144TH INSTALLMENT. Locals.

(From The Gazette of Nov. 6, So.) Mrs. C. P. L. Hoffman, of Dallas. was in our office yesterday.

Mr. J. G. Gullick, of South Point township, was in town yesterday. Charlotte, having "busted on her street railway scheme is now considering the electric light. Mr. Charlie Huss has accepted position at the depot under Mr. O.

M. Gaines. A good appointment. We are pained to hear of the death of Mr. Nathan Armstrong, Sr., near Lowell, which occurred on Wednesday morning. Parties interested will read the notice signed by J. G. Gullick, administrator upon the estate of Ann M. Friday, deceased.

The paintings of Mr. Butts, exhibited here on last Monday and Tuesday nights, were well patronized by the people of the town and vicinity Mr. Butts is an artist of decided merit

Going West.

(From The Gazette of Nov. 6, '85.)

Messrs, J. M. and O. P. Rhodes and John Lineberger, of Dallas and vicinity, will leave about the 20th inst. for Minnesota. If they are pleased with the country they will probably move out there to live. We wish them a pleasant trip, but do not like to hear of citizens of this State seeking homes elsewhere. North Carolina needs all of her sons, and we hope the gentlemen will return to the "Old North State.

Dr. E. E. Boyce.

(From The Gazette of Nov. 6, '85.) The Statesville Landmark of last week contained the following notice of our townsman, Rev. E. E. Boyce:

"In the communion service of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, which embraced last Sunday. the pastor was assisted by Rev. E. E. Boyce, D. D., of Gastonia. He charmed the congregation by his preaching. His series of sermons was remarkable for the ability which they displayed and their elegance of diction, and it will be long before Dr. Boyce

SITUATION SERIOUS IN SWEDEN

(By Karl H. von Wiegand, International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. - "If the American people expect that Sweden can be forced to break with Germany and enter the war with all its miseries, either on the one side or on the other, they do not know Sweden's will be disappointed This is the statement made to me in Stockholm by a high official the day I left for America. "It is quite impossible — yes quite impossible," he said with emphasis. 'You do not understand the difficulties of our position between 'two Disagreed as they may be on fires.' some points, the Swedish people are in absolute accord and unity to preserve our neutrality to the end of the war and unalterably opposed to entering the war. Even the opposition or so-called Pro-Ally party, which is very strong in Sweden, does not want to enter the war, and on that point is in accord with the government Only one thing can bring Sweden into this conflict and that is, if one or the other side attacks or invades us. That and that alone With our difficulties and miseries already great, with the horrors of war so close before our eyes for three years, we would be nothing short of madmen to plunge into this conflict which could only increase, not diminish, our miseries and sufferings and in which Sweden could only lose and gain nothing." If I were permitted to quote the official by name, the importance of the statement would be seen. But he insisted that he was talking privately and not officially. I touched upon Sweden breaking relations with Germany or closing her borders to the central empires. Impossible quite impossible. We are too dependent upon Germany for certain things, especially coal-things we must have to live.' The question, much talked about in Europe, whether an absolute agreement exists between the three Scandinavian countries to jointly maintain neutrality and not to act singly. the official declined to discuss. That some such agreement, whether only a "gentleman's agreement." or something more formal, does exist, I was assured in well-informed circles, both in Copenhagen and in Stockhalm. Sweden with an effective army as large as that of both Norway and Denmark, undoubtedly better equipped and far better supplied with guns and ammunition than either, can be said to practically dominate the Scandinavian situation. Danish officials frank ly told me that Denmark would last about two weeks if it entered the war against Germany, even in the present stage, without other assistance. They professed to believe that Denmark' entrance in the war could only serve to strengthen Germany's position strategically and help her out greatly

Mr. George F. Bason.

(From The Gazette of Nov. 6, 840) The people of Gaston county generally will be glad to hear that there is a probability of the appointment of Hon. Geo. F. Bason, of this county. to the office of Assistant District Actorneyship. Mr. Bason is the choice of District Attorney Jones. He will make a good officer, and will, no doubt, appreciate the position as much on account of its having come to him unsolicited as for the other inducements that make the position a desirable one. By-the-way, if the appointment should be made, it will be the second time within a year that an office has sought Mr. Bason.

Whiskey's Work.

(From The Gazette of Nov. 6, '85.) At a corn shucking in Lincoin county, near therryville, a man under the influence of whiskey attacked and severely cut Mr. Jonathan Harvey, a citizen of this county. Waiskey generally gets in some ugly work: but, may be, the day will yet come when the good and true people of the country will unite in some way to drive it from the land.

Woe unto him who putteth the bottle to his neighbor's mouth and make him drunk also.

Still Progressing.

(From The Gazette of Nov. 6, '85.) It is generally a cold time when we do not find something to report every week that indicates that are progressing.

This week it is our pleasure to say that a gentleman from Denver, in Lincoln county, named Kidd, has rented the storehouse of Mr. A. M. Smyre and the residence of Mr. Miles Hanna and that he is going into the mercantile business in our jown, and will move his family here and locate with us.

of 600,000 men in the field. In organization, drill, discipline, equipment and appearance, they remind one strongely of the German army. The Swedish troops make an excellent impression. In artillery and in aviation the Swedish army is so far ahead of the Danes and the Norwegians, that there is no comparison. It is easy to see why Norway and Denmark can hardly make so vital a move as entering the war without knoiwng what Sweden would do.

Sweden's position. He turned to his desk and drew out a mass of official data and figures, which is explained and cited in detail. The following are some of the official figures and data given me:

The chief scarcities in Sweden are quires 400,000 to 450,000 tons of coal per month to keep her railways and industries running and for other domestic purposes. Before the war by far the greater part of her coal came from England. Since the war, and especially after the beginning of submarine war, she has had to rely on Germany.

In 1911 Sweden imported from England 4.110,032 tons of coal and coke as against only 117,212 tons from Germany. In 1914 from England 4,682,501 tons as against 335. 132 from Germany. In 1915 Sweden's coal supply from England had In that year dropped by one-half. she imported 2,173,634 tons of all varieties of coal and coke from England as against 2,815,730 tons from Germany, in 1916 from England

1.707.310 tons as against 4,380.57 from Germany. This year no coal whatever was obtained from England in the months of February and March when the ruthless submarine campaign began, a small amount in April and May and a little more in June The present agreement between Sweden and Germany calls for a mintmum of 150,000 tons of coal per month. The Germans have fulfilled their agreement. This together with what was imported from England in May and June is about one-half of the amount required.

Were Sweden not obtaining any oal from Germany, the street rallways and private railways in the country would have to suspend within one month, the state railway systen, within three months, which together with industries which would have to shut down in consequence. would throw more than a quarter of a million men out of employment. This is the statement made to me upon the basis of figures shown. About 8,000 men are employed in the Swedish ore fields and 14,000 in the paper pulp industry. English coal is commanding a price of 270 shillings per ton in Stockholm as against German coal at 80 shillings.

That Sweden is exporting large quantities of iron ore to Germany, was frankly admitted. It was delared that ore is a domestic product. that Sweden has a right to export it and that she is exporting it not only to Germany but to England. It was declared that Swedish steel is the chief source of supply for the Sheffield fine tool industry. Also 350,000 tons of ore had been exported to the nited States this year.

Iron ore, it was explained, is one of the "compensations" insisted upon by Germany. No ore from Sweden, no coal, no salt, no medicines, no dyes, no chemicals from, Germany, is the latter's ultimatum.

It was also frankly stated that a certain amount of copper and brass but explained that this was for the manufacture of copper and brass ar-Denmark, but no bread cards in Nor-Denmark, but no bread cards in Nor-

"There is, even now, a wide lack of appreciation of the fact that the country is in danger, the pernicious fatuism that 'of course we could lick coal, wheat and fodder. Sweden re- | all creation and not half try' is hard to eradicate. Had we entered the war at the start and done then exactly what we have started to do now. we mgiht have made the winning of the war by the allies assured; but now it may very likely be too late.

> "No statesman, no philosopher, no prophet has yet, to my knowledge, foreseen or foresaid that if Germany wins the war, which means the winning of world domination, nothing ever afterward can break that donination.

Once the German yoke shall have been forced upon the world's neck, it will then be beyond the power of any people to throw off that yoke.

Sweden imports from Germany all the fine copper wire nets used in the making of wood pulp. Sweden has never had the facilities for manufacturing these conner nets which require a special process. For this and for machinery with brass bearings. Sweden furnishes the German manufacturers with the amount of copper returned to Sweden as manufactured article together with a specified allowance for wastage.

Touching upon Sweden's mercantile marine, the following figures were given: Sweden has a total tonnage of doutono dead weight or "loading Of this amount, 262,000 tons tons. are held in British ports, and 170,000 tons in other ports controlled by the Allies. Sailing in the service of the Allies are 125,000 tons of Swedish ships, 210,000 tons have been lost and sunk since the beginning of the var and between 200 and 300 lives last

That Swedish ships were reluctant to sail to England, was explained on the ground that they had to run the risk of being torpedoed, and if they did reach British ports, they were impressed into service and compelled to make a voyage to France or Italy be fore allowed to return to Sweden with coal or other cargo. It was stated that over $50,000,000 worth of Swedish goods were tied up in British ports. The Swedish trans-Atlantic passenger steamer "Stockholm." was pointed out, was held in Halifax from February until the middle of July. Sweden is very hard up for cot-Whether the action was based ton. upon evidence or belief, that Sweden was letting imported cotton reach Germany, the fact is that England has allowed little or no cotton to get into Sweden for more than a year.
