

THE GASTONIA GAZETTE. TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1913.

Gastonia and Gaston countians will have an opportunity next Saturday to hear for the first time Mr. Clarence Poe, one of the State's first citizens and a man who has done more than any other one man to advance the agricultural interests of the Old North State.

The Gazette today, for the second time within a few weeks, gives its readers twelve pages instead of the usual eight. This is done in order to carry extra advertising and at the same time give our readers the amount of live reading matter to which they are entitled.

WOMEN ORGANIZE.

Ladies of Belmont Now Have Betterment Association—Mrs. Garrison Tells of Work Done by Gastonia Organization.

Correspondence of The Gazette. BELMONT, Oct. 13.—Last Friday afternoon there was organized in Belmont a Woman's Betterment Association. At the invitation of the teachers in the local schools a number of the ladies of town were present at the schoolhouse and after an hour or so spent observing the work in the various rooms, a temporary organization was effected with Mrs. W. B. Puett presiding.

TOM WATSON IN COURT.

Former Populist Candidate for President to Be Tried Next Week for Sending Obscene Literature Through Mails—Catholics Prosecuting Him.

An Associated Press dispatch from Augusta, Ga., under date of October 12th says: Thomas E. Watson, editor and author, nominee of the Populist party for the presidency of the United States in 1904, will be tried in the United States District Court here during the week beginning October 20 on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails.

The charges against Watson resulted from the publication of articles in two of his magazines denouncing the Roman Catholic Church. In one of these articles he referred to the Church beliefs as "the most profligate of pagan religion."

The articles were published in Watson's Jeffersonian of the July 1911 issue and in Watson's Magazine of the issues of April and May, 1912. Their caption was "The Roman Catholic Hierarchy." "The Deadliest Menace to Our Liberties and Our Civilization."

The editor was indicted by the Federal grand jury here November 19, 1912. In the indictment the alleged objectionable words in the articles were omitted because they were so "obscene as to be offensive to the court if set forth and improper to be spread upon the records of the court."

Watson appeared as his own counsel at the preliminary hearing. In defense of the article he claimed that they could be no more objectionable than certain passages of the Bible. If he were guilty of the charge, he claimed, it would be a violation of the Federal laws to send a Bible through the United States mails.

Counsel for the Government and the defense have agreed to begin the proceedings immediately after the opening of the Federal Court term October 20. This agreement, it is understood, has been approved by Judge Rufus E. Foster of the Eastern District of Louisiana, who will hear the case. Judge Foster was designated to preside at the trial in the place of Judge Emory Speer, the latter having expressed a disinclination to serve while impeachment proceedings are pending against him.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work.

Words of Gold.

Johnson City Staff. Says Major J. C. Hemphill, the famous editorial writer:

"Men are not made good by legislation. Conscience cannot be purified and established by statutory enactment. The State cannot take the place of the family. The old-fashioned American home was the inspiration of the great system of government which has come down to this generation a little frayed at the edges because of the departure that has been made in the living and thinking and praying of the people."

This is a truthful statement and is well worth considering by that class of people who think individual goodness and sobriety can be brought to pass by the "Be It Enacted" route. As the Knoxville Journal and Tribune well says: "The State may aid the family; but it cannot take its place and perform the functions of the family. The boy or young man who is not influenced for good by the good example of those whom he loves, will be hard to restrain from doing wrong by statute. Ever since the occupation of the Garden by our first parents, there has been that in man which resents an order not to do this or that. It is a principle in the human heart that is hard to eradicate. It cannot be done by an arbitrary command coming in the shape of a statute or otherwise."

REACHING THE RURAL COMMUNITY

Retailer Must Help Increase Buying Capacity to Enlarge His Business.

A town don't stop at the city limits, either in the civic or trade relations. The outlying community plays an important part in the circulation of money in the town center. Retailers in the small towns have in the past particularly lacked in getting the trade in the outlying districts. A great corporation of implement manufacturers have taken up a work in the interest of their dealers and it has proven successful to a degree far beyond their expectation. Their slogan is "Cultivate and Educate."

That's why it is up to every retailer to help increase the farmer's buying capacity. This is the age of service. The percentage of business which comes to a man unsolicited is growing less and less every year. The retailer must rush out from the narrow confines of his small surrounding community into the greater fields which lay beyond it.

Why not build now for the future? Why not be a step in advance of the times? The trailer, the man who looks behind, never has traveled the road to success as rapidly as he intimated. Then let each of us be one of the leaders instead of one of the trailers, and take time to give this matter the thought which it deserves.

HE DIDN'T ADVERTISE.

By Robert B. Rogers. A business man in our town. Whose name was U. N. Wise. Revolved one day to this extent. That no more he'd advertise.

Quoth he "I'm sure my wares will sell. For I keep the best supplies. And folks I know will buy of me. So why should I advertise?" No more within the daily press. Or the monthly magazine. Nor in the street cars day by day. "Will my business ads be seen?"

His trade grew dull as time passed on. Finally worry turned him gray. "Oh, why," asked he, "is business thus. As of old why don't I pay?"

His business went from bad to worse. On the shelf his stock would lay. For no one came to buy his wares. So he closed his shop one day.

Marriage at the Loray.

At the home of her mother, Mrs. P. V. Gilbert, at the Loray Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock Miss Luia Burgess was married to Mr. Jesse Ward, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Neill C. Williams, pastor of West End Methodist church. The attendants were Mr. Russell Conrad and Miss Linda Ward, Mr. Fred Burgess and Miss Lucy Conrad. Quite a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties was present to witness the ceremony. Following the marriage a sumptuous supper was served at the home of the bride's mother. The groom is an employe of the Loray Mill.

President Wilson is now planning for anti-trust legislation to be enacted at the regular session of Congress, which begins in December; and in preparation for that work he is discussing the matter with Senator Newlands, chairman of the Interstate commerce committee, and Chairman Clayton of the House Judiciary committee.
