HOME SWEET HOME

While turmoil may exist in the world about us, there is always one place where we feel at ease. It is the house where we live. It may be humble. It may be shabby and insufficient—but it is home to us and to our friends.

When Yayne wrote his immortal song many years ago, he touched a cord in our hearts that has been ever vibrating. "Home, Sweet Home. There's No Place Like Home!" Those words have thrilled millions.

And that thrill lives today. For who can approach his home without a quickening of his breath and step? There are not many of us who do not respond to that love we have for the place we live.

The government may call it a residence, our neighbors "the shack," our statistical friends a dwelling place—but to us it will always be the same—Home! Home Sweet Home!

TOO TIRED TO FIGHT

Those who believe that another world war is imminent discount the utter physical, mental and economic exhaustion of the nations of the world that are capable of making war. Britain could not stand another war in this generation. Russia is engaged in a five to 10 year program of industrial recovery, and has yet many thousands of square miles of devastated land to restore; we in the United States know that another war would impose a financial burden that our economy might not be able to stand. And over it all hangs the threat of the atomic bomb. We are still in a frame of mind where we tremble at our own shadows; but we must remember that they are only shadows.—Herald-Progress, Ashland, Va.

DISCIPLINE NEEDED

Does the man who shoots fairly and squarely have anything to hide from his fellowman that the latter has a right to see or know? Russia has had ever since the UNO meeting in London to settle her differences with Iran, and insisted on settling them outside UNO. That would seem to be long enough.
 If she has been entirely above board in her dealings with Iran, does she have anything to hide from UNO?

If not, then why does she object to letting UNO finally clear the matter up?

If, as it appears now, she is minded to go her own way, then let the other members of UNO leave her severely alone for awhile let her see how well she will get along within that iron fence she chooses to erect about herself.

Truth to tell, beginning with Teheran, dealing with Russia has been too much a one-way proposition, and that her way.

She has been humored entirely too much. She is a spoiled child and is going to require discipline of some kind or other before she will willingly take her rightful place in the family of nations.

LOANS

Admitting frankly, if anybody doubts it, that we don't know anything about so-called "high finance" (or low either, for that matter) we are, however, so far as we do understand, opposed to any billion-dollar loans by our government to other governments.

If such loans must, in the opinion of some, be made, then we move that, from their own private fortunes, they supply the funds.

If Uncle Sam correctly reports his financial condition, then he hasn't one cent for loans to anybody.

We are not entirely unfamiliar sophistries used by those who insist that our government must, in the interest of world-wide economic stabilization, continue to pour the taxes of this already over-burdened people down foreign rat holes, but we don't subscribe to that view.

Certainly, we don't believe for one minute that Uncle Sam should push himself to the brink of financial disaster in the vain attempt to bolster and teach common sense and thrift to those, who, through the centuries, have persisted in wasting their physical and material substances in wars, and who will be at it again just as soon as they can get ready, UNO or no.

We share with Comptroller Lindsay Warren his alarm over the careless manner in which the Washington free spenders wish to throw our financial resources to the four winds, on the flimsiest kinds of pretexts.

It is time to stop it all, if anybody can or will.

HUMOROUS

Charley—I took a girl to Central Park last night. I took her rowing, but a sailor got into the boat and, boy, did I learn something.
 Roy—What?

Charley—I didn't know I could swim.

Funeral director (to aged mourner): How old are you?
 I'll be 98 next month.
 Hardly worth going home, is it?

First motorist: I love the beauties of the countryside.
 Second motorist: So do I. Sometimes I give em a lift.

Doctor: Your eyes look bad. I see signs of liver trouble or anemia, and I fear chronic nervous affliction.

Patient: Look at my other eye, Doctor. That one is glass.

THE FARM QUESTION BOX

Question: What causes the biggest loss in pecan meats, and how can it be curbed?

Answer: Probably the pecan weevil, also called the hickory nut weevil. It bores round holes thru the pecan-nut shells, the inside of which the weevil uses for laying eggs. These weevils, or beetles as they are known at maturity, emerge from the ground and appear in trees in August and September. Extensive cultivation about trees, and grazing hogs will go far toward reducing these pests.

Question: What is the best source of natural honey?

Answer: Sour wood trees yield some of the best honey in eastern North America. Some crops such as buckwheat and clover also yield good nectar, but it has proved impractical to plant a crop simply for its nectar.

Question: Is there a good substitute for sour milk when the recipe calls for its use?

Answer: Yes. Extension nutritionists suggest that you make your own sour milk simply by adding a little lemon juice or vinegar to sweet milk. The usual ratio is one tablespoonful of vinegar or lemon juice to one cup of milk.

Income Collections Reach $32,709,816

The state revenue department reported last week that current income tax collections reached $32,709,816 through Wednesday, only $32,562 short of the total collected for the same period last year.

Milk production in 1946 will be below the all-time record high of 122.2 billion pounds reached in 1945.

The housewife can make an important contribution to food conservation by preventing small everyday wastes, such as the oil which runs over the side of the can, or is left in the salad bowl.

Agronomists encourage farmers to get a free soil test before applying more than one ton of lime to farm land.
