THE FARMERS' UNION.

In every line of trade and industry the order of the day is organization. The only member of the great industrial family who has persistently refused to fall into line with this movement toward closer organization has been the farmer.

The time has come, it would seem, when all conditions are right for the complete success of such a movement as is contemplated by the Farmers Unions now being organized.

MUCH CONCERN FELT

Ordinary Methods for Treating Catarrh Prove Unsuccessful.

Recent statistics showing an increase in catarrh have shaken the confidence of medical men in the usual prescriptions for safeguarding human health from the ravages of this disease.

When stomach dosing proved ineffective, it was natural to look for some other treatment, and it is believed that in Hyomei an absolute cure for all catarrhal troubles has at last been found.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, and is sold by J. H. Kennedy & Co., under an absolute agreement to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

When Judge Landis Began to Practice.

"All a man needed to practice law in Indiana," says Judge Landis in an article by John T. McCutcheon in Appleton's Magazine.

After a short time, by a simple and direct process of reasoning, he arrived at the conclusion that something besides age and a moral character is required by one who would be a successful lawyer.

"I was very weak on 'pleading and real property,'" he says, "and when the time for examination approached I knew that I would have to show my hand."

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

The present conference year closes about the middle of November, when the Western North Carolina Conference convenes in annual session at Salisbury.

Sense and Sentiment.

From the Editorials of Joel Chandler Harris in Uncle Remus's Magazine for October.

The farmer used to think that money could buy everything worth having. That was years ago, and he is heartily glad that the illusion has been dispelled.

It is altogether a queer chase that changing taste leads us, and we never discover how futile it is until we find the fruits of the pawnshops set up in our houses.

We throw away in one generation what the next will covet, so that we never know when we are outraging posterity, and we never discover the extent of it until we find our grandchildren haunting the auction shops.

"I'm all right when thar aint no campaign in sight, but just let me hear some fool politician wi' a hoarse voice rise an say 'My fellow-countrymen,' an I git to be as big a crank as any of the balance of 'em."

"Even sech a little thing as a city has got to have a government run by decent men in the name of the law.

What is to be will be, ef it never happens, an blessed is the man that can set down to fried chicken, cornbread and 'butter-milk at dinner, an' to a dish of fried greens at night."

"Thars a whole passel of people livin' under the flag who fondly beleive that wharsoever thar's law, wi men to execute it, thar can't be no liberty. Well we've got to reckon wi' that stripe of fellow-citizen, even ef we set up at night buildin' jails an' drawin' up the by-laws of new chain-gangs."

"Took an Operation." Fairbrother's Everything. One of our esteemed exchanges records the fact that a fellow citizen has just left a hospital, "where he took an operation for appendicitis."

Heretofore people who underwent an operation possibly did so upon advice of friends and physicians. But here was a man who "took" the operation and recovered. Whether he took anything else was not stated—but a man who would take an operation for appendicitis at a hospital will bear watching.

One policeman was killed and several wounded in attempting to quell a negro riot in New Orleans last Friday night.

little house-maid says showers of pretty things at our store. Mrs. homelover: furniture, like clothing, wears out. you won't care if the neighbors do come, if you have just fitted out the house with nice new things, will you? when you start to look around you will stop just as soon as you come to our store, because you will see that our furniture is not slung together but strongly and handsomely made. so why not come straight to us at the beginning? yours truly,
