MILLINERY OPENINGS.

Gastonia Ladies and Those from Nearby Towns Visit the Millinery Parlors and Feast Their Eyes on the Pretty

This has been the ladies' week in Gastonia. Since Tuesday morning they have had right-of-way as far as Raster hats and other Spring furnishings are concerned. Many have been here from other towns and all were pleased with handsome showings. Below will be found some facts about the several openings not mentioned in Tuesday's paper:

Torrence-Morris Company. Next to her Easter bonnet the thing that is dearest to a woman's heart is her jewelry, and next to the various millinery parlors the ladies yesterday flocked to the jewelry store of the Torrence-Morris Company, where one of the shop windows contains an attractive showing of most exquisite and beautiful of sterling silver, the other being decorated with peach blossoms and artificial lillies. The great-est attraction in the window was the rabbit's nest on wheels drawn by nine little biddies driven by a tenth. Within the nest a glimpse of the eggs only told of the beauti ful attractions within. The ladies went into raptures and exclaimed 'Oh isn't it perfectly lovely and it's only $5 00", as their eyes rested on various locketts, rings, ect., which were shown through the cracks in the broken eggs in the nest. The Torrence-Morris Company know how to please the ladies and they have selected a stock of diamonds, jewelry and silverware for their Easter opening that will please every caller.

Yeager-McLean Mig. Co.

Wednesday and yesterday the interest of the ladies, both of Gastonia and of nearby towns, centered largely at Yeager's, where there was for two days a continuous gathering of the fashionable who came to see the handsome Easter and spring bonnets. The first thing that greets the eye of the visitor to -Miss Sue Stowe, of Belmont, these popular parlors is the was a pleasant shopper in town Wednesday. the show windows one devoted the show windows, one devoted -Mrs. A. dress goods. The one containing the hat display is done in lattice work of white and pink. Just back of a large arch in the center of this lattice work is a figure gowned in pink silk. Above the arch are three open rings, the circular work and decorations being done in pink, many rosettes of this color lending aid to the scene. The opposite window contains a bewitching display of costly trimings draped over silk and Persian wash fabrics, which are themselves thing of beauty. These windows were trimed by Mr. D. Boaz.

This feast at the entrance, however, is only a foretaste of what awaits the spectator within. There one saw, in a bewildering profusion, creations in headwear that are truly artistic and that must indeed have made the hearts of the ladies go pit-a-pat. One of the newest and prettiest in the lot was a natural Leghorn with maidenhair fern appliqued on top and with two large white plumes caught on the side with a pink rose. Another pretty creation is a large black Neapolitan picture hat with black plume and shaded green roses. This is a most attractive hat. Another new style shown this season, and one that is very attractive, is the Airship hat in ecru and black. This department of the Yeager-McLean Mfg. Co. is under the efficient mavagement of MissRoddey.

Jno. F. Love, Inc.

"All roads lead to Love's," someone was heard to remark yesterday and the reporter, watching the entrance to the big department stores for a few moments, was able to believe that only the truth was spoken. The annual Easter or Spring millinery opening at these stores began yesterday with a rush and will continue through to-morrow. When the reporter dropped in or rather ap to the parlors he found there a large number of ladies from Gastonia, Kings Mountain, Clover and other near-by towns, all intent upon looking at and praising the new hats.

Space forbids more than a passing mention of just a few of the beautiful things to be ly be set afire. Kindling wood, seen at Love's. Speaking general excelsion and kerosene oil will erally it may be said that the be used. This is not saying that Mushroom style is all the go the house will be burned up; it this season, both in hats for dress wear and for street wear. One of the prettiest hats on exhibition is one in Mushroom shape, white, with lantern crown, white ostrich plume and white ribbons, with large roundlace applique, long natural grass (green) plume and two shades of chiffon. Still another pretty thing is a black Neapolitan At all grocers.

straw, with applique collar, trimmed in roses and faced with lace. One of the most attractive street hats is a blue straw, mushroom shape, wreathed in cherries (which looked good enough to eat), with blue shaded ribbons and two large stteel pins. One of the most pleasing things in the way of a child's hat is a cream Neapolitan, faced with lace and trimmed in yellow velvet, yellow roses and gold pins. Not the least attractive feature of the opening is the decorations. The color scheme in the parlors up stairs is green and white, a profusion of ferns and potted plants lending a tropical air to the surroundings. The show window, the work largely of Miss Wilma O'Farrell, is a thing of beauty. The background is of crushed tan leather, the decorations being in yellow and green, the latter being of fruits and potted plants. In this window is to be seen a straw Milan in three shades of tan and a child's hat in white Milan, faced with chiffon, trimmed to pink roses and baby ribbon. The mil-linery department of these stores is in charge of Miss Katherine Lease, who is ably assisted by Misses Kate Cody. Mary Tom Gattis, and Wilma O'Farrell and Mrs. J. M. Parker.

To Set House Afire.

There will be something unusual doing at the corner of York and Main streets to-morrow (Saturday) afternoon, at 4 o'clock. Though houses are almost as scarce as hen's teeth the house will be burned up; it will certainly be set afire. This method is taken to demonstrate the value of Gibraltar fire-resisting paint, for which the Gastonia Hardware Company is agent in Gastonia. If you want to see the fun don't forget the time and place.
