Candlelight Ceremony Unites Faison Couple Saturday Afternoon, 4 o'Clock

In a candlelight ceremony at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, January 28, in the Faison Methodist church, Miss Verna Mae Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Taylor, Jr., of Faison became the bride of Mr. William Christopher Kalmar, son of Mrs. W. Kalmar of Faison and the late W. Kalmar. The Rev. Harold D. Minor, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with candelabra and floor baskets of white gladioli and "mums" against a background of palms and greenery.

Mrs. B. F. McColman, pianist, presented a program of wedding music prior to the ceremony including Schubert's "Serenade," "Clair de Lune," and others. The traditional wedding marches were used. Miss Pat Hockett, soloist, of Goldsboro, sang, "Through the Years," and as the benediction, "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Ernest Taylor, Jr., wore a gown of hand-clipped Chantilly lace over bridal satin, fashioned with a scoop neckline featuring a scalloped bertha. The moulded bodice fastened in back with miniature buttons and the long sleeves ended in Calla points over the wrists. Her bouffant skirt of lace and tulle was worn over crinolines. The skirt featured a full lace panel of scalloped lace both front and back extending into an aisle-wide cathedral train. Her two-tiered veil of imported silk illusion fell from a cloche of tulle and pearl embroidered lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations centered with a white purple-throated orchid showered with satin ribbons.

Miss Linda Smith of Durham was maid of honor. She wore a waist-length gown of white lace. The bodice was designed with satin bands and a scoop neckline bound in satin. Her headdress was white tulle plaited and embroidered in pearls. She carried a nosegay of red carnations tied with matching ribbons. The bridesmaids were: Miss Barbara Ellis of Faison; Mrs. Herman Cannady of Clinton; cousin of the bride, and Miss Alma Jo McCullen of Faison. They wore identical dresses and carried like bouquets.

Best man was Nick Kalmar of Faison and Chapel Hill, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were William D. Lewis of Faison, Jack Wharton of Goldsboro and Caswell Moore of Bowden, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a street-length gown of mauve taffeta and lace and a corsage of bettertimes roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a street-length gown of black taffeta and lace and a corsage of bettertimes roses.

Mrs. Kalmar was graduated from Faison High school, attended Meredith college and for some time was employed at the State Capitol Life Insurance company in Raleigh.

The bridegroom graduated from Goldsboro High school and served in the U. S. Army, doing two years overseas duty during World War II. He attended the University at Chapel Hill and at present is engaged in farming.

For traveling the bride changed to a winter white wool suit with black accessories and the orchid lifted from her wedding bouquet.

After their wedding trip the couple will be at home in Faison.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at the Faison Community building. The building was decorated in the traditional green and white motif. Magnolia leaves and candle logs, entwined with ivy holding white tapers, were used on the mantles. A large arrangement of white gladioli and greenery was used on the piano. The dining table was covered with an imported hand-embroidered cut-work cloth. An arrangement of white carnations, snapdragons, gladioli and fern centered the table flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers.

Receiving at the door and introducing to the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Glascock. The guests were invited into the dining room by Mrs. P. G. Adams where Mesdames William McCullen and M. C. Bowden were presiding, assisted by Misses Anne M. Bowden, Belle Lee, Carolyn Newton, all of Faison, and Mrs. John D. Adams of Raleigh, in serving bridal cakes, mints and salted nuts. Presiding at the punch bowl were Mesdames C. P. Ellis and J. H. Darden. Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Rector presided at the register. The good-wives were said to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Taylor. Mrs. W. D. Clifton received in the gift room at the home.

Cake Cutting

After the rehearsal for the Kalmar-Taylor wedding, Mrs. C. P. Ellis and Mrs. William McCullen of Faison and Mrs. Herman Cannady of Clinton entertained at the Faison Community building at a cake-cutting. Guests were members of the wedding party, out-of-town guests and those serving at the reception. Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Rector greeted the guests at the door.

Candle logs entwined with ivy were used on the mantles, holding lighted white tapers. The piano held a large arrangement of white gladioli and greenery. The dining table was covered with an Irish linen cloth. The three-tiered wedding cake was at one end of the table and the punch bowl at the opposite end. An arrangement of white "mums," carnations, snapdragons, gladioli and fern centered the table flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers. After the wedding cake was cut in the traditional manner by the bride couple, the mother of the bridegroom served the cake and the mother of the bride poured punch. Green and white mints and salted nuts were served.

The bridal couple were given a silver bowl and Miss Taylor was presented a white carnation corsage by the hostesses.

Miss Ruth Hatch Hines Becomes Bride Of Henry L. Connors, Greenville, S. C.

Miss Ruth Hatch Hines, daughter of Mrs. Eugene Harvey Hines and the late Mr. Hines of Greenwood, S.C., and Henry Lamar Connors, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Connors of Lake Forest, Ill., were married Saturday, January 21, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at Our Lady of Lourdes church in Greenwood. Father Nicholas Bayard conducted the service.

Robert Olson was organist and selections for the ceremony included "Ave Maria," "The Lord's Prayer," and the wedding marches. The bridegroom's brother, Thomas J. Connors, of Littleton, Colo., acted as best man. Edward P. Connors of New Haven, Conn., David Rockwell of Flossmoor, Ill., Sevier Bonnie of Louisville, Ky., William Huntly of Greenwood, S. C., H. J. Douglas of Wayne, Ill., Mason Phelps of Lake Forest, Ill., and Stuart John Templeton of Denver, Colo., were ushers.

Mrs. James W. Lea, Jr., of Atlanta, sister of the bride, was patron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Rebecca Hines, of Greenwood, sister of the bride, Miss Marie Rose Connors, of Lake Forest, Ill., sister of the bridegroom; Miss Dana Coleman of Greenville, and Miss Marilyn Parkman of Greenwood. They all wore dresses of cinnamon peau de soie, in street-length, styled with round low neckline, long pointed sleeves, and narrow skirt with an overskirt gathered into a bustle in back. They wore satin shoes to match the dresses and head bands of matching peau de soie. They carried bouquets of red carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Cullen B. Hines. She wore a gown of soft white peau de soie, designed with long pointed sleeves, a neckline bordered with Alencon lace mats each centered with clustered pearls and a full skirt with a drape in front, forming a bustle in back. She wore a Brussels lace veil and carried a bouquet of roses centered with an orchid.

The bride's mother wore a costume of beige velveteen with brown accessories and a corsage of cymbidium orchids, and Mrs. Connors, mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in brown silk taffeta with
