

THE GASTONIA GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1913.

Editor Milton Tiddy has sold The Lincoln County News to Mr. John T. Perkins, of Greensboro, the sale having been consummated Monday. Mr. Tiddy does not state what field he is to enter but intimates that he is to leave Lincoln. He has given the people of Lincoln county a bright, newsy paper. We extend the right hand of fellowship to Brother Perkins and wish for him large success in his new undertaking.

Education in Gaston.

Charlotte Observer.

The Gastonia Gazette is happily in position to make an envious boast: That Gaston county leads the State in the equipment of high schools. The county that challenges the claim should have a caution. Gaston county has modernly equipped high schools at Belmont, Mt. Holly, Bessemer City, Stanley, Dallas, Cherryville and Gastonia. Of Professor Query and his school at Belmont, The Gazette says that in addition to the other up-to-date equipment it has enjoyed, it has been supplied with a chemical laboratory. The high school at Dallas has a similar equipment. Further, in connection with the high school, Professor Query has a night public school, with more than 50 pupils in attendance, taking advantage of the opportunity afforded the boys and girls who labor at the looms and spindles in the day time to acquire an education. It is a fortunate paper that can make out as good a case for its county in the matter of education as The Gazette does for Gaston.

The Cocaine Dealer.

Greensboro News.

Alcohol is bad for a man; opium is worse, hashish and chloral are worse than either opium or alcohol, but John Barleycorn, the pipe and the hypodermic all fade into insignificance beside the "joy powder," the most monstrous drug of them all, cocaine.

Alcohol, opium and the rest, destroy the physical and finally the intellectual man; cocaine destroys the moral man. The commoner drugs poison the body; cocaine poisons the soul. If, as some maintain, the man who sells the first four is guilty of destroying indirectly the lives of his fellows, and therefore is to be classified in the same category with murderers, the cocaine dealer is guilty of destroying indirectly their souls, and is therefore to be classed with no earthly criminal—his chief is Apollyon, angel of the bottomless pit, and his fellows are the bearers of the flesh-fork.

Farmers Get Less Than Half.

The State Journal.

An investigation of prices on the Washington market on August 5th last showed that purchases of eggs, dressed chicken, butter, country sausage, country ham and apples, which cost the consumer $5.82 had been sold by the farmers who produced them for $2.73. On all other articles produced upon the farms, prices ran about the same way, so that a total crop for which the farmers received six billion dollars cost the consumers thirteen billion. In the face of such well known figures as these Theodore Roosevelt said the Democrats were insincere in their intention of reducing the cost of living because the cost of living could only be reduced by taking the protection off of farm products! That is a fair example of the Rough Rider's statesmanship. The farmer gets less than half the price that consumers pay because business is waterlogged with monopoly which is able to take any toll it wishes. Mr. Wilson has dedicated his administration to freeing business. And the tariff and currency measures are but the first steps.

Oldest Living Pythian.

George R. Harding, dentist, Fau Claire, said yesterday, in expressing regret at his inability, on account of the infirmities of age, to attend a rally of Shandon Lodge, Knights of Pythians, that he believed himself to be the oldest living Pythian, says The Columbia State. Dr. Harding said he was initiated into Damon Lodge, No. 2, in Richmond, July 18, 1867. There were but four lodges of Pythians in existence, he said. The fifth lodge was instituted in 1868. He was elected worthy chancellor. In the fall of 1868, a grand lodge was formed, the meeting being held in Alexandria, Va. Hugh Lathram, mayor of Alexandria, was chosen the grand chancellor. He appointed George R. Harding, then of Richmond, vice chancellor, to superintend the five lodges all in Virginia, which Dr. Harding did until the close of the term. Organization of lodges in other States then commenced. Dr. Harding in 1873 went to Long Island.
