WILL FLY IN CHARLOTTE.

Charlotte News to Give Flying Machine Exhibition November 10th—Curtiss Bi-plane and Daring Aviator Will Thrill and Delight Thousands. Throughout the Carolinas the most discussed topic is the Flying Machine Exhibition which will be given under the direction of The Charlotte News, at Charlotte, N. C., on Thursday, November 10th. Since the Wright Brothers made their first successful flight among the sand hills of North Carolina, in 1903, the subject of aerial navigation has occupied the brightest scientific minds of the world, and their wonderful achievements in conquering the air have been read with the deepest interest everywhere. Never, until now, have the citizens of this state, in which the first successful flight was made, had a chance to witness the thrilling spectacle of a man-operated machine flying among the clouds with the grace and confidence of a bird. Now, through the enterprise of The News it will be possible for the people of the Carolinas to see the most perfect type of flying machine, the Curtiss Bi-plane, operated by a skillful and daring aviator at Charlotte, on November 10th. Application has been made to all the railroads for special rates for this day, and admission to the exhibition has been placed at a nominal price, 50 cents, so that people far and near may be able to attend this wonderful exhibition at a very small expense. It has been arranged that the first flight will be made at 2 P. M., so that people living at a distance will have ample time to reach Charlotte and not miss any part of the splendid spectacle. Col. Mosby to go on Lecture Platform. Washington Dispatch. Col. John S. Mosby, the noted Confederate cavalry leader, who was dismissed last summer from the Department of Justice on the grounds, it was stated, of senility and incompetence, has just closed a contract with a prominent lecture bureau to deliver under its direction a series of 12 lectures in prominent cities and towns of New England, telling, at first hand, of his experiences during the civil war. Except for one or two lectures delivered 20 years ago, Colonel Mosby has never appeared upon the lecture platform. It is learned that he will receive $200 for each lecture, and that, after the course is completed in New England, it will probably be extended to the middle and western States. —Mr. W. W. McLean, of Waynesboro, Va., spent Sunday and Monday in Gastonia. —The admission to the Floral Fair will be ten cents. Each person paying the fee will be given a badge which will admit them as many times as they desire to go in while the fair lasts.
