State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Question—What are the best planting dates for corn, cotton and peanuts?

Answer—Dr. G. K. Middleton, professor of field crops at State College, has prepared a Spring Planting Calendar for the state, and he lists April 10 as the best planting date for corn in the Coastal Plain and Piedmont, and May 1 as the best planting date in the mountains. For cotton, the best planting dates are April 20 in the Coastal Plain and April 25 in the Piedmont. Peanuts, a Coastal Plain crop, can be set from April 15 to June 1, but the best planting date is May 5.

Question—What are the minimum rates of seeding to earn credit for seeding practices under the 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program?

Answer—The State AAA Committee, with the advice of the Extension Service, has set the following minimum seeding rates per acre for certain legumes and grasses: Lespedeza, 20 pounds sericea, 15 pounds scarified; alfalfa, 25 pounds; timothy, 15 pounds; red top, 10 pounds; sweet clover, 10 pounds hulled; white clover, 5 pounds; blue grass, 10 pounds; orchard grass, 25 pounds; and Dallas grass, 5 pounds.

Question—When can tomato plants and sweet corn be safely set out in the garden?

Answer—Frost danger is usually averted if tomato plants are set out after April 10 to 15 in the Tidewater section, after April 15-30 in the Coastal Plain and Piedmont, and after May 1-15 but before June 15 in the mountains. Sweet corn may be planted safely after April 1-15 in the Piedmont; Tidewater, April 15-30 in the Coastal Plain and Piedmont, and after April 15-May 1 in the mountains. Sweet corn should be planted before July 15 in the mountains to avoid fall frost damage.

Board Won't Draft Boys Until Arms Strikes End

Camilla, Ga., April 4.—In the face of sharp warning that it lacks such authority, the Mitchell county draft board announced today that it is deferring all prospective selectees until the Federal government halts defense strikes.

Chmn W. B. Grant said the Board—only one in this rural southwest Georgia county—adopted the policy un-simultaneously today and effective at once will give 3-A rating—immediate deferment—to all men called before it regardless of their physical condition or other considerations.

Told that the state draft director's office held that the board had no authority to do this, Grant insisted: "We do have authority to do it. We're going to do it and keep on doing it unless we are removed or until the government stops these strikes."

In Atlanta, Lieut. Col. Cliff Hatcher, assistant state draft director, declared just as firmly:

"This is a serious matter. The board has absolutely no authority to place boys in classifications other than the ones in which they should go. We will not permit such action and will prevent it even if we have to remove the board."

Grant said that he hoped the Mitchell example would spread to all the other draft boards of the nation to "stop the slugs and the Reds," and concluded:

"When men can strike for $8 a day while our boys are going to camp for $21 a month there is something wrong."

"It certainly doesn't look fair to us and that's why we took this action."
