YORK AND YORKVILLE

What's Doing Among our Neighbors Just Across the Line.

Yorkville Requirer, 8th.

Mr. F. E. Clinton, of Clover, is assisting in the clerk's office. Misses Bessie Adams and Emma Clinton, of Clover, are visiting Dr. A. Y. Cartwright's family.

Mr. W. H. Bradley, formerly of Smyrna, now of Gastonia, was in Yorkville yesterday, having come down to see some of his former neighbors. Mr. Bradley is a good carpenter but rather likes farming the best, and probably is that he will make up his mind to return to his old home near Smyrna.

The election of Co. "L" yesterday for the selection of a second lieutenant, resulted in the choice of Mr. B. F. Smith.

Yorkville was full of people yesterday on account of the great rally of the Woodmen. They came from all parts of the county and included many from counties adjoining.

The Junior Order picnic at Clover yesterday was quite a success from every standpoint. There were present about 700 people. Speeches were made by Congressman Finley and Rev. Mr. Hoke of Blacksburg. There was a splendid picnic dinner and just plenty of it. The day passed off pleasantly, everybody having a good time.

The round of amusements yesterday was wound up last night with a big dance in the opera house. There were numerous couples on the floor and the occasion was very much enjoyed.

The Neely Manufacturing company reconsidered its at first declared purpose to pay a 3 1/2 per cent dividend and afterwards decided to pay 4 per cent. Checks have been sent out on a basis of the declaration last referred to.

The first cotton blooms of the season were mentioned last Tuesday. During the same afternoon, Messrs. R. E. Heath and J. L. Sanders, who had been in the southwestern part of the county, brought a bloom from the farm of George Wade, colored. On Wednesday, Mr. W. L. Jackson of Yorkville brought a stalk containing 26 squares and a few blooms. Quite a number of farmers say their cotton is looking well.

Thousands of people saw it and everybody was delighted, for it was really a magnificent affair, the trades display in Yorkville yesterday. There were people here from everywhere throughout this section to see it. They had been told that it would be worth their while, and they were expecting something out of the ordinary; but they were hardly prepared for such an elaborate and extensive pageant as was presented. Many of them had seen such displays in surrounding towns, and they had their own ideas as to what Yorkville would probably be able to do. They were hardly prepared to see the complete undoing of all previous achievements along this particular line in this section; but everybody was generous enough to concede full credit, and the general verdict was that display generally was up to the most exacting requirements of such undertakings.

YOUNG MEN'S SUNDAY.

July 14 will be observed as Such by the Churches of the City.

Mr. G. C. Huntington, Inter-State Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of North and South Carolina, has been in the city recently and has arranged with the pastors to observe Sunday, July 14, as a young men's Sunday.

A mass meeting for men will be held at the Presbyterian church in the afternoon. Mr. A. C. Bridgman, of Columbia, S. C., one of the field secretaries of the inter-State committee, will address this meeting. At night a union service will be held at the Methodist church with short addresses by the visiting secretaries. A number of the churches will unite in this service and at the morning services of these churches the need of special effort for young men will be the theme of the sermons.

The inter-State secretaries are holding these services nearly every Sunday in the cities and towns of the Carolinas and are receiving the cordial approbation of pastors and people.

The object in view is to stimulate interest in the welfare of the young men of the Carolinas but not ordinarily to push the organization of associations.

THE SOUTH'S MENACE.

Destruction of Forests Threatens Calamity to Our Industries.

Charlotte Chronicle.

In an article on the Jamestown Exposition, The Wall Street Journal marvels at the display made by the South. "The thing that will surprise most people," it says, "is the great variety of products which the establishments of these agricultural States are now putting upon the market. Many of these products a dozen years ago were made in the Northern, Eastern, or Western States and shipped into Southern markets. Now this process is reversed, not only in textile industries but also in woodworking manufactures. The Southern States are not only supplying their own needs but are furnishing many of the densely populated sections of the rest of the country with all that the capacity of their establishments permits."

Forestry and Irrigation, a publication whose mission is indicated by its name, takes occasion to get in a word for the Appalachian Park. "The present progress of the South is wonderful," it says. "We must not, however, overlook the fact that the very life of all that section south of the Potomac and Ohio and east of the Mississippi is intimately bound up with the preservation of the Appalachian Mountain forests; that these forests are going; that the experience of Europe, including France and Switzerland, proves beyond all question that forest destruction bears calamity in its train, and that no adequate method of preserving mountain forests has yet been discovered other than that of State or national ownership and administration. Unless the Appalachian bill shall soon become a law, the prosperity and progress of the South are already doomed." That is the evidence of the people of both the Southern and New England States, of the President and practically all of his cabinet—of both branches of Congress—of everybody, in fact, except Speaker Cannon. There is perhaps no other such case in the history of this country—that of a single man holding up a bill in the passage of which the entire country is interested.

Fractured Arm and Ribs.

Mr. Henry Craig had the misfortune early yesterday morning to break his right arm and fracture several ribs. Mr. Craig was at work on the new residence of Mr. Robert Warren when he slipped and fell from the porch causing the above injuries. Drs. R. M. Reid and Mc. G. Anderson were called and dressed the wounds and Mr. Craig is resting well to-day.

Judge Selected.

Mr. F. J. Marshall, of Atlanta, Ga., was yesterday selected, by the executive committee of the Gaston Poultry Association, as judge of the second annual exhibit to be held here the first week in January. Mr. Marshall was one of the poultry judges at the St. Louis Exposition and is booked as one of the judges at Jamestown. He is a poultryman of experience, and the association is to be congratulated in securing his services.

Retailing Case.

The only case on docket yesterday morning for Mayor Armstrong to try was that of Gorman Black, a young white man of the Trenton Mill, who was charged with retailing. The evidence in the case, however, was not sufficient to hold him and the case was dismissed. This is the second time that Black has been in court recently, a charge of larceny, against him, was likewise dismissed last week.
