ALONG BANKS OF YSER EFFECTS OF WAR ARE SEEN.

(By The Associated Press)

DIXMUDE, Belgium, Sept. 22.—Lining the banks of the Yser river, far as the eye can see, are the trenches which for so many months during the war were occupied by the Belgians and German armies, the Belgians on the south bank and the Germans on the north. They still bear many marks of shell and rifle fire, and moulting strawling on the damp floors still convey some idea of the hardships to which the soldiers were subjected.

On the German side of the river is a dugout, built to resist the heaviest projectiles, and cool even on a hot day. It was a favorite gathering spot for the Germans when the fighting was fiercest, but now serves the most useful purpose of a refrigerator. Instead of the bunks and chairs which once lined its sides one now sees pile upon pile of beer cases, filled with refreshments for the soldiers guard at work cleaning up the ground.

Behind the dugout, the bodies of three soldiers—two Belgians and one German—were buried on the bank of a tiny pond, made by bursting shells. Little crosses marking the resting place and over them poppies nod.

Along the Yser one may plainly see the effects of the hard fought battle. Here and there the top of a dugout has been crushed in, and further along the duckboards from an abandoned trench may be seen sticking through the mud. With in sight of the bridge, the muzzle of a field piece, rusted and useless, points to the sky.

Much of the debris of the battlefield has already been collected. Miles upon miles of barbed wire have been reclaimed from the entanglements, German and allied, which stretched in front of the lines but at some points along the river bank the old entanglements still remain, rusted and twisted on stakes, which are fast falling into the ground. There are great piles of reeled wire which has not been uncoiled since it left the wire mills, while the military telephone systems are still stretched upon short stakes.

The people of Dixmude, like the people of every other destroyed Belgian town, are gradually returning to the ruins of their homes. The help being given them by the government is giving them heart and strength to begin life over again. Here one may see a man patching up a shell hole in his house with a few bricks taken from the ruins of his neighbor's home, and in another place men and women too, are patching a roof.

But these instances are few. In most cases the destruction was so complete that nothing is left for the poor Belgian but to build a new house.

But the people are happy and cheerful. They go about their work with faces and merry laughter. They are back home.

The Reason For It.

Waxhaw Enterprise.

Much comment has been occasioned recently by the Lancaster cotton buyers paying much more for cotton than buyers at Waxhaw, Monroe or Charlotte. The writer was in Lancaster one day last week and asked several of the business men there the reason for this, and they said that Col. Springs returned from a trip to New York a couple of weeks ago and issued orders to his buyers to stock up on cotton at whatever price it took to get it. Accordingly his buyers began paying a little more than other markets and they have kept a cent or two ahead of the market ever since. The condition is only temporary and when it is past the Lancaster market will probably slump back to its normal place of a little below Waxhaw and Monroe. But while it lasts it is a bonanza for the farmers and they are hauling it from all over this section to Lancaster. One day last week Lancaster paid out about $75,000 for cotton.

United States Bureau of Standard tests have shown that concrete made with coarse gravel withstands less danger of disintegration if protected by a coating of cement an inch thick reinforced with wire mesh.

KEPT HER AWAKE

The Terrible Pains in Back and Sides. Cardui Gave Relief.

Marksville, La.—Mrs. Alice Johnson, of this place, writes: "For one year I suffered with an awful misery in my back and sides. My left side was hurting me all the time. The misery was something awful.

I could not do anything, not even sleep at night. It kept me awake most of the night. . . I took different medicines, but nothing did me any good or relieved me until I took Cardui. . .

I was not able to do any of my work for one year and I got worse all the time, was confined to my bed off and on. I got so bad with my back that when I stooped down I was not able to straighten up again. . . I decided I would try Cardui. . . By time I had taken the entire bottle I was feeling pretty good and could straighten up and my pains were nearly all gone.

I shall always praise Cardui. I continued taking it until I was strong and well." If you suffer from pains due to female complaints, Cardui may be just what you need. Thousands of women who once suffered in this way now praise Cardui for their present good health. Give it a trial. NC-133

DEATHS

MRS. CALLIE GOINS.

Correspondence of The Gazette.

DALLAS, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Callie Goins, wife of G. W. Goins, died at her home here Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Last fall Mrs. Goins suffered from a severe attack of influenza from which she never fully recovered, and in her weakened condition other complications took place, causing her death. Mrs. Goins was a Christian young woman, loved by all who knew her, ever patient in the many trials she endured and will be greatly missed. Surviving beside her husband are four sisters, two brothers and one little daughter, Sadie.

Rev. Dr. J. L. Vipperman, her pastor, conducted the funeral services at the home Thursday evening at 4 o'clock and the body was laid to rest in the Long Creek Memorial church cemetery. Among the many beautiful flowers was a large handsome wreath of chrysanthemums from the Yemassee Tribe of Red Men, of which Mr. Goins is a faithful member.

PETERSBURG, Va., Oct. 16.—Street car men operating on the cars of the Virginia Railway and Power Company in this city admitted this morning that the strike situation here has undergone considerable change as a result of the meeting in Richmond yesterday. Car men here seem to think that the walkout will now be averted if efforts toward mediation take the expected course.

BERLIN, Wednesday, Oct. 15. (By The Associated Press).—Lack of administrative help and the incidental strike of municipal clerks in this city is retarding the work of rationing bread, coal and potatoes. A complete tie-up in food and fuel distribution is regarded certain unless the strikers resume work at once. A walkout of firemen and machinists has been called to begin Sunday in support of striking metal workers.

BERLIN, Tuesday, Oct. 14. (By The Associated Press).—German manufacturers are bowing large orders from French sources for machinery and ready-made steel products destined for occupied territories, according to the Vossische Zeitung. It is said French buyers are
