BLASE—Newsmen who meet ocean liners at dockside in New York City are used to being deadpanned by celebrities, but nine-month-old Barbara Toraz presents a new high in well-bred boredom for the cameraman. The Yugoslavian youngster, whose parents will make their home in Buffalo, N.Y., was one of many refugees arriving aboard the transport General Langatt, under the Refugee Relief Act.

HOMEMADE QUICKIE—Sleeveless knit cocktail sheath has a luxurious—and expensive—look. Actually, it's a five-hour project for the woman who likes to knit. So says the manufacturer of new, home-knitting device which is said to sell in the budget-price range. Product of the machine was first modeled in New York City.
