

HAD NERVOUS BREAK-DOWN

But Health Restored to Texas Lady, Who Is Now Well and Strong, Able to Do All Her Housework and More.

Rosebud, Texas.—Mrs. Annie Lange, of R. F. D. No. 4, this place, writes as follows regarding her experience with Cardui: "Some time ago I had a nervous breakdown of some kind . . . I was very weak, and so nervous. It all seemed to come from . . . trouble, for at . . . I had fainting spells and suffered a great deal, but more from the weak, trembly, no-account feeling than anything else. I knew I needed a tonic, and needed it badly.

"I began the use of Cardui, to see if I couldn't get some strength, as I knew of other cases that had been helped by its use. I felt better . . . I soon saw a great improvement, so kept it up.

"I used seven bottles of Cardui, and can say the money was well spent, for I grew well and strong. Now able to do all my housework and a great deal of work besides."

If you are run-down, weak, nervous, and suffer from the ailments peculiar to women, it is very likely that Cardui will help you. In the way it has helped thousands of others, during the past 40 years.

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. —Adv.

MONSTER RULES IN ASIA MINOR

American Woman Physician Tells of Osman Agah, Known as "Tyrant of Kerasoom."

ACKNOWLEDGES NO MASTER

Threatens to Kill Anyone Who Aids Suffering Armenians in Any Way—Dr. Norton Contracts Trachoma While Treating Children.

New York.—If science eventually succeeds in checking the ravages of trachoma, the scourge of ancient Egypt, and since the beginning of history one of the most baffling of human ailments, the achievement will be due in no small measure to Dr. Blanche Norton, an American woman physician, who herself contracted the disease while treating Greek and Armenian orphans in the Near East relief orphanage in Kerasoom, a little village on the Asia Minor coast of the Black sea.

Though suffering severely from a virulent attack of the malady, Dr. Norton came to Constantinople, and during her treatment—one of the most painful known to physicians—she continued her efforts in behalf of the trachomatous thousands of the Levant. As a result, a hospital has been opened in the Sultan's capital capable of caring for about 400 Greek and Armenian orphans at one time.

In recognition of her service at Kerasoom, where her patients were largely orphans of Greek parentage, the Greek government conferred on her the War Cross of King George—the first woman to be so honored.

25 Per Cent of Children Afflicted. "Trachoma is more prevalent and a greater menace than we realize," Dr. Norton declared on returning to New York to complete her treatment. "In the Armenia and Greek orphanages in Constantinople an extensive survey revealed more than 25 per cent of the children suffering from the disease. In addition, there are thousands of adults and Turkish children in the city who become infected."

The high degree of contagion of trachoma, according to Dr. Norton, is one of its worst aspects. She caught it when one of the children she was treating was seized with a violent fit of sneezing and, shook a tiny molecule of the discharge from his eyes into hers.

"Maybe it is a good thing that I caught the disease, however," she said. "I begin to think that sometimes it is well for a doctor to suffer from the disease he or she treats to any extent. Until I had to undergo the treatment I never realized the pain that I inflicted on those tiny little waifs in the damp schoolhouse cellar in Kerasoom where they were segregated."

"Tyrant of Kerasoom." It was while treating these orphans that Dr. Norton met Osman Agah, "the tyrant of Kerasoom," an erstwhile fisherman who fought in the World war, returned with a wooden leg, and became a hero in the eyes of his townspeople.

"He is the most fearful creature I ever saw," she said. "The native Christians that have so far escaped his wrath live in abject terror of him and of the band of mountain robbers that he has surrounded himself with.

"Few Armenians are left in the town. Most of them died of starvation in the streets, with no one to help them. For Osman had promised to have killed immediately anyone who might dare to feed or aid them in any way. He has placed oil and gasoline all about the outskirts of the town and had threatened to set it afire and drag all the Greek population to the mountains if allied warships or allied troops attempt to move against him.

He is holding the leading Greeks of the city as hostages. No Christian is allowed to leave the city. Mustafa Kemal himself could not move him, for Osman acknowledges no one to be his master. He is the most absolute tyrant that, I believe, has existed since the days of Imperial Rome.

"The brigands that this creature has gathered about him are at once the most fearful and the most wonderful group of men I have ever seen."

Cyclone Tosses Boy Into Tree Branches

Santa Clara, Cal.—A high wind that passed through Santa Clara tossed J. Bingwall, a 15-year-old boy, into a tree, knocked over George Campra and a horse he was hitching, uprooted fruit trees, demolished several private garages and caused considerable minor damage.

It was said by local residents to have been the first wind of its kind since 1868.

Glass skylights from an establishment belonging to walnut growers were blown into the street and smashed, and lumber from lumber yards was scattered several hundred yards.

One private garage was reported to have been carried forty feet and an automobile moved from the side of the street to the center of the roadway.

Griddle Cakes and Waffles

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

THERE is an art in making flapjack pancakes, griddle cakes or waffles, call them what you will. But it is an art very easily and quickly acquired if you follow the right recipes. The secret, of course, is Royal Baking Powder.

Griddle Cakes

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
1 tablespoon shortening

Mix and sift dry ingredients; add beaten eggs, milk and melted shortening; mix well. Bake immediately on hot griddle.

Waffles

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
2 eggs
1 tablespoon melted shortening

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; add milk to yolks of eggs; mix thoroughly and add to dry ingredients; add melted shortening and mix in beaten whites of eggs. Bake in well-greased hot waffle iron until brown. Serve hot with maple syrup. It should take about 1 1/2 minutes to bake each waffle.

Back Given Out?

There's surely some reason for that lame, achy back. Likely it's your kidneys. A cold or strain oftentimes congests the kidneys and slows them up. That may be the reason for that nagging backache, those sharp pains, that tired, worn-out feeling. You may have headaches and dizzy spells, too, with annoying bladder irregularity. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands. Ask your neighbor!

A South Carolina Case

Mrs. W. L. Anderson, 1222 Laurens St., Aiken, S. C., says: "I had kidney trouble some time ago, which caused a dull ache in the small of my back. I couldn't rest and I felt tired all the time. My kidneys acted irregularly. Dizzy spells often came over me and affected my sight. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did. One box entirely rid me of the trouble."
