HOW?

(By the Bentztown Bard.)

How's the old jig going, as you pat the juba down?

How's the country swinging and what's happened to the town?

How's the old jig going

In this life of give and take—

With its help for love's sweet sake?

How's the old jig going, as you line 'em out the tune?

How's the old land swinging' on its way from June to June?

How's the old harp twanging

And the fiddles, what they

In this merry hour of morning

On the road of day-by-day?

How's the old jig going—and we hope she's going right,

With the heartbeat of the spirit on the golden hills of light.

With the dancers dancing sweetly,

And the fine time comin' when

We'll meet to pat the juba

On the hills of hope again.

More than 99 per cent of cotton yarns required for domestic industry is produced in the United States, the report said and imports of cotton yarn are mainly supplemental. Some changes in tariff duties were recommended by the commission.
