Cal Coolidge does not choose to spend the summer in our Land of the Sky, notwithstanding a most cordial invitation extended him irrespective of party.

Al Smith is at Asheville for a two weeks vacation and rest, but we have an idea these will be two of the busiest weeks of his life. It said he will write his platform while in Asheville.

Smith's following is a united band, while those who oppose his nomination are split up, not knowing whom they want, just opposed to Smith. If all the opposition were organized, centered on a candidate, it would make a formidable host, but McAdoo's withdrawal, made in the hope that Smith would also withdraw, has left the Democratic party in a more hopelessly divided up fix than before he withdrew, and we all know that unless there are some hatchets buried, this party strife will gain in force, and it is certain, if it continues, it will destroy the Democratic party, an organization that has meant much to this great experiment in human liberty. It would be a good idea to rub the slate clean the first thing when the delegates arrive in Houston, and a ticket nominated composed of names of men none of us ever heard of before. This would restore party harmony, and nothing else will.

You remember just after the World War closed, before the smoke of battle had cleared almost, from President on down the line everybody was crying "Back to Normalcy," and all papers and periodicals of every faith and order took up the refrain. Both Democrats and Republicans preached this doctrine, and it was a virtuous doctrine, too, and we thought it at the time. We made heavy public and private debts under the greatest inflation the world had before known, and we went toward normalcy enough to be giving us pretty hard times now, and worse is coming. That policy, Back to Normalcy, caused us to have to pay debts created under inflation with low, deflated priced products. It is like renting a farm at say 10 bales of cotton when that cotton was selling for 40c a pound, then the land owner refusing to take cotton and requiring the rent to be paid in cash, $400, with cotton is selling for 10c a pound. You found it as easy to make four dollars in 1919 as it is to make one now. Well, you are paying 1919 debts, public and private, now. That is why times are hard.

United Daughters Meet.

The Raeford Chapter U. D. C. met the first Wednesday in April in the home of Mrs. Luke Bethune. Those assisting in receiving were Mrs. Arch Currie, Mrs. Fred Johnson, Miss Margaret Currie and Mrs. T. B. Lester.

Mrs. Arch Currie, Vice President, presided in the absence of the President.

My Country 'Tis of Thee was sung by the Chapter, after which Mrs. J. W. Fulford, Chaplain, made a very beautiful and timely talk and led in prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, the roll was called with a new name added since the last meeting, that of Mrs. A. K. Stevens. Three new names were presented for membership and favorably voted to be received.

The chapter voted to send a contribution to the Jefferson Davis Highway Fund, and to the Historical Foundation, which were the calls presented for the month.

After reports from various committees had been given, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Wallace McLean, who had charge of the program. She introduced one of our own honored veterans, Hon. J. W. McLaughlin, who in his usual interesting manner, spoke of Confederate money as a means of exchange during the War Between the States.

A Confederate note was read by Mrs. H. L. Gatlin.

The hostesses served sandwiches with tea followed by home made candy

We sympathize with Mr S. L. Akins in the death of his mother, who died in Obesterfield county, S. C., on Tuesday of last week. Her remains were interred in Raeford cemetery.

T. A. LYON,
W. C. DOWNING,
JOHN G. SHAW,
Commissioners.

Mrs. Rose Mitchell, aged 74 years, mother of Mrs. E. M. Smith of Raeford died Saturday evening, April 7th, at the home of her daughter at Fairmont. We sympathize with the bereaved family.

Carey Peterkin, the progressive colored farmer and gardner, who farms for Mr. John L. McFadyen, brought us a handful of English pea vines full of bloom and some cotton plants. Carey is determined to be ahead.

After several days of spring like weather, when birds sang, flowers bloomed, and everything spoke of the approach of summer, the fagend of the blizzard from the bleak north west struck this section Monday night, and the planting of crops has been halted.

Mrs. W. M. Fairley, President of Fayetteville Presbyterial accompanied by representatives of Raeford Auxiliary left Tuesday to attend the meeting of Presbyterial which meets in the First Presbyterian church in Dnnn Tuesday. The sessions continue through Wednesday.
