New Route For Produce Sellers Here

City fathers will follow a recommendation made by the newly-formed Mount Olive Auction and Produce Corporation in an attempt to alleviate congested traffic on Center street during the produce season.

In a letter read at the board meeting Monday night, the corporation suggested that the traffic from the Summerlin Crossroads direction come to the market via E. College street, instead of lining up on Center street. The plan suggested by the corporation would have the produce traffic from the communities east of Mount Olive come into the city on James street and then cut off at Jefferson street and onto College.

The produce traffic from the westside of town will continue to line up on Chestnut street.

Calypso Is Seeking Ban on Single Vote

Calypso will ask its State Representative to initiate legislation in the General Assembly to prohibit single voting for the town's commissioners. The voting procedure on commissioners would be the same as that recently enacted for Mount Olive.

Duplin Representative Robert Carr is asked to introduce a bill that would declare void a ballot if the voter does not vote for as many as five commissioners.

The board opined that they felt the enactment of this legislation will meet the approval of the voting population of the town and will promote better town government.
