The campaign is about over. Next Tuesday, the 8th, is election day and on that day the people will register their wishes at the ballot box. Every Democrat in Gaston county should be at the polls and cast his vote. While The Gazette believes as firmly as it could possibly believe anything that the county will be Democratic by a big majority we take this last opportunity before election day to urge every Democrat to do his part in making that majority as large as possible. Don't rest on your oars. Be out and do all you can to make this the most glorious Democratic victory the county has ever had. The Democratic party has been in power in Gaston for a number of years and under its administration she has moved away up in the list of counties of the State in everything that makes for progress. We have one of the best governed and most progressive counties in the State. Let's keep it so.

Mr. W. E. Gardner, Republican candidate for the State Senate, does not think we made sufficient explanation in Tuesday's Gazette of our quotation from his McAdenville speech. We said exactly what he asked except that, in quoting from his letter from memory, we used the term "reputable Democrat" when it should have been "reliable Democratic authority." As we view it both mean the same thing, so we feel that we are not due Mr. Gardner any further space. He agreed in his first letter to give us the name of his informant but now, in a letter written under date of the 2nd, he declines to do so. Is he afraid to name the "reliable Democratic authority" on which he made the statements we attributed to him and which he does not deny making? He hasn't done so and we take it that he does not intend to. If the authority is "reliable," why should the Republicans be afraid to come out in the open and fight. The truth is some sore-toed defeated Democrat is running around telling his tale of woe to the Republicans and the whole bunch is afraid to let the public know where their "reliable(?)" information comes from.

Promotion Day at First Baptist Church Sunday School.

A year ago the First Baptist church Sunday school effected a much better organization and a very good gradation of the classes. At that time the classes were told that there would be a promotion day once a year. Sunday, November 6th, has been set to carry out this promise. At that time there will be the following promotions, maybe others:

From the infant class to primary department: Eva Holobaugh, Lester Smith, Jennie May Beam, Louie Merrill, Bonnie Norris, Henry Poole, Lucille Thomas, Arthur Whitfield, Merle Sberer, Mary Stowers, Robert Moore. From the primary classes to the intermediate classes: Carl Storey, Burl Stewart, Robert Owen, Ralph Padgett, Eunice Beam, Regina Coon, Lucile Hopper, Macie Parham, Prue Crowder, Lena Smith.

From the intermediate department to the organized classes: Baraca—John Croner, Ralph Kendrick, Kendall Parker, Ray Stewart—Philathea—Georgia Hopper and Java Price.

It is possible that some were absent when the lists were made out or that there was an oversight in some way. These will be corrected Sunday.

There will be special music and several addresses. Everybody is cordially invited. The parents should certainly be present.

Dolls a Fad for Society Women.

N. Y. Dispatch to Baltimore Sun. The latest fad of the woman of fashion is a doll, and, of course, the idea comes from Paris.

The doll is to be taken out riding in motor cars, carried at social functions and when calling on acquaintances.

In Paris for a month women have been carrying large bisque dolls.

The first importation of these dolls arrived here a few days ago. They were brought over by three fashionable Fifth avenue establishments, whose heads believed they could start the style in this country.

Since that time several hundred dolls have been sold to women of social note in this city, who, when buying them stated, that they intended to further the fashion of dolls for grown-up people.

The dolls—all girl babies—are sold at from $65 to $125 each. They are 18 inches high and are dressed in the latest Parisian clothes of the finest materials. The only difference between these dolls for grown up women and those for children is that the Parisian dolls are manufactured of the finest bisque, with composition bodies and joints so made as not to break when moved.

Unlike children's dolls, the eyes of those mature people do not close, but some of the more expensive say "mama" and "papa" when a button is pressed.

North Carolina's Forests and Factories.

Baltimore Sun.

The wide extent of the forests of North Carolina, the variety of its woods and the rapid development of its wood-working manufactories are set forth in a pamphlet just issued by the United States Geological Survey. Reports show that only the cotton and corn crops of North Carolina exceed in value the forest products of that State, which now amount to $15,000,000 a year. Factories that require timber have increased so rapidly that $10,000,000 worth of timber is consumed in the State. The woods found in quantities sufficient for commercial use range from yellow pine to spruce and hemlock, including oaks, poplars, gums, chestnut, hickory, maple, walnut, white cedar and white pine, cypress, birch, sycamore, basswood, elms, cherry and locust. In the eastern section are found the characteristic trees of the Southern coast and cotton country, while in the tall mountains that border on the Tennessee flourish the woods found in Maine and Minnesota.

The manufacture of furniture has become an important industry, and in High Point alone are a half hundred factories, turning out almost everything that can be made from wood—from chairs to street cars.

The well-illustrated pamphlet which sets forth these facts in interesting form is the work of Mr. Roger E. Simmons, of Hagerstown, Md., who is a member of the staff of the United States Forest Service.
