Education and Prosperity.

Horace Mann. "An ignorant people not only is, but must be, a poor people. They must be destitute of sagacity and providence, and, of course, of competence and comfort. The proof of this does not depend upon the lessons of history, but on the constitution of nature. No richness of climate, spontaneous productiveness of soil, no facilities for commerce, no stores of gold or diamonds can confer even worldly prosperity upon an uneducated nation. Such a nation cannot create wealth of itself; and whatever riches may be showered upon it will run to waste. Within the last four centuries, the people of Spain have owned as much silver and gold as all the other nations of Europe put together; yet, at the present time, poor indeed is the people who have less than they. The nation which has produced more of the raw material, and manufactured from it more fine linen than all contemporary nations, is now the most ragged and squalid in Christendom."

United States Senator E. D. Smith, of South Carolina, has given out an interview advising the farmers of the South to hold their cotton for 20 cents, which he considers will be a fair price this season.

HELPED BY HUMIDITY.

Many Materials and Products Which Require Moist Air.

There are many materials, operations and products which require special atmospheric conditions for advantage or profitable maintenance. Principal among such operations is the manufacture of textiles, perhaps the largest single industry carried on in factories. In the favored climate of the Lancashire district of England the natural climate affords working conditions equaled in America only on occasional days in certain localities. Even in England, however, there are many days in which the atmosphere is too dry for the best work.

Since textile fibers are increased in strength and elasticity by high humidity and moderately high temperature, breakages are less frequent under proper conditions, and the output is increased. But even before the fiber reaches the manufacturing plant atmospheric humidity plays an important part. Cotton loses weight as it dries out, but more than that, the fibers become brittle and appear shorter and of lower grade than when slightly moistened. Leather, fenders and many other porous substances lose a considerable percentage of weight in drying out, so that the maintenance of average and uniform humidity in the storage rooms has a direct advantage to the owner in maintaining the value of his goods as they lie in the warehouse. Cigars and tobacco lose flavor in dry air and require it to some extent, after loss, by storage in proper humidified rooms. Wooden furniture and musical instruments are sometimes cracked or the finish injured by the dry air of steam heated rooms. All these and other similar goods are advantageously worked or stored in rooms in which the atmospheric humidity is artificially controlled and kept at the most desirable point.—Engineering.

A PIG'S SQUEAL.

It Played a Momentous Part in American History.

The war between this country and England in 1812 was caused by one vote, and, stranger still, the small margin came from a pig getting its head stuck in a rail fence. It was a Rhode Island fence at that, but built much like a Virginia worm fence.

They were having an election of members of the legislature in Rhode Island. One Federalist put off going to the election and left himself just time enough to get there before the polls closed. Just as he got on his horse and started for town he heard a pig squeal. He looked around and saw that the pig had its head jammed into that old rail fence, and anybody who knows anything about hogs knows that the hogs would have eaten that pig up if it hadn't been rescued. The farmer stopped long enough to liberate the pig, and when he got to the polls they were closed. He was too late.

The result was that a Democratic member of the legislature was elected from that district by one vote, and he would not have been elected if that Federal had got there on time. In the legislature a Democratic United States senator was elected by one vote, and that Democratic legislator who had been elected by one vote voted for him.

In the United States senate they voted for the war of 1812 by one vote, and that Rhode Island Democratic senator who had been elected because that pig was caught in the fence voted for the war of 1812.—Popular Magazine.

Not a Waxwork.

The opening of the courts in an assize town in England is always a great day for the residents. The procession to the church, where the judge says his prayers and listens to a homily, the march to the court, with the attendant javelin men and the braying of trumpets—the men in wigs and gowns—fill the rustic mind with the sense of awe and the majesty of justice. It is related in Mr. Thomas Edward Crispe's book, "Reminiscences of a K. C.," that a farmer once took his son into the crown court. On the bench was the Baron Cleasby, gorgeous in scarlet and ermine, statuesque and motionless. The yokel gazed with open mouth at the resplendent figure on the raised dais. Suddenly the baron moved his hand from right to left and left to right. "Why, feyther," said the boy, "it's alive!"

A Friend in Need.

Algie—I say, Fred, you're—aw—a friend of mine, aren't you?

Fred—Sure.

Algie—Then be a good fellow and—aw—help me out. I'd like to have that pretty cousin of yours learn all about my—aw—good points, doncher know?

Fred—I am helping you, old chap. I argued with her for two hours yesterday trying to convince her that you weren't as big a fool as you look.—Chicago News.

Laughter.

Without laughter the human race would have wept itself to death or exterminated itself long ago. Pathos is beautiful; tragedy is absorbing. But both pathos and tragedy are instantly routed by the laugh.

A Memorable Date.

"What member of the class can mention one memorable date in Roman history?" the teacher asked. "Antony's with Cleopatra," ventured one of the boys.—Everybody's.

SYNOD TO MEET IN CHARLOTTE.

Highest Body Among the Seceders to Hold Next Annual Meeting With Chalmers Memorial Congregation.

Charlotte Observer. The general Synod of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church of the South will hold its next annual session in this city with the congregation of the Chalmers Memorial church in Dilworth. This is the supreme legislative and authoritative body among the Seceders and the occasion will be of unusual interest. The Synod will be convened about the middle of November.

This body embraces the entire denomination of the Associated Reformed Presbyterians, and delegations will attend from every State in which there is a branch of this Church, the Southern States, exclusively. Its range does not extend beyond the Mason and Dixon line, the United Presbyterian Church of the North being the identical denomination in that part of the country. Both adhere exclusively and strictly to the use of the inspired psalmody in worship, this being the distinctive principle which sets these two churches apart from other Presbyterian bodies.

The Synod is made up of the ministers of all the congregations, together with a ruling elder, and its sessions generally extend over a week.

The congregation of the Chalmers Memorial church is the youngest in the Synod, but enjoys the distinction of having a place of worship that for beauty and convenience is exceeded by none in the entire denomination. The congregation is yet less than two years old, but is rapidly growing under the ministrations of Rev. R. E. Hough, the pastor, and promises to become one of the strongest in the Synod.
