WOMAN'S SUPERIOR NERVE.

The Women in the Wreck at Rudd Composed and Patient, but the Men Greatly Excited.

Speaking of men and women's suffering, Mr. Charles C. Benbow, who was in the wreck Thursday night and was of great assistance in organizing a rescue force and aiding in getting the dead and injured out of the cars, returned last night from New York. He has a badly marked and bruised nose and eye caused by being thrown across the aisle of the sleeper, the shock coming just as he was disrobing to go to sleep. Mr. Benbow says that not a single woman of those hurt screamed or cried out, while the men were uttering agonizing cries. While the work of rescue from the debris was in progress the ladies, he says were perfectly composed and patient, while the men were excited, hysterical, some profane and all intolerant of the necessarily tedious process of extricating them without additional injury. He is profuse in admiration of the splendid nerve shown by Mrs. Mary Benton Davis, the Winston bride of a few hours. She was completely covered by the telescoped seats, and while he was trying to get her out, one of the injured men began cursing for his wasting time there. With an oath the impatient man declared the woman was dead and attention should be paid to the living. The body all crushed between the seats, did appear to be lifeless, but when the assertion that she was dead was made, the motionless body gave several spasmodic jerks of a foot that was free. As soon as she was extricated and her head placed to the window, she revived and her first question was, "Oh, is my husband killed? Where is mother? Where am I?"

A glass of whiskey was poured down her throat, and she did not forget to say "thank you" as she temporarily lost consciousness. At the same time, the husband, who was but slightly hurt, was crazy with excitement, his chief concern naturally being for the welfare of his wife. But it was difficult to control him, as well as those men more seriously hurt.

Sherrill-Little. Invitations reading as follows were received in Gastonia Tuesday:

Death of Dr. J. L. Beam.

Dr. J. L. Beam, a prominent and popular physician of Crouse, who has been desperately ill at the Lincoln Hospital for several weeks with typhoid-pneumonia, died Friday afternoon at 4:30 and was buried Saturday afternoon at Bethpage church, the services being conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. H. Kohn, assisted by the Rev. M. B. Clegg, of Crouse. Dr. Beam was in his 39th year and was a man of fine character and winning personality. A large crowd attended the funeral. The pall-bearers were the physicians of Lincolnton, Drs. J. W. Sain, John B. Wright, J. S. Wise, R. W. Petrie, L. A. Crowell and George H. Costner. Dr. Beam was brought to Lincoln Hospital Sunday, September 1st, and the following Thursday his little son, a bright lad of 7 years, was also brought to the hospital, suffering with peritonitis. The little fellow died on the 9th of October, and was buried without his father being told of his death.

Principal Resigns.

Prof. C. A. Fellows, principal of the Kings Mountain graded school, tendered his resignation to the school board last Wednesday night, giving as his reason for resigning his inability to manage some of the boys. Prof. Fellows is a very quiet gentleman and preferred to resign rather than to have trouble with pupils and parents. The school board is making strenuous efforts to find a suitable teacher to fill the vacancy. The position pays $100 per month.

Donnelly and Hatfield.

Among the many fine dancers with the Donnelly and Hatfield Magnificent Minstrels which are here Friday, November 1st, the Brockaway Brothers must not be overlooked. These nimble footed terpsichorean artists have a very clever number in the Minstrel First Part which they execute with consummate grace and skill. Gov Bowen, known as "that long, lanky fellow with the slow drag", does a dance in the first part, and Tommy Donnelly and Nick Hufford throw their feet around in a most eccentric fashion. Dancing is also one of the features of "The Georgia Blues" the curtain descending on the squad of darky recruits as they are enjoying an old-fashioned "Negro ring around."

MAKE IT YOURSELF.

Says Many Persons Here Can Be Made Happy Again By Using This Home-Made Mixture.

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer: Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering later while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

Lashed Away the Danger.

An old traveler tells of an experience of his in mid-winter. The day was foggy, and most of the passengers were below listening to a particularly fervid gospel meeting in the saloon. Suddenly and without the slightest warning there was a terrific crash and the engines stopped. Every one rushed on deck. The steamer had run into a lee-ship.

They only knew what danger had been close at hand when the vessel struck by the lee-ship. The passengers were all crowded to the deck. The lee-ship was a small tug, and the collision was a serious one. The tug was carrying a large quantity of lumber, and the collision resulted in the loss of the tug and its cargo.

"Bog pardon" said the captain, "I have a cash here."

And in the general lough the din of the night was averted.

Could Not Risk It.

A dealer in real estate tells of a story. A middle aged widow came to his office to try to make arrangements for the purchase of a house and lot. "We can make a small payment down," she said, "and would sign a mortgage funding for a period of the year to secure the payment of the rest of the money. My daughters have good positions as bookkeepers in a large mercantile establishment and can save enough out of their salaries to meet the payments as they become due."

"I should want to be sure of you paying for the property in the stipulated time," he said. "I should feel like a criminal if I had to foreclose the mortgage at any time—and yet business is business, I shall have to see your daughters."

She brought them to his office the next day.

"Madam," he said, shaking his head, "you will have to give me some additional security. Your daughters are too handsome. They will marry and lose their jobs long before the five years are up."

BARN BURNED.

Mr. R. C. Ormand Loses Barn, Live Stock and Feed—Origin Unknown.

Mr. R. C. Ormand, who lives about one mile east of Bessemer City, had the misfortune Saturday night to lose by fire his barn, three mules, three cows, one calf and a large amount of roughness. Nine bales of cotton which were stacked in the barn lot near the barn caught fire but were saved, suffering only slight damage.

The origin of the fire is not known. Mr. Ormand had finished milking and feeding his stock just a short time before the flames were discovered. He and Mrs. Ormand had left home only a few minutes to go to the home of her father, Mr. Sid Shetley, about two miles away. When some distance away they saw a light in the direction of their home but, thinking it was the woods afire, they proceeded. Neighbors discovered the fire and saved the cotton but the barn, live stock and feed were all destroyed. It is not known whether Mr. Ormand carried any insurance.

This is the fifth building Mr. Ormand has lost by fire within the past five or six years. He has lost two barns, two dwellings and a corn crib. The origin of the fire is shrouded in mystery. The flames originated in the loft in some way.

CLEVELAND CULLINGS

Cleveland Star, 25th.

Prof. John B. Carlyle of Wake Forest College was here this week visiting the loyal supporters of the College in the interest of the Endowment Fund. He expressed himself as being pleased with the result of the canvass thus far, and hopes to increase the fund $150,000 easily.

The bride-elect is Miss Lena Stover, of Luray, Virginia. The date set for the nuptials is November 26th. Miss Stover is a member of one of the best families of the Old Dominion, a woman of the highest Christian type, cultured and refined. She will be a most worthy helpmeet to this consecrated minister in the great work he is accomplishing in far away China. Immediately after the ceremony they will come to Shelby and spend Thanksgiving Day with the groom's aged parents, our esteemed friends, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Bostick.

President Charles C. Blanton, of the First National Bank, spent Sunday in Kings Mountain attending the Lutheran Synod. Judge Jas. L. Webb left Sunday afternoon for Lumberton, where he will preside this week over Superior Court for Robeson county.—Sheriff A. B. Suttle is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Lelia Forbes, in Greenville, this State. He expects to return about Tuesday next.—Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Carpenter spent Monday of this week in Cherryville where Mr. Carpenter has business interests.—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Reed have returned from a pleasant visit to relatives at Long Shoals.—Mrs. Fred R. Morgan and little daughter, Miss Margaret, of Double Shoals, spent Thursday and Friday here with Mrs. Thos. Ewers.

Missionary Service.

The Sunday school and preaching services were combined into one service Sunday at the Main Street Methodist church and a good congregation was present to hear Miss Della Wright, a missionary of the Woman's Board of the M. E. Church, South, who is at home from Brazil on a vacation. Miss Wright addressed her talk chiefly to the children of the Sunday school, but the information she gave was of great interest to all her hearers, old and young alike. She spoke first of the geography of Brazil and of the customs of the people, describing especially the life in the average Brazilian home. Passing then to the religious life of the people she told how thoroughly the whole population is dominated by the Roman catholic priesthood and how densely superstitious the people are. Miss Wright showed by her talk how deeply engrossed she is in the noble work of carrying enlightenment to darkened lives and homes of these benighted people. She was given the best of attention and doubtless her address will result in a greatly increased interest in the cause of missions on the part of many who heard her.
