

Miss Nobody from Nowhere BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE A beautiful young woman finds herself on the sidewalk in a strange city. She cannot remember her name or where she came from.

as she had been in the park, as she had been with him, as she had been with the doctor... thinking clearly, deciding swiftly... terrified, yes, but 'holding fast' in a situation that would have appalled the strongest soul; and his nerves steadied.

Undoubtedly, he assured her, the name would come to him at any minute. This, she knew, was possible. Sooner or later he ought to recall that name. He might recall, too, if he did not now remember them, the names of the friends to whom he had carried those notes, the names of friends who had come to see her.

When Eve left her visitor in her hotel sitting-room and went into her bedroom, supposedly to get ready for the nurse, she absent-mindedly tripped over a projecting end of the bed she had ordered.

She left this for you," he ended, taking the envelope from his pocket and handing it over. "I'm hoping there's some clue in it."

"And you have remembered my name all this time?" she asked, in a voice which she vainly tried to keep steady.
