

The Mouth Piece

Quote for today: "Nothing can work me damage except myself. The harm that I sustain I carry about with me, and am never a real sufferer but by my own fault."—St. Bernard.

"Somebody's got to get right now, to trade automobiles," Fred Ellis, local Buick dealer declared yesterday morning, when he walked into Reeves' restaurant for a cup of coffee and announced he'd just received a shipment of new cars.

"Humph," humphed James Reeves, "I'd like to know just what a person has to do to get right" with you. I've put 80,000 miles on my present car, trying to trade with you!"

Then N. M. Hilliard, who was sitting nearby, confessed he'd worn out two Buicks trying also to get right.

Shucks, boys, just meet his terms—that's all it takes to get right with Ellis!

Last winter, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kraft went vacationing in the Pocono mountains of Pennsylvania, hoping to get in some skiing and ice skating, a warm spell came along and practically melted all the snow and ice in the mountains.

This week, when the Krafts went back to the Poconos, they took Dr. and Mrs. Jim Lee along with them, and from the weather we've had here, and reports of the weather in the Pennsylvania area, they must have done the right thing—taking the doctor along, we mean.

You see, Dr. Lee is a dentist, and don't you know how YOU freeze up when the dentist starts towards you? Musta worked the same way with the weather!

H. P. Stowe saw an editorial in the Belmont Banner, which pointed out to him something which he has also noticed here. The editorial dealt with the law against wing fire trucks on call, and cited the possibility of hampered firemen in their work if they get congested along the route to the blaze.

There just doesn't seem to be any way to legislate against the curiosity of folks in small towns, mainly, we guess, because we're all neighbors and have a natural interest in what happens to the other fellow.

You've heard folks talk about days when they "shoulda stood in bed"? Well, last Monday was such (Continued on back page)

Building Permits for Last Month Over January, 1954

According to building permits issued last month, money spent in construction in Mount Olive for the first month of 1955 nearly doubled that of January, 1954.

Building Inspector Edwin Patten issued five permits last month, calling for approximately $15,700 in construction, compared to seven permits and $7,650 for January, 1954. Most of the permits issued this year call for the erection of dwellings.

The one exception was a permit issued to H. M. Cox for the building of a horse stable at an estimated cost of $200.

Other permits issued last month were to: Carolina Engineering Company for the erection of a five-room frame dwelling between Ann street and the city limits at a cost of about $7,500.

Jesse Cox for the building of a four-room frame dwelling on Wells street at a cost of approximately $2,000.

Ed Ginn for the erection of a five-room dwelling on E. Main street at a cost of about $3,000.

Sam Bryant for the erection of a five-room dwelling on E. Korne-gay street extension, at a cost of around $3,000.

Ham Radio Means of Talking With Local Folks Overseas

Through a ham radio hook-up Mr. and Mrs. Clay Casey of Mount Olive and Mr. and Mrs. James Dickson of Calypso talked with Capt. and Mrs. James T. Dickson in Austria Sunday morning.

Arrangements for the trans-Atlantic conversation were made through J. B. Pemberton, a ham radio operator of Goldsboro. The conversation lasted for about 20 minutes, and just before the talk concluded the Dicksons in Austria put their little son on the air so that the grandparents back home might hear the grandchild they have not seen.

The Army officer is the son of the Calypso couple, and his wife is the former Miss Jean Casey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Casey.

The Dicksons have been in Europe for more than two years. The son was born since they have been in Europe. Mr. Casey said the grandson can't talk, but that he let out a little cry for his grandparents.

The Caseys and Dicksons had communicated via the same system about a year ago.

Probation Sentence for Young Boy

A 14-year-old boy of route 1, charged with breaking in two business places here last week, was placed on probation Monday afternoon after a hearing in Juvenile court, Goldsboro.

Mount Olive police reported Jesse Bell would go into the stores shortly before closing time and seclude himself in rest rooms until employees would go home. Then he would come out. From the White's Store, one of the two places he allegedly broke in, police reported the youth took five dollars from a cash register. Investigation did not disclose whether anything else was taken from the store or from Garner Brothers, the other business the youth is charged with breaking in.

His trial originally had been set for last Friday, but he involved three other boys, all of whom were cleared in hearings Saturday. Further investigation also revealed Bell had been apprehended on similar charges in Duplin county.

Legion Supper Meet

The Mount Olive American Legion post will hold a supper meeting tonight. The meeting will be held at 7:30 at the Legion hut.

Oklahoma Man to Speak At AA Meet

George Hales, Oklahoma oilman-evangelist, who will conduct revival services at the Rones Chapel and Brownings Methodist churches during the next two weeks, will speak at the Mount Olive Alcoholic Anonymous meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

An alcoholic for 21 years, Mr. Hales was brought into his present evangelistic work through the immediate and miraculous healing of three incurable diseases that he had suffered for many years. He will tell in detail of this healing in one of the series of talks he is giving in this section.

Mr. Hales will speak at the Rones Chapel church nightly during the week of February 6, and then at the Brownings church the following week. The Rev. Paul Maness, pastor of these churches, said all meetings will start at 7:30 p.m.

Duplin Negro Held On Whiskey Charge

Herbert Artis, Negro, of Calypso, was indicted Saturday on charges of possessing non-tax-paid whiskey for purpose of sale.

Artis, a tenant farmer, was found with a small quantity of "white lightning" in a half-gallon jar. He posted $200 bond and was released. He was arrested at his home near Calypso.

Youth Sunday Held At Faison Church

The Faison Presbyterian church observed Youth Sunday at the worship services Sunday evening.

Young people participating in the services were: Berta Stroud, organist; Christine Daughtry, leader; introduction; Ann Mosely Bowden, scripture and prayer. Martha Adams and Betty Lou Taylor gave talks on "Christianity Demands Action. Why?"

Ruby Hare spoke on "Christianity Demands Action Everywhere"; Anne King and Tommy Faison, "Christianity Demands Action Together"; and Alma Jo McCullen, "Christianity Demands Action Here." Ushers were James Robert Cooper and Ted Cates.

Youth Group Has Service on Sunday

A youth group will be in charge of the morning worship services at the Eureka Christian church Sunday in observance of National Youth Week.

The church's Chirho group met in the church auditorium last Thursday night. Phillip Weaver presided. Geneverette Wise, Judy Cotton, Gene Strickland were in charge of the program. Carolyn Denning conducted the devotional.

Group advisors Mrs. Alma Wise, Mrs. Anna Harrell and Mrs. Estelle Weaver invited boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 14 to join the club, which meets the second and fourth Thursday evenings of each month.

Patten, Miss Wolfe To Represent Band

Stuart Patten and Mary Wolfe will represent the Mount Olive High school band at the Eastern Division of the All-State Band Clinic at East Carolina college, Greenville, at today and tomorrow.

As part of the clinic program, Patten and Miss Wolfe, along with band members from 34 other schools, will perform at a concert Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the Wright building.

Sutton Wounded in Arrest By Chief Daly, Now in Jail

RECRUITING—President William B. Raper of Mount Allen college, seated, at right, recently re-visited the place he was reared—Free Will Baptist Orphanage at Middlesex—but it was more than a social visit. This time Raper was recruiting students for the school he now heads and his trip was successful. Several registered for next fall.

Allegedly Assaulted Officer

Charles Thomas Sutton of Mount Olive was shot in the leg Wednesday night in a scuffle with Police Chief Alton Daly, in which the Mount Olive man allegedly was resisting arrest.

It was reported Daly was placing the man under arrest for public drunkenness when Sutton turned on him and knocked him down several times before being subdued by the shot.

Sutton was treated by a local physician for a flesh wound and was carried to the Goldsboro jail. It was reported the wound was not serious.

Sutton is charged with public drunkenness, disorderly conduct, resisting arrest, and assault on an officer.

Daly said he was cruising along E. Main street in front of the Sutton home when he saw Sutton on the sidewalk, apparently in a drunken condition. He said he went up to Sutton, realized the man was under the influence of an intoxicant, and placed him under arrest.

When he told the man he was under arrest, Daly said Sutton lashed out at him, knocking him down several times. The officer then fired.

In addition to answering present charges, Sutton will have to show cause why his probation shouldn't be revoked.

As of yesterday morning, no bond had been set for Sutton.

Convicted of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill at the November term of Superior Court, Sutton was sentenced to 18 months, but the sentence was suspended, and the Mount Olive man placed on three years' probation. This sentence was the outgrowth of a charge placed against Sutton nearly a year ago.

Firemen Here Called Out Two Times

The Mount Olive Fire Department answered two alarms during a 26-hour period, starting Tuesday morning, but only slight damage resulted from the blazes.

An overheated oil stove sent flames rushing to the home of Gurney Blanton on Chestnut street Tuesday morning, and a grass fire, which had gotten out of control, threatened a garage at Garris' Funeral home at noon Wednesday.

Fire officials said no damage resulted from the overheated stove, but estimated that $25 to $50 in damage was caused by the grass fire. They said sparks from a trash fire apparently had blown into some grass at the rear of the funeral home, touching off the Wednesday blaze.

The flames were threatening a garage where the funeral home keeps its ambulance, and threatening other buildings, when firemen arrived and quickly brought the blaze under control.

Clifford Aldridge and Mrs. Hedrick Williams, all of Kinston, and Mrs. Morris Brinson of Kenansville.

Scouts to Dedicate Hut as Part of Scout Week Activity

Mount Olive Scouts, along with hundreds of thousands of Scouts all over America, will observe "Boy Scout Week" next week and to launch the week's activities will dedicate the Scout hut at the municipal park Sunday afternoon.

The dedication service will be held at 3:30, with the Rotary club, sponsor of the Scout movement here, in charge of the program. This will be followed at 7:30 with the annual Scout service at the First Baptist church.

Scouts are to be in full uniform for both of these services, it was announced, and Scout leaders have called for all members of the Mount Olive troop to be at the Scout hut by 3:15 Sunday afternoon and at the post office by 7 o'clock Sunday evening.

The Rev. T. W. Williams, pastor of the Baptist church, will be in charge of the evening service. Other activities planned for the week will be a Scout picnic at the community gym Wednesday evening at 6:30, while the Cub Scouts will hold a picnic at the gym on Thursday evening at the same hour.

On Tuesday, local Cub Scouts will put on a program over radio station WFMC in Goldsboro. The program will be presented at 5:15. Other Cub Scouts in the Council also will put on a radio show next week. The programs will be judged and prizes awarded the winners.

Other radio programs will be put on by Scouts over radio station WGBR, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings at 7:30.

Ordination Service at O. B. Sunday

An impressive ordination service was held at the Outlaw's Bridge Universalist church Sunday night for the Rev. and Mrs. V. B. Bowring.

Among leading Universalist pastors present for the occasion were the Rev. Edna Bruner of Boston, Mass., Dr. Albert Bell of Rocky Mount, and the Rev. Physis Williams of Charleston, S. C.

Miss Bruner presented the sermon. Conferring of ordination also was given by the Boston minister. Dr. Bell gave the invocation, and the Rev. Williams gave the reading and prayer during the opening exercise.

Janet Bowering gave words of dedication, and Mr. Bowering pronounced the benediction.

Faison Over Top In Polio Campaign

Faison's $400 "March of Dimes" goal has been reached, but the campaign is not yet over, and Carlton Precythe, drive chairman, has expressed hope contributions will go even higher.

Precythe reported that nearly $200 was collected by groups in three projects. A school collection was made in which approximately $65 was contributed to the polio fund; a square dance added about $29 to the drive, and a barbecue supper, staged by members of the fire department, brought in a profit of more than $100.

The drive chairman said all contributions have not as yet been turned in.

Women of Church To Serve Dinner

Women of the Faison Methodist church are planning a dinner, to be served in the school cafeteria there Sunday, with all proceeds from the affair to be used in the church's building fund, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Chester Ellis, chairman.

Serving time will begin at 12:30, and an advertisement listing the bill of fare is carried elsewhere in today's Tribune.

High School Games For Tonight Given

Tonight: Rosewood at Mount Olive, New Hope at Seven Springs, B. F. Grady at Warsaw, Eureka at Pikeville, Fremont at Nahutta, Kenansville at Beulaville, and Wallace at Chinquapin.

Tuesday: Brogden at Mount Olive, Seven Springs at Eureka, Fremont at New Hope, and Pikeville at Grantham.

Judges Selected to Choose Outstanding Farmer of This Area for Jaycee Award

Plans got underway this week to begin the search for the community's outstanding young farmer. C. O. Whitley and Otis Wood, co-chairmen of the project for the Mount Olive Jaycees, announced that judges have been selected and that the final judging on the local level will be held during the week of March 21. Names of the judges have not been made public, but Whitley and Wood said that a total of five were selected, on the following basis:

One representing the Jaycee organization; one representing local produce brokers; one representing local grain industries; one farmer, and one at-large community representative.

The committee announced any young farmer living within the Mount Olive trading area will be considered if nominated by March 19.

The local project is part of a nation-wide competition sponsored jointly by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and the American Petroleum Institute. Winners at the local level will compete with local winners for the award North Carolina's outstanding young farmer.

State winners will be given a free trip to Minneapolis, Minn., June 1-3 for selection of the nation's outstanding young farmer.

The local co-chairmen listed qualifications for eligibility as follows: All nominees must be between the ages of 21-35, inclusive, but need not be a Jaycee member, (a young man who has reached his 21st, but not his 36th birthday, is eligible);

All nominees must be actual farm operators, deriving at least two-thirds of their total income from farming; all must have proven sound farming practices with an accent on conservation and soil resources; nominees must have evidence of interest in their community through leadership or participation in civic, agricultural or church organization activities.

Any person wishing to nominate a young farmer for this honor should send a letter of nomination to either C. O. Whitley, Box 64, Mount Olive, N. C., or W. O. Wood, 506-B W. James Street, Mount Olive, N. C., and include the following information:

Full name, age, and address of nominee; marital status, children, if any; education; kind of farming engaged in by nominee; outstanding contribution made by nominee in farming (where did he get his start and the kind of help received); outstanding contributions in civic activities; membership in civic and agricultural organizations; whether nominee has increased his farm investment (land, buildings, livestock, and equipment); nominee's farm practice history (adoption of recommended soil practices and improvement).

It is not necessary that all the foregoing information be furnished by the nominator, but the committee said it will appreciate the nominator furnishing as much information as possible, particularly the nominee's correct age.

Burnette Named to Head Drive For College Books

C. D. Burnette has been named general chairman of the book drive for Mount Allen college, Bryce Ficken, president of the Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the drive, disclosed this week.

Burnette said the Mount Olive and Goldsboro Jaycees will assist in the book collection drive and that he hopes other organizations, both local and in the surrounding area, will volunteer to assist with this project. The Mount Olive Chamber has voluntarily offered to help the college secure 4,000 volumes needed for accreditation.

Since the drive was begun in October approximately 2,000 books have been contributed to the school, but Burnette has let it be known the project will not be dropped at the half-way mark and urges anyone having books to donate, to please contact him or carry the volumes to the college.
