Healthy Marriages.

Biblical Recorder. A good deal of sentimental slush in regard to marriages. eugenics, sex problems, and the like is these days being uttered on the platform and printed in the press. These matters have in the name of false modesty been neglected too long, but it looks as if the pendulim will, as usual, swing too far in the other direction. However, we should get good out of what is going and discard what is unwholesome. One of the sensible things recently said comes from the city of Washington, where a lady physician urges the following methods to prevent the birth of unfit children:

First-Education in sex hygiene, so that the wife may know that the husband has not only wordly capital but 'biological capital.' Second -The application of corrective measures in the economic system that early marriages may be the rule. Third-The creation of a system whereby the woman may have more power of selection in choosing a hus-Fourth-The establishment of widow's pensions, so children may be reared in their own homes. Fifth -More universal legislation against the marriage of persons physically and mentally unfit, preferably segregation, and sterlization laws such as now exist in many States. Sixth -The wiping out of the double mor-

THE YEAR ROUND

WOMAN who has an almost old fashioned faith in Providence keeps what she calls ber "thank offering box." Into this goes through the year, from one Thanksgiving to the middle of the following November, a sum of money for every accident escaped, calamity averted or special joy.

These offerings are not confined to her own escapes, but each time some member of her family bobs up from some threatened woe into the box goes the money offering of thanks.

Not the same amount is given each time, and rarely large sums, for the woman is not rich, but a nice little sum

This is devoted to giving some one a happy Thanksgiving day. It does not always go into the regular channels. As the woman says, the poor and hos pitals are usually well cared for in holiday seasons.

Sometimes a homesick girl in a strange city is given car fare home for the Thanksgiving gathering she would otherwise miss. Once a music lover was given a season ticket to the symphony concerts Again a doctor's bill that had worried a young stenographer who had her mother to support was quietly paid.

In speaking of her pretty custom the owner of the thank offering box said. "Never have I known what thankfulness really meant until I started my box and saw ' loy my thankfulness brings to oth 🤏

Such a box, besides cultivating one's bump of gratitude and making others equally grateful, cannot but afford great pleasure and interest in the spending. It is a gracious thought one more woman could profitably put into

Some Eventful Thanksgivings.

Among the days set apart for thanksgiving which in reality have been days of national sorrow may be numbered that of 1875, when the entire country was mourning over the death of Vice President Henry Wilson, whose remains on the Thanksgiving day of that year were lying in state at Washington: that of 1878, when the German steamer l'omerania, from New York, crowded with passengers, sank off Folkestone, England, carrying to a watery grave fifty souls; that of 1881, the morning of which found the country grieving over the death of President Garfield; that of 1882, when another terrible loss at sea set the country mourning, the steamer Ocean Grove striking on the rocks of Cape Canso and proving a cottin ship to many on board; that of 1885, when the country mourned over the death of Vice President Thomas Hendricks, sleeping his last sleep at his Indian-

"I am sure of it." "That's good. Do you think they will fall much?

"We came down to prospect a bit. There's talk of gold in this claim, and if it's worth our while we may set up for a week or two."

"Oh, then, you'll be here over Thanksgiving, won't you? I'd like to have you all take dinner with us tomorrow

The man looked at his fellows with a curious smlle, half questioning, half incredulous. "It's rather unexpected," be remarked humorously.

"Oh, we're all neighbors out here, you know," Milly explained cordially. My husband would be very glad to have you with us. We are from the east, and we're used to having company for Thanksgiving

"Your husband is a prospector, too, I

"Oh. no. He came out here for his health two years ago, when he was all run down with overwork. We expect to stay here until he's quite well." "We didn't notice any houses as we passed along Where do you live?" "Two miles below here on the Sunrise road, not on the trail. Will you ome over tomorrow?" "Well, being as you're so kind as to take the trouble to invite us, we'll be glad to accept your hospitality and

"Very well 'I shall expect you promptly at 12. There are eight of you, aren't there? I want you all, re member. Now I'll go, for the walk is rather long. You cross the bill and go straight south till you reach the Sunrise wagon road, which will take you directly to our shack, going west. Good night.

Milly returned in great good spirits. Itm looked dubious at first, but he was oath to dampen the ardor of his good little helpmeet by voicing his doubts is to the wisdom of inviting eight strangers to their home.

"I hope we have enough stuff on hand." said cautious Jim "It will take heaps to satisfy eight hungry men. you know.

"Of course we have plenty. We'll kill both turkeys, and I'll make four pies instead of one and two boiled puddings besides. We'll have potatoes and turnips and the canned corn I put up myself and as much cider as they can drink. For dessert we'll have real good coffee and iced cake. Oh, we'll have enough, you may be sure. Jim, you must rig up a table big enough to seat them all."

They worked till bedtime that night, peeling apples, seeding raisins and picking the turkeys. The next morning Milly rose long before dawn and set about her baking and brewing. while Jim put up a big deal table that stretched almost the length of the room, and by noon it was set with all the luscious viands of an eastern Thanksgiving dinner, set with homely platters and dishes, to be sure, but not rougher in appearance than the men who finally seated themselves about the steaming board. Jim beamed hospitably from his place at the head of the table and tried dutifully to "act as if the company belonged there," as Milly had said. The big. black whiskered fellow whom the others addressed as Blaisedale watched Milly curious intentness which made her uncomfortable.

"You're mighty comfortably fixed for these diggings," said he presently, looking about the walls with their homely prints and ornaments

"Yes, we are rather comfortable, thanks to Milly's ingenuity." Jim answered, with a glow of affectionate

"You're lucky to be able to afford such luxuries, for all those fancy fixings are luxuries in Colorado," Blaisedale remarked significantly.

"Yes, I count myself one of the lucklest men in the world. I owe everything to Milly, even my life. I was a poor law student when we were married, and when my bealth broke down she simply took all responsibility into her own hands. It was her money that enabled me to come here. It's her bit of money that we're living on now. All that she has in the world is in the little bank at Sunrise, where she goes once a month to draw the necessary sum for our provisions. But now that I've got to work we're making our way along without much help from the bank. I tell you I hated to use that money bad enough, but if it badn't been for that the Lord only knows what would have become of me."

Milly blushed deeply and becomingly. "Why, it doesn't amount to that," said she, with a snap of her brown fingers. "All the money in the world would be worthless to me if I didn't have Jim." "I've heard a saying about 'a good wife being a treasure," Blaisedale remarked. "Your wife proves the truth of it."

The dinner was a great success Blaisedale, who seemed to exert a mysterious influence over his fellows, grew very talkative and entertaining. He told stories of queer places and queerer people, which savored of familiarity with lawlessness and lawbreakers, but which kept Jim breathlessly interested until the eight strange guests made their adieus. Blaisedale, who was last to go, turned to the threshold and beld out his hand to Milly. "You remind me of some one I once knew," he said simply, "and for her sake I'd like to shake hands with you. Thank you for your hospitality. You won't regret your kindness."

That night when Jim and Milly sat talking beside their cheerful bearth a scrap of white paper crept mysteriously under the door coping. Jim rose burriedly and threw back the door, but no one was in sight and not a sound broke the deep stillness of the icy night. Milly rend the note over his shoulder, and this is what it said:

Some curious whim prompts me to tell you that it was our intention to break into and rifle the little eggshell bank at Bunrise before quitting these diggings, but for the sake of Milly's "bit of money" it shall go unharmed Thanking you for a REWARD FOR TAR HEEL HERO.

North Carolinian Remembered in the Carnegie Distribution. Pittsburg, Pa., Dispatch, Oct. 31.

Nearly $100,000 is disbursed to heroes or their relatives by the Carnegie Hero Fund commission in its report made public today. The commission distributes immediately $91,000 in awards of $2,000 and $1,-000. There are 16 awards of $2,-000 and 39 of $1,000. The remainder are in awards consisting of pensions ranging from $20 to $65 a month, and in cash sums under $1,-000. In every award a medal is given, either bronze, silver or gold. In a few instances only a medal was awarded.

The highest award, consisting of a gold medal and $2,000 in cash money, goes to Charles N. Wright, a merchant, 38 years old, of Highlands, N. C., who with William L. Dillard, a liveryman, 33 years old, of the same place, helped to save R. Augustus Baty, a carpenter, 26 years old, from a fall down a precipice at that place May 14, 1911. Dillard receives a silver medal and $2,- Baty had fallen from the summit of Whiteside mountain at Fool's Rock, rolled 150 feet down an almost vertical cliff and lodged against a small bush, two inches from the brink of a precipice 2,000 feet deep, part of his body dangling over the edge. Wright and Dillard descended the vertical ledge, their only handholds or footholds being ridges and hollows not more than an inch in height or depth. Wright's wife saw him and began to scream. He was nearly unnerved, but pushed on. Stopping at a tiny bush six feet above Baty, he let his foot down to a ledge two feet above the brink and then grasped Baty's coat collar. Daty gave a sudden jerk, but became quiet when Wright threatened him.

Pinning his legs around the bush, Wright drew Baty up to a place of comparative safety, where Dillard, who had lost his nerve in the final stages of the rescue, was walting. The two men took Baty, who was delirious, 15 feet across the bare face of the cliff, with 18 inches of the brink. Then they moved Baty to the foot of the vertical ledge at the summit, from which point he was hoisted by means of a line. He recovered. The rescue took two hours and 30 minutes.

'Busted" the Nut-Doesn't Know What Happened to the Squirrel ..

Mr. E. S. Pegram, cashler of the First National Bank, is a sportsman and a fine shot. He hunts squirrels with a small rifle and they were telling recently that while a squirre! sat up eating a nut, holding the nut between his paws, Mr. Pegram knocked the nut out of the squirrel's paws with a 22-caliber rifle ball and didn't touch the squirrel. Mr. Pegram; however, modifies the story. He says he was sitting quietly in the woods, waiting for squirrels to come in sight and range when one appeared on the ground with a nut in its mouth. close to Mr. Pegram and didn't see Being in position where ne could aim at the nut, Mr. Pegram took aim and fired. He saw the nut fy into smail articles; the squirrel went up in the air, turned two or three somersaults and hit the ground a-running. Mr. Pegram pursued but the squirrel got under a log and got away. How much that small rifle ball damaged the squirrel if any, Mr. Pegram doesn't know but he does know that he "busted"

The Responsiveness of Children. Luther Burbank.

I love the blue sky, trees, flowers, mountains, green meadows, sunny brooks, the ocean when its waves softly ripple along the sandy beacn, or when pounding the rocky cliff with its thunder and roar, the birds of the field, waterfalls, the rainbow, the dawn, the noonday and the evening sunset, but children above them all. Trees, plants, flowers, they are always educators in the right direction; they always make us happier and better, and, if well grown, they speak of loving care and respond to it as far as is in them power; but in all this world there is nothing so appreciate as children,these sensitive, growing creatures of sunshine, smiles, and tears.

Nine students of Wofford College, Spartanburg, S. C., six seniors and three juniors, were suspended Tuesday from that institution because they joined a Greek letter fraternity, which is forbidden by the trustees. It is stated that the boys will be taken back if they quit the fraternity by January 1. They say they are not going to do it.

Iredell County's Farm Life School seems to be a success from the start. The school is located at Harmony and it has been found that the people of the community cannot take care of all who want to take advantage of the opportunities offered by the school. So it has been found necessary to erect a dormitory for this purpose and the board of county commissioners, at their meeting Monday, appropriated the sum of $1,000 to aid in this work. Gaston county had an opportunity to get one of these schools but declined it by a large majority.
