The Mouth Piece

Quote for today: "We have no more right to put our discordant states of mind into the lives of those around us and rob them of their sunshine and brightness than we have to enter their houses and steal their silver-ware." — Julia Seton.

Ray Howard, who works at Center theatre here, appreciates the small bag of groceries, which someone left in his car by mistake. However, his conscience won't let him really enjoy them, so he would be glad for whoever they belong to, to pick them up from him.

The groceries were left in his car Monday morning, while it was parked in front of the theatre.

More and more people believe it's a mistake to have Santa Claus walking around the streets. For him to come to town one afternoon, throw candy, etc., to the kids, and then leave, is one thing—to have him where the children can approach him, see the evident falsity of their great idol, and experience the perplexity of Santa's being here, and a thousand other places at the same time, is another.

Little Preston Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Parker, is just getting to the stage where he can put more than one or two words together. Passing the drug store on their way home from Sunday school Sunday, Preston told his mother he wanted a drink. Mrs. Parker was so proud of him she wanted to buy him one, but had left her purse at home, and didn't have any money with her.

Oh, well, if Preston's getting old enough to talk, he's getting old enough to find out there are disappointments in the world, Mrs. Parker, so there's no need berating yourself about not rewarding him.

If you don't think our town is growing, just you get out and drive around some afternoon in the areas where, only a few years ago, there were only lying-out fields, vacant lots, or even farm lands.

Can you imagine? Bobby Lazarik and Shirley Hines, who think the world of each other, have not had many opportunities to see each other since college started in the fall. Now here, during the Christmas holidays, they're so busy with visiting other folks, etc., they have had scarcely a minute to themselves.

Incidentally, Shirley wants us to tell Santa Claus to bring her a pair of contact lens, like we wear. And, we understand, Peggy Hinton has written a very frank and appealing letter to Santa Claus, too.

Paul Garrison would like to have a week of Mondays so he could get caught up with his deer hunting. Wade Kornegay would like for Santa to plant some long-leaf pine in New York so he wouldn't have to go out during the cold of each December and gather enough for some of his kindfolks up there to decorate with.

Robert Smith and Jack Lister might want running water for their fishing boat, next. They already have a self-starter! Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Cowan are going with the Earl Thompkins of Goldsboro, to Miami for the Orange Bowl game New Year's day. You might bring them a bang-up game, with Duke winning, so they won't feel let down after the trip.

Of course there are a lot of others from this section going to Miami, too, and some of them, just to be on the safe side, are taking their "sunshine" with them!

One of the cardinal points of a good golf swing is to keep the head still. To help us in this department we had Leon Britt make a little contraption we think will do the trick for practicing. He's had it made a month or more, but we can't think to pick it up when he's open.

The other day Leon stopped by the office and asked us to please pick up that rig or else tell him exactly what it was for so he could explain it to all the folks who asked him what it was.

George Grantham Buried on Friday

Funeral services for George K. Grantham, 87, were held Friday afternoon from the Selah Christian church, of which he was a member.

Mr. Grantham, son of the late Frederick and Sallie Thornton Grantham, died Wednesday morning at the home of his niece, Misses Sallie and Hattie Grantham, of Mount Olive, route 4. The Rev. W. C. Foster, pastor, officiated at the funeral services. Burial was in Clarence Grantham cemetery.

2,500-Bale Cotton Storage Warehouse Will Be Erected Here by Cotton Co-op

Directors of the N. C. Cotton Growers Association, at their quarterly meeting in Raleigh Wednesday, approved the construction of a 2,500-bale cotton storage warehouse in Mount Olive.

M. G. Mann, general manager of the association, said construction will begin at the earliest possible date and that present plans call for completion of the warehouse before the 1955 crop is harvested.

The facility will serve farmers of Wayne and adjoining counties. All storage and marketing services of the Association will be available through the warehouse.

The Cotton Association, a statewide cotton marketing cooperative, now operates similar warehouses in Nashville, Scotland Neck, Morven, Lumberton, Weldon, Clayton, Smithfield, and Fayetteville.

In addition more than 50 independent bonded warehouses throughout the state have a working agreement to offer farmers the services of the Association.

Representative on the organization's board of directors for the district embracing Wayne county is W. W. Andrews of Goldsboro.

Christmas Programs Planned By Churches in This Section

The Calypso Baptist church, Wednesday night at 7; Mount Olive Baptist, Wednesday evening at 6; Calypso Presbyterian, Friday evening at 7; Mount Olive Presbyterian, Wednesday evening at 7; Baker's Chapel, tonight at 7; Standard Presbyterian, Friday at 7 p.m.;

Methodist church: Bethel, Wednesday night at 7; Smith Chapel, Thursday evening at 6; Mount Olive, Wednesday evening at 6:30;

Long Ridge Free Will Baptist, Wednesday night at 7, and Outlaw's Bridge Universalist, tonight.

Some churches in this section have not announced their Christmas programs. Others held theirs early this week.

Dr. Crumpler Goes To Chicago Meeting

Dr. W. H. Crumpler attended the Sixth American Congress of Obstetrics and Gynecology in Chicago from December 12 to 16. The congress is sponsored by the American Academy of Obstetrics and Gynecology and the American Committee of Maternal Welfare, and is dedicated to increasing the safety of mothers and new-born babies.

Dr. Crumpler attended as guest of Duke hospital, N. C. Memorial hospital, obstetrics and gynecology department, and Dr. Bayard Carter of Duke hospital, who is president of the Academy.

Presbyterians Plan For Christmas Tree

The Mount Olive Presbyterian church will have its annual Christmas tree party Wednesday evening at 7:30, and the Baker's Chapel church will hold its program this evening at the same hour.

The Rev. B. E. Dotson, pastor of the churches, announced the programs will be put on by the children of the various Sunday school classes and that Santa Claus will be present to give out gifts.

Want Gifts to Pass On to Needy Folks

"One of the finest ways to celebrate Christmas is through sharing," the Rev. T. W. Williams, pastor of the First Baptist church, Mount Olive, said this week in asking for items that can be passed on to needy families.

He said there is a need for food, clothing and toys, and asked anyone having clothing to spare, and toys, outgrown by their children, to please bring them to the church as soon as possible.

Route 4 Man Faces Peeping Tom Charges

A route 4 man was arrested here Sunday night on "Peeping Tom" charges.

Daniel Pipkin is accused of peeping into a bedroom window of a patient at Henderson-Crumpler clinic Sunday night. He was apprehended by Randall Whitfield of the police department.

J. W. Cannon Funeral Was Held Monday

Funeral services for J. W. Cannon were held Monday afternoon from the First Baptist church, Mount Olive, with his pastor, the Rev. T. W. Williams officiating, assisted by the Rev. B. E. Dotson, Presbyterian minister of Mount Olive.

The 62-year-old Mount Olive merchant and farmer died suddenly Saturday morning of a heart attack suffered at his home at 119 E. Pollock street. He was a member of the local Woodmen of the World camp, Masonic lodge, a charter member of the local Eastern Star lodge and the Baptist church.

Surviving are one son, Orris Cannon of Mount Olive; eight daughters, Mrs. W. C. Daughtry of Faison, Mrs. Wade Midgette of Hubert, Mrs. James Joyner of Calypso, Mrs. Oliney-Swaney of St. Paul, Minn., Mrs. James Parker of Albertson, Mrs. Tony Best of Goldsboro, Mrs. William Brinson of Rocky Mount, and Miss Mabel Cannon of the home and East Carolina college, Greenville;

Two sisters, Mrs. Lena Spivey and Mrs. Bill Granger, both of Tabor City, and two brothers, Hamp of South Carolina, and Carl Cannon of Richlands; a number of nieces and nephews and 14 grandchildren. Mr. Cannon was the son of the late Elbert and Virginia Cannon of Greensboro, S. C.

Burial was held at Wayne Memorial park on the Goldsboro highway. Pall bearers were members of the Masonic lodge, Ernest Taylor, Ennis Kornegay, Raymond Hollowell, Hiram Cooke, R. L. Cox, and B. E. Hatch. Other members of the lodge served as honorary pallbearers.

Eugene Davis Speaker for Communion

Eugene B. Davis will bring the message at the Mount Olive Presbyterian church Sunday morning before the observance of the Lord's Supper, the Rev. B. E. Dotson, pastor, announced this week.

Davis is a member of the local church and is a first-year student at the Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., where he is preparing for the ministry. He is a graduate of Mount Olive High school and Davidson college.

Mr. Dotson said the regularly quarterly Communion service is observed each year the last Sunday in December so that those members home from school and work may participate. During this service, the choir will sing a Communion anthem.

Dotson also announced that college youth will have charge of the services Sunday, January 2. Davis will preach in Hallsville that Sunday.

Barbecue Supper For Guard Members

After drill last night, members of the Mount Olive National Guard battery were entertained at a barbecue supper at the American Legion hut, in observance of the Yuletide season.

Capt. Paul King, commander of the unit, announced drills were held for only an hour and the group was then invited to the Legion hut for a Christmas party.

Christmas Program at Bear Marsh Wednesday

The Bear Marsh Baptist church will hold its annual Christmas program at the church Wednesday night, starting at 7 o'clock.

CUB AWARDS—Bruce Boyers, Scout executive, presents a Webelos badge to Leslie Ipock, Jr., at a Cub Scout pack meeting Thursday night, as Reid Eason and Bobby Martin wait their turns to be so recognized.

Christmas Program at 4:00 This Afternoon

NEW HOME—Among the homes recently built in Mount Olive is this one on Breazeale avenue belonging to Miss Lucille Pope.

Parade on Center St. Is Feature

Mount Olive's annual Christmas program will be presented this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Focus point for the festival will be in the 100 block of N. Center street.

Featured will be Christmas music by the Mount Olive and Carver school bands, singing of carols by the Carver glee club, and choirs of local churches, and a parade, theme of which will be along religious lines. Eugene Martin, music director at the First Baptist church, will direct the consolidated choirs.

Bryce Ficken, president of the Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors this program annually, said all floats to be entered in the parade are to line up near the railroad station about 3:45. At the time, he said, bands will be on a platform in front of Harry Lee Cobb's business on Center street.

During the parade, ministers of the town's churches will be in charge, recognizing the floats and telling the Christmas story. The choirs and glee club will sing during the parade. After the parade is over, the bands will perform again, Ficken said.

Floats are being entered by churches and civic organizations. Each float will carry out its own theme, but along religious lines. This is a break in custom from the past two years, Ficken explained. In the past, a central religious theme was set and all floats were in keeping with this theme.

Auto-Truck Wreck Near Rones Chapel

Approximately $360 in property damages resulted from an auto-truck collision near Rones Chapel Monday morning. No injuries were reported.

According to Highway Patrolman Wallace Morrow, who investigated, the collision occurred when a car driven by Mrs. Homer Brock of Mount Olive was passing a truck and the truck made a left turn. Driver of the truck was identified as Willie Quinn, Negro, of route 1.

The accident occurred on the Summerlin Crossroad's highway about a half mile west of Rones Chapel. No charges were preferred.

Speaks Here Sunday

George Powell, ministerial student of the Columbia Theological Seminary, Decatur, Ga., filled the pulpit at Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

Dr. McPheeters Tells Rotary Club of Tuberculosis Fight

Dr. S. B. McPheeters of the Wayne County Health Department was guest speaker at the Mount Olive Rotary meeting Thursday night and gave pertinent information about tuberculosis.

Introduced by Willis Honeycutt, who had charge of the program, the county health officer said that many achievements have been made in conquering tuberculosis, but warned that it is still a dangerous disease.

To combat this killer, Dr. McPheeters said that the disease must first be discovered. X-rays are the means of achieving this, he said, and called upon everyone to have X-rays taken at least annually, particularly if they are about 40 years old.

In Wayne county, he said, there are about 200 cases of tuberculosis, with a new case being discovered each week.

Swinging to the strides made in discovering and curing the disease, Dr. McPheeters brought out that new finds in medicine, such as, anti-biotics and surgery, has taken some of the dread out of the disease. He praised the National Tuberculosis Association and the Wayne chapter of the organization for their work in educating people.

Before Dr. McPheeters spoke, James Francis reported on the Christmas tree program planned for this week. Freddie Meachum, vice-president, presided in the absence of Robert Shackelford, president.

Bond Set at $1,500 in Case Of Grain Storage Robbery

Rosa Lee Martin, Negro woman of Mount Olive, route 2, who was arrested here last Tuesday and charged with the break-in at the Mount Olive Grain Storage company last Sunday night and with forging a check on Robert Williams, manager of the company, was bound over to Superior court at a preliminary hearing in Mayor's court Saturday. Bond was set at $1,500.

In other cases before the mayor, Charlie Miller, Negro, of Mount Olive, was bound over to County court on charges of driving with improper brakes and no operator's license. Cedric Lee Britt of route 4 also was bound over to County court. He is charged with driving under the influence of an intoxicant.

They were among 15 defendants listed on the court docket. Others, except for Floyd Boone of the city, were taxed with costs of court. Boone, brought to court for failing to provide a regulation garage can, notified the court he had secured the required can and the charges were dropped.

Other defendants were charged with either public drunkenness or violating the traffic code. Those paying costs for public drunkenness were David Bowden, E. J. Pearsell, Negroes, of the city; Eugene Lambert, Carl Coley, both of Mount Olive, and Frank Waters of route 1.

Defraying court costs for traffic violations were Willie Townsend, Negro, Faison; James Williams, Negro, Four Oaks; Milton Knight, Negro, Portsmouth, Va.; Clarence Herring, Negro, city; Carvester Simmons, Negro, city, and King Davis, Seven Springs.

Calypso has a new town clerk. Glanton Barwick was appointed to the post at a commissioners' meeting last week to succeed his brother, Herman Barwick, who had held that position for several years.

The retiring clerk said the move was made so that a new set of town books can be set up. He said the growth of the town's business had necessitated a new system of bookkeeping.

The incoming clerk is well versed in this phase, he pointed out. Glanton is in the insurance business and also works with a public accountant. The new clerk attended the Crumpler Secretarial school in Goldsboro.

Other business coming before the board was routine.

OPEN HOUSE SINGERS—The costumes at the left may throw you off track, but these are the youngsters, directed by Mrs. W. J.
