HINTS ON MAKING AND FREEZING PARTY SANDWICHES

1. Spread each bread slice with softened butter or margarine (not melted as it will soak into the bread).
2. Avoid spreading the sandwiches with only mayonnaise, salad dressing, or jelly, as these soak into bread and make your sandwiches soggy.
3. Spread with such fillings as minced chicken, ham, other meats, egg yolk, cheese or cheese spreads, shrimp, crab, tuna, peanut butter. Mix the fillings with softened butter or margarine, or a limited amount of mayonnaise, to hold spread together.
4. Wrap the sandwiches separately as the flavors will mingle and wrap them well in moisture-vapor-proof material. If you pack a variety at one time, label each. Place a number of wrapped sandwiches together in a box. This makes for compact storage, easy to find. If you freeze only a few, place them in an ice-cube tray.

5. To prepare closed sandwiches for freezing, place them in freezer boxes, or in any suitable box, in layers, and overlap them with moisture-vapor-proof material.

6. Place open-face sandwiches on squares of cardboard for support and wrap them with moisture-vapor-proof material. Wrap rolled, ribbon or other leaf sandwiches, uncut.

7. Sandwiches will thaw in one to two hours; the open-face kind thaw most quickly. Don't remove outer wrappings until sandwiches are partially thawed. Time the thawing so that the sandwiches are ready just in time for serving. If they are not served immediately, hold them in the refrigerator.

8. Place extra fillings and bread already cut in shapes. Spread as needed when guests drop in.

9. Leave out lettuce, parsley, watercress, celery, carrots, tomatoes, as they lose their crispness in sandwiches. These foods are best added when the sandwiches are eaten.

HOME'S WHERE IT'S FOUND—Although this pose is just for laughs, "Suds," pedigree unknown, is much happier in the beer glass than he was a while back. The puppy was found in a park during a cold December night and brought to the Fort Worth, Tex., police station. He has since been adopted by a kind citizen.

year and filling out new club books. The devotional was given by Mrs. Harvey Carter. The topic being: "What Kind Of A Trust Fund Am I Creating?" The demonstration: "What Do You Know?" was given by Mrs. Pauline Johnson, home agent.
