Colorful Household Gloves Are Styled to Fit

BY EDNA MILES

THE grudge that most housewives have against household gloves is that they don't fit. They grant that they're necessary, that gloves protect the hands and keep them from roughening. But, they say, they're clumsy to wear and it's difficult to handle things with them on.

Actually, they should fit. So news of household gloves that are streamlined for fit (and pretty, too) is welcome. You try on these gloves just as you do your dress gloves. They're made of neoprene, are completely washable and resistant to oils, acids, caustics and greases.

Styling has been added to fit. There's a glove in ebony black, there's a fabric-lined glove in delicate pastels and there's a glove in celestial blue.

You should make a habit of wearing your household gloves whenever you do dishes, whenever you do any housework hard on your hands. In addition, keep your favorite hand cream or lotion handy on a shelf in the kitchen for a good creaming several times a day. No manicure can pretty up hands roughened by heavy housework and lack of care.

Fit to wear, that's the news in household gloves. 'Homemaker' has chosen this pair, after trying on several sizes.

Seated Tea Honors Mrs. J. E. Davis

Mrs. Richard Morton was hostess to a seated tea at her home Sunday afternoon, honoring her mother, Mrs. J. E. Davis, on her 75th birthday.

Mrs. Thurman Davis of Mount Olive greeted guests at the door, and Mrs. Joe Davis of Goldsboro assisted the hostess in serving. Arrangements of roses and mums were used throughout the house. Refreshments consisted of Russian tea, cookies and sandwiches in shapes of leaves decorated in fall colors, cheese wafers, and acorn mints. Guests were also served slices of the beautifully decorated birthday cake.

Faison News

By Mrs. James Faison

Mrs. E. A. Taylor, Jr., visited her sister in Hyattsville, Md., last week.

Mrs. W. H. Hawley and daughter have returned to Chicago, Ill., after spending two weeks with Mrs. Hawley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Faison.

Mrs. C. D. Lee returned Friday from a week's stay in Duke hospital in Durham.

Mr. and Mrs. James Faison spent Friday with the Bert Hawleys in Asheboro.

Mrs. R. W. Safrit, Jr., and daughter Jane of Beaufort spent the weekend with Mrs. Safrit's mother, Mrs. H. J. Faison.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Neill, Jr., and children of Burlington were guests Sunday of Misses Elizabeth and Kate Hicks.

The Rev. John Marshall Sutton of Tennessee spent last week with the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Minor.

Mrs. I. R. Faison entertained her bridge club at her home Friday night. Mrs. A. R. Hicks, Jr., was given a brass bowl for high score. Mrs. J. X. Morton was hostess to her bridge club on Tuesday night. Mrs. A. R. Hicks won high score and was given a piece of pottery.

Mrs. N. K. Oates entertained at supper Thursday night honoring Miss Betty Ray, bride-elect, and Mrs. W. H. Hawley of Chicago.

Miss Betty Ray, bride-elect of November, spent several days last week in Chapel Hill and was honored with a number of parties.

Christian Church News

Modern Etiquette

Q—If one is eating in a public place where small parts of butter are served in little paper containers, is it all right to let the knife rest on the pat when not in use?

A—Never. The knife, when not in use, should rest along the upper right part of the plate—and never, of course, with the handle of the knife resting on the table.

Q—Is it required that a bride return all of her first calls, or just those she prefers?

A—The bride should return all these calls, and as early as possible. It would be very rude to return some and omit others.

Q—Is it ever proper for a girl to ask a man to dance with her?

A—Only if the man is her husband, brother, brother-in-law, cousin, or perhaps an old childhood friend.

Q—When you have been asked to pass a dish at the table, and you were just about to partake of that dish yourself, is it all right to help yourself first?

A—No, this would be very crude and ill-bred, unless of course the other person insists that you help yourself first.

Q—When it is necessary for a male member of a dinner party to leave the table, should all the other men rise until he has departed?

A—This is not necessary.

Q—Who stands the expense of a wedding breakfast in a hotel?

A—The parents of the bride.

Q—When one receives an invitation to an "open house", does this mean one is obligated to bring a gift?

A—No. An "open house" is simply an invitation to come and see the new home. It is neither expected nor customary for the guests to bring gifts.

Q—How much time is the bride expected to spend with her guests at the wedding reception?

A—She doesn't have to remain more than two hours. She may then retire to her room with her maid-of-honor to change into her traveling costume.

Q—When a man takes another man to lunch, who should give the order to the waiter?

A—Each man gives his own order.

Q—Is it proper to invite people to a shower whom you know are not being invited to the wedding?

A—Most definitely not. Unless, of course the wedding is to be so small that only the immediate families will be included.

Q—When you have been asked to pass a dish at the table, and you were just about to partake of that dish yourself, is it all right to help yourself first?

A—No, this would be very crude and ill-bred, unless of course the other person insists that you help yourself first.
