The Republicans of Georgia have split and nominated two state tickets, when there is little chance for the success of one. But more get notoriety:

We are to have a new and smaller paper dollar, that is if we get any. The old long green has always looked good enough to us, and has never seemed burdensome because of its bulk.

The Laurinburg Exchange is authority for the explanation that his name is Oliver Max Gardner. It is a rather strange coincidence that Ol and Al should be Democratic nominees at the same time, and both have been candidates for about the same number of years.

Sixty-two heretofore Democrats in Wake county opposed to the election of Gov. Alfred E. Smith President, held a meeting in the county court house in Raleigh on Monday night of last week to make an organized effort to defeat the Democratic nominee at the November election, and just that is going on all over the South. If all who oppose Smith are read out of the party, woe be to the party for the next fifty years.

If you notice few of the players, on the Fayetteville team are known to the people of this section. And few fellows playing ball in city in this state are not known to the people. Look at their names. Old foreign names from no telling where. And the managements wonder why they get so little patronage. Play folks we know, and we will patronize the game more. We do not care a cent to see a man do anything if we do not know the fellow.

Governor Alfred E. Smith has never tried to mislead anybody. He has said all along that he is opposed to prohibition. National Committeeman Mack of New York state asked the platform committee at the Houston convention to write a platform to fit Smith's views; still the committee and the convention adopted a dry platform, and then nominated Smith, and Smith repudiated that platform in his message accepting the nomination. Nobody should blame Smith for the muddle the Democratic party has gotten itself into. Smith is an anti prohibitionist and so tells the world. If this doesn't suit the rank and file, little does Smith care, for he sees himself as greater than his party.

Do you notice how people heretofore certain men? It is mentioned daily what they do and what they do not do. They make photographs of them if they go bathing, or say something, or fail to say something. We despise that. Such doesn't raise men in our estimation. The lickspittle business is disgusting. If any man capable of doing things and does something worth mentioning and the newspapers mention it, we would appreciate the information.

A good many voters in the United States are incapable of being Democrats, many of whom always vote the Democratic ticket, for the reason that to be a Democrat a man must be capable of independent thought and action. A real Democrat solves his own problems, arrives at his own conclusions, and acts independently of all others. No voting the ticket does not make a Democrat, but solving public problems does, if the solution leads to beneficial adjustment.

Americans have always won the major contests in olympic games in the Old World. The silly people in Europe think they are superior to Americans in many ways. Aristocratic blood accounts for that, and it also accounts for inferior intellectual and physical defects as well. One of the blessings of poverty is necessity develops latent forces, and unknown resources. Do not despair, if you meet disappointment. If you keep trying, you'll win in life's battles.

Ex Gov. Morrison opened the campaign in the Mecklenburg county court house in Charlotte last Thursday night with a plea for religious tolerance. Only one religious sect here existing has ever proved to be altogether intolerant, and has during the past several centuries made their religion the religion of state where ever they had the power, and while we know they could never do this in the United States they might attempt it, feeling it their duty to do this, and as they for centuries have believed theirs the only true church, and this would cause trouble we would like to avoid, and every indication points to this intent, so this is why we see a manifest spirit of intolerance, it is intolerance to prevent intolerance, such as drove protestantism out of the Old World into the New. We are offering this in justification of the position now taken by a heretofore very highly appreciated class of citizens, now much criticized. Added to the menace to religious freedom, is a threat to prohibition, the greatest moral reform of the age; battling for existence should not be considered intolerant.
