

Simply to Remind You

Our store is too well known as the place to supply your needs in reliable merchandise at the lowest possible prices to require calling your attention to the fact. But simply to remind you we want to say: There never has been a time when our store was so full of attractive New Spring Goods as at present. Every department is an attraction within itself: New Spring Suits of latest style and best fabric, Shirts and Underwear that beggar description, Shoes to fit all feet direct from the manufacturer and at old prices, and guaranteed both as to material and workmanship. Our Oxfords for Men and Boys, and our Oxfords and Strap Sandals for Ladies, Misses and Children surpass all previous offerings. Our Dress Goods, White Goods and Wash Fabrics cannot but win the approval of the most exacting. Ladies' Muslin Underwear is one additional feature in our business; and Misses Blanche McArver and Myrtle Jenkins will be pleased to wait upon you in this line.

Entertained by Mrs. Sloan.

At her beautiful home on York street Tuesday afternoon Mrs. J. M. Sloan entertained the Tuesday Afternoon Club together with several invited guests. The popular game 42 furnished much pleasurable amusement for the guests. Delicious refreshments were daintily served in two courses. The parlors and halls were prettily decorated for the occasion in violets and ferns. The guests, in addition to the club members, were Miss Eunice Bryan, Mrs. B. T. Morris, Mrs. L. H. Long, Mrs. T. A. Wilkins, Mrs. L. A. Rankin and Miss Estelle Rankin. Mrs. Sloan was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. T. W. Wilson.

High School Magazine.

The Gastonia High School Magazine is the name of a new publication the first issue of which will make its appearance tomorrow or Monday, being now in the hands of the printers. This is the March number and will be followed by the May number to appear during the present school year. It is a bi-monthly and it is the purpose to issue it in the future regularly once every two months during the school year. The editorial staff is as follows: Editor-in-chief, Maude Rankin; assistant, Clara Armstrong; Pierian Literary Society, Margaret Morris and Raymond Ratchford; Athletics, Tollie Little and Itata Wilson; quips and cranks, John Fayssox and Mabel Herman; alumni, Mamie Spencer and Mary Jackson; exchanges, Kirkpatrick Reid, business managers, Otis Lineberger and Francis Whitesides. The subscription price is 15 cents for a single copy or 25 cents for the two that are to appear this year. A more extended notice of the magazine will be given after the publication has made its appearance.

An Early Easter.
Exchange.

A rather interesting train of thought is suggested by the fact that Easter will come unusually early this year—March 27—which, to the minds of some people, predicts an early spring.

The earliest date upon which Easter may fall is March 22, but in a period of more than 200 years the conditions brought it upon that day but once—1816. The dates have been calculated from 1786 to 2013, both inclusive, being 12 cycles of the moon. It may come as late as April 25, as it did in 1886, but it will not again strike that date until 1943. In 1791 it occurred upon April 24, but it will be the year of grace 2011 before it is again as late. The next early Easter will be 1913, when it will fall upon March 23.

Whether the prompt waning of the moon after the sun has crossed the vernal equinox has any bearing upon spring weather is problematical, but there are those who believe weather conditions are more or less dependent upon lunar phases, and shape their season's predictions accordingly. And they may be equally reliable with the groundhog's shadow and the breastbone of the goose.

The day for Easter is the result of an astronomical calculation. It falls upon the first Sunday following the first full moon after the vernal equinox. The sun crosses the spring equinoctial line on March 21. If that day should be a Saturday and the moon reach the full that night, the next day, March 22, would be Easter.

Women Must Wake up to Need of Better Methods.

Progressive Farmer.
Few farm women are idlers, and once relieved of the drudgery which a conveniently arranged and equipped house and kitchen help to banish, they will at once busy their minds and hands with those things which add to the comforts and refinements of the home. Idleness is never desirable, but physical drudgery and the cultivation of the mind do not usually go together. All advancement must come through study and mind improvement; and right here we want to say with all the emphasis possible that the women on the farms must themselves first realize that there is a whole world of scientific knowledge which they can and must know in order to lighten their labors and enable them to fully meet their God-given responsibilities of motherhood and home-making. As yet few of our people have seemed to realize that science (household science) can do as much for our girls as for our boys, in helping them to better fulfill their mission in this life, and as stated, the women themselves must first realize this fact truly and completely before it will be effectively acted upon.

Stand by Your Town.

Gaffney Ledger.
No town, country or community will ever prosper where there is a division of strife of any nature. In helping others you invariably help yourself. "Opposition is the life of trade," and merit wins. No town will prosper and grow where a lack of enterprise and push on the part of its citizens is felt. The true motto of each and every citizen of a town is and should be to assist and help your neighbors, encourage business of all kinds—there's no danger in gorging the market in this line—unite in the matter of improvement in making the town attractive and giving it a home-like appearance. When this is done people from a distance will form a good opinion of the place, and it will be an inducement for them to locate with us and become permanent and substantial citizens.
