then perhaps sparsely sprinkled with gray is growing whiter. -The receipts on the local cotton market for the past three days were as follows: Tuesday 37 bales, Wednesday 56 bales, Thursday, three bales. The highest price paid for the staple was 10:45.

The hunting season in Gas-ton opens Dec. 1st. There are three townships in the County, Cherryville, Gastonia and Crowders Mountain, in which hunting is barred altogether by special act of the Legislature. This act was to be in force for five years, two of which have passed.

-The Synod of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church convened in annual session yes terday at Camden, Ala. Rev. Dr. R. M. Stevenson, of Clover, is the only delegate from this immediate section in attendance. He left Tuesday night, joining a party at Charlotte, from which place a special car took them through to Camden.

-On page four of to-day's issue is an excellent offer The Gazette is making its subscribers—one well worthy of con-sideration. For the price of the paper for one year, $1.50, paid in advance, you can obtain, absolutely free, Farm and Fireside, a bigh-class semi-monthly paper for the farm and house-hold. This proposition applies to old and new subscribers alike, the only requirement being the payment of one year's subscription in advance.

-"Hints on Banking" is the title of a neat pamphlet which the First National Bank is sending out to its customers and the general public. It contains quite a lot of information which will prove of value and interest to all persons who have dealings with a bank—and that includes practically everybody. YORK AND YORKVILLE.

What's Being Among our Neighbors Just Acress the Line.

Cotton receipts have been very light since the price went below ten cents, and buyers are rather cautions about selling for future delivery, because of the prob-sb.e difficulty of filling orders from this immediate vicinity.

The Bank of Hickory Grove commenced business last week with Mr. N. M. McDill cashier. Mr. S. M. McNeel of Yorkville is president. Western York, especially Hickory Grove, has long been in sore need of banking facilities and this institution will no doubt fully supply that need.

The flower crop was not what it ought to have been this year; but still many of the Yorkville ladies succeeded in producing chrysanthemums that would have probably taken prizes al-most anywhere. That they were unable to get a place to hold their annual show was a pity. The Chester county board of commissioners has decided upon the improvement of the York and Chester road from the town of Chester to the York county line. A movement is now in order to take up the improvement of the road from the Chester line to Yorkville. Other wise Chester will soon be making more extensive inroads into the trade of York county.

Mr. W. Adickes, secretary of Philanthropic Lodge No. 32 A. F. M., has received from Pay-master B. M. Dobson, an in-teresting souvenir of the Holy Land in the shape of a pretty little gavel. The gavel is made of four different kinds of wood, olive, balsam, oak and locust, all from the vicinity of Jerusalem. On the face of the gavel is carved the Masonic emblem, compass, square and G. The souvenir comes as a present to the local lodge.

The cotton ginning plant of Messrs. Porter and James Good, on Bullock's creek, was destroyed by fire last Friday night at about 8 o'clock. The loss was complete, and there was no insurance. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

A letter of Nov. 8, from De Queen, Ark., announces the death at Brownston, Sevier county, Arkansas, on November 5. of John Hudson. The deceased was a native of York county, having been born near Yorkville, December 9, 1824. He was a brother of the late Mrs. W. M. Walker, of Yorkville, and cousin of ex-Judge Joshua Hudson, of Bennettsville. He moved to Arkansas about fifty years ago, and lived there up to the time progressing well, under the di-rection of the contractor, R. M. brother in De Queen, Ark., Mr. Jas. R. Hudson, who is post-master there. Mr. James R. Hudson, was born in Yorkville on November 23, 1838.

Notable Incidents In the Georgia Evangelist's Career.

HOW HE REFORMED A DEUNKARD

Revivaliat's Story of a Man Who Took His Advice Literally and Camp Out Well-Parting Bit of Fun With One of His Audiences-A Sample of His Perceful Language

Some years ago the late Rev. Sam P. Jones, the noted Georgia evangelist, told in Atlanta at the First Methodist church the following story:

"I was making a prohibition speech in Robertson county, Tenn, and nobleared, bloated fellow who was ab three parts drunk, each part a third. talked he would screw his fist into his eyes and wipe away the tears. After the speaking I went to a friend's house perfectly exhausted and lay down. The lady of the house called at the door in a few minutes that a man wanted to see me. "Tell him I am tired." I said, 'and

please excuse me.'
"That is all right,' she said, 'anyhow, because he is a drunken, ragged

"I said: "If he is that sort of a fellow tet him in. I used to belong to that gaug myself, and I never go back on them.' The man came in, and I found ho was the drunken fellow who had listened to me speak.

"He said: 'Mr. Jones, I dou't want any money. Money can do me no good. I am a ruined man. Drink has made me a wreck. A short time ago I had a happy home and household. weeks ago I buried my wife, having crushed every drop of blood out of her heart before she died. My two boys are at the orphans' home in Nashville. One of them is a little blind fellow. My two girls are in Murfreesbore, and this [here he pulled a little black cap out of his pocket], this is the last thing that is left to remind me that I ever had a house stold. It is my little blind boy's cap. New, I do not want any money from you, but I just got an idea from the way you talked that maybe you had some sympathy for me. If you have, pray for me. Goodby. And he started off.

'Hold on bere,' said 1, and 1 called up Mr. Taylor, my secretary, and said. Frank, go uptown with this man and wash him all over with soap and put to foot and bring him back.' In a hour or two be came back, and I did not know him. I had to be introduced to him over. I took out to him and said: 'Railroad fare in it to him and said: 'Railroad fare is to him and said: 'Railroad fare is to him over. I took out $1 and handed this state is 3 cents a mile. Here $1. Now, you get on a train and ride thirty-three miles, no matter in what direction, and get the conductor to put you off in the woods when your thirtythree miles are out, and then you strike out through the woods for a new life.

"The fellow did exactly as I told him. I got a letter from him the other day, and he said that he got into the woods and struck for a new life. He got a school, sent for his children nted him a home and was doing

An ampains incident occurred at the close of Sam Jones' sermon at Pulaski, Tena., one day, says the Hartwell (Ga.) Sun. Stepping down from the pulpit, Probling his hands across his breast and looking solemnly over the audience, the great revivalist said, "I want all the women in this crowd who have not spoken a harsh word or harbored an unkind thought toward their husbar for a month past to stand up." One old woman, apparently on the shady side of sixty, stood up.
"Come forward and give me your hand," said the preacher. The woman did so, whereupon Jones and, "Now twen arrend and let this sudant arrend and let this sudant arrend and let this sudant are

After taking her seat the revivalist addressed the men: "Now I want all the men in this crowd who have not spoken a harsh word or harbored an unkind thought toward or narrows an unant trought toward their wives for a month past to stand up." Twenty-seven great big strapping fellows hopped out of the nucleuce with all the slaceity of champagne corks. "Come forward and give ne your hands, my dear boys." Jones gave each one a vigorofis stake, after which he ranged all of them side by side in front of the pul-pit and facing the audience. He looked them over carefully and solemaly, and then, turning around to the audience.

"I want you all to take a good look at the twenty-neven biggest liars in the state of Tennessoo."

The Rev. Sams Jones was at all times, to say the least, forceful in his lan-guage, says Success. Above all things he phicoted to a pretance of supersaint-liness, his religion being something on liness, his religion being semething on the "shirt sleaves" order.
