IN THE RADIO STUDIOS WITH ALBERT ZUGSMITH, JR.

Columbia Broadcasting Company announcers have been given their summer uniforms of double breasted blue serge jackets, white flannel trousers, white sport shoes, white shirts and blue cravats. Production men will wear the same uniform, but with polka dot ties to distinguish them from the "signing offers." Wonder what some of the choruses of the radio revues will wear?

Determined to find out what type of programs were the most popular with the radio fans, I investigated until returns from 78 stations in the United States and Canada indicate that dance music is by far the favorite of the listener-in. Popular songs gave them a run for the money, however, with old-time songs close on their heels. Jazz was fourth in the running. Variety programs got the next highest number of votes with musical novelties, sixth on the list. Semi-classical music tied for last place with comedy acts. The rest didn't get enough votes to record.

What do the radio stars do when they are not broadcasting? Ah, ha— secrets you want to know. (Wall, Evangeline Adams, for one, collects early American furniture.

Will Rogers, when he isn't playing polo, is usually scowling, frowning, or counting on his fingers how much his polo ponies are costing him.

Guy Lombardo says his favorite recreation is sleeping and I believe him. Rudy Vallee says that he has no spare time in which to do anything. He should begin worrying about that.

Floyd Gibbons likes nothing better than to argue whether battleships or airplanes will win the next war. He holds out for airplanes. He would.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe and Vi of WABC—spent their spare time dodging photographers, who as yet have not snapped them.

Ginger Rogers likes to cook—of all things—spice cookies.

Adela Vasa is also culinarily inclined, her masterpiece being the transmutation of sour milk into an Armenian desert called "Baklava."

Harry Swan likes to buy lollipops for children, which I think is only an excuse to have an all-day sucker himself.

La Belle Rose, of the Nut Club, says, in his falsetto voice, that you ought to know. Ah ha! More anon.

The Graf Zeppelin, after a successful flight from Germany to Brazil and thence to North America, came to anchor by means of the new portable mooring mast at the U. S. Navy Air Station, Norfolk, N. J.

NEW SOUTH AFRICAN RECORDING PLANT TO AID STUDY OF NATIVE MUSIC

Johannesburg.—Research scientists who are making a study of native South African folk-songs by the new recording plant which has been established at Capetown, according to a report received in the Department of Commerce from Assistant Trade Commissioner Lawson at Johannesburg. The pure native music is believed to be rapidly disappearing, due to the inroads of civilization, as the native, by nature a music lover, quickly reacts to the influences of modern jazz and often spends his evenings on mechanical musical instruments such as phonographs. Thus, it is pointed out, the very instrument to be used to make a permanent record of native music is at the same time tending to eliminate the material scientists are endeavoring to collect for research purposes.
