Helen Keller at 74

Proof that age is no barrier to an active life is the latest project of Helen Keller, now 74 years old. The famous and courageous American, blind since she was 19 months old, is taking on a 40,000-mile trip.

Accompanied by her companion, Miss Polly Thompson, Miss Keller's trip is in behalf of the American Foundation for Overseas Blind and the American Foundation for the Blind.

More than 74 years ago, Helen Keller was born completely normal. A childhood illness left her blind, deaf and dumb, but her own determination and patient training enabled her to speak. Her speaking came about through the efforts of her trainer, Anne Sullivan Macy.

The turning point in Miss Keller's life occurred when her trainer poured cold water on one hand while spelling out water on the other. This struck a responsive chord in Helen Keller, and before the end of that day, she had learned the names of 30 things around her, and has gone on to become one of the world's most intelligent individuals.

At 74 she is still making a great contribution to American life and setting an example which should inspire all Americans.

The Country Doctor

A living example of a disappearing individual on the American scene is Dr. Charles Lamette Santee, of Wapwallopen, Pa. Dr. Santee is 81 years old and he still charges 50 cents for an office visit and a dollar for a home visit.

Even at 81, he practices seven days a week and works from early morning until late at night in most days. He has spent his life in Wapwallopen and the surrounding rural area and, in his earlier days, he often hiked to remote homes, where no roads were yet built.

The press of his duties has kept him from vacationing since he went to Mexico, during the first World War, and of the many thousands of babies he has delivered, and the many Formosa and bombastic speeches authority, little decentralization is mothers he has treated, he has never lost a mother in childbirth. Dr. Santee's only hobby is printing, and he prints his own letterheads ing critical U. S. industry and arm- riod of great internation tension, and envelopes, when he finds a few spare minutes between calls.

It is hard to estimate the influence of such gen bombs could wipe out the U. which grows more and more disa man in his community, and is even harder to replace such a man, perhaps impossible. Dr. Santee's example of serivce during the last half century is one in the best tradition of the American spirit and the rural doctor tradition. Now at 81, we hope he has many happy years ahead of him, and we point to his examples as one which should inspire all Ameri-

Only with far-reaching conknown and unheard of in peacetrol over business could the government direct and force a decentralization of critical U.S. industry.

This is true because concentration often makes for lower-cost production, and cheaper prices on the product. In a free economy these are considered advantages, not disadvantages, from a business standpoint. The job of decentralizing U.S. industry without harming any business and aiding others is a task few Americans can even comprehend.

There is a growing demand for kinds of flowers that will keep well when cut and that can be easily used for hospital, church or living room arrangements.

For the person who is looking for a cotorful and easy-to-grow cut flower, the gladiolus should prove most satisfactory. They grow in any type of soil as long as it is well drained and plenty of water can be supplied. They should have full sunshine all day for best results, Go easy on the fertilizer, especially fertilizers rich in nitrogen. Care must be taken that the fertilizer does not come into contact with the bulb at planting time. Bulbs should be planted to 5 inches deep and spaced from a to 6 inches apart in, a row. For early blooms plantings may be made now in eastern North Carolina, during March in the piedmont and during April in the mountains. For a succession of blooms, make additional plantings at two or three week intervals. If you buy your bulbs at local stores select plump high-crowned bulbs; they will give much better results than the large, fat, shallow ones.

The gladiolas fan who is greatly interested in new varieties will ind that he can get good spikes of flowers from small to medium-sized bulbs listed as No. 3 and No. 4 size at much lower prices than he would have to pay for the larger sizes. Mixtures are usually cheaper in price than named varieties but there is a great satisfaction in knowing varieties by name. A few every fine varieties that are reasonably priced are: Snow Princess, Florence Nightingale, Margaret Beaton, Corona; Elizabeth the Queen, Picardy, Blue Beauty, Red Charm, Spotlight, Spic and Span, Patrol, Chamouny, Elmer's Rose, King David, and Burma. There are many other good ones in a wide range of colors.

In cutting flowers, three of four of the lower leaves should be left in order to develop the new bulb for next year.

Thrips, small sucking insects, may damage the flowers — especially in hot dry weather. They can be controlled by spraying or dusting with DDT every week or 10 days.
