Raeford, N. C., Oct. 18, 1928.

You are a foolish man if you alienate your neighbor in your zeal for the election of any man who is seeking office, and will never be any service to you. Vote as you please, but be sensible. Let's be neighbors still.

People like to sell tobacco and cotton because they brings in big checks. Mr. P. H. Wright sold 18 bales of cotton a few days ago at 18c, and Mr. Ed. McNair of Scotland county, who has a number of farms in Hoke, sells that number two days in each week, and this naturally make a man feel better than he feels when he is selling cantaloupes.

Gov. Wilton McLean comes out for modification of the Volstead Act along with Gov. Smith, and so does Cole Blease of South Carolina. Now what will Joe Daniels say? Later the Governor explains, but the explanation fails to help, as we see it. The reopening of the prohibition question will set the country back a half century. What we need is judges to inflict adequate punishment, governors who will not commute the sentences.

LOCAL ITEMS.

It was a strange coincident that three citizens of this county should die so nearly together this week, and from the same trouble, cancer. Cancer seems to be on an alarming increase.

Mr. A. L. McBride, Sr., of Jackson Springs, formerly of Winston Salem, father of Mr. A. L. McBride, Jr., of Raeford, died last Thursday night and was buried Saturday morning near his home

Sheriff Hall reports that Mr. Louis Parker of McLaughlin township was the first white man to pay his taxes for 1928, and John McLaurin of Quewhiffle was the first colored man to settle his taxes for this year.

One of our Raeford girls, Miss Mary Lee Seate, and one of her friends, Miss Winnie Wilburn of Roxboro, won the Freshman Tournament in Tennis at Meredith College, also Miss Seate was elected manager of the Freshman basket ball team

A new Buick car chloaded with Jews, we didn't learn their names but they were from Sumpter, S. C., and as they turned into Main street from Highway 24 they failed to turn enough and struck a light pole near 10 inches through on the east side the street and broke it off at the ground and again about 5 feet above the ground. Nobody hurt, and the only damage done to the car was a bent axle last Sunday morning.
