Another Murder In the County

John Hines Kills
Barrett Turner; Both
Are Negroes

John Hines, an elderly colored man who has lived for 20 or 25 years on Mrs. Annie McPhaul's farm near Shannon, shot Barrett Turner, another negro, Thursday night. It seemed that this fellow, Turner, had been taking Hines' three daughters, 13, 15 and 17 years old, out for rides in his car. Hines had given Turner orders to keep away from his girls. Last Thursday night, when Hines found that the girls were out riding with Turner, he followed, and came upon them near Marshall McBryde's in the Antioch section.

Hines was said to have made the girls get out of the car and then leveled his gun at Turner, shooting him. Garvestus Walden, a nephew of Turner's, was on the back seat of the car. He drove Turner to Lumberton to a hospital, where Turner died that night. Hines was arrested at his home next morning by Sheriff Hodgins. He is being held without bond in Hoke County Jail until the next term of Superior Court.

Henry Baker, Quewhiffle, Dies From Poison

Henry Baker, who lived near Five Points on the old Turnpike Road, died Monday night at his home from a dose of poison taken in the afternoon. He had been in some trouble and was very despondent. His brother, Tom, went to see him Monday afternoon and found him very sick.

The brother went to Timberland to phone for a doctor and while he was gone and before Dr. Matheson got there, Henry took a dose of Paris green from which he died about 10 o'clock that night.

Funeral services were conducted at the home Wednesday by Rev. Marcellus Dellingar, pastor of the Raeford Tabernacle, and interment was in the graveyard at Old Shiloh Church, near the Pike.

Henry Baker was 46 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neill Baker of near Raeford. He married Miss Mattie Gibson, who survives him, with nine children. All the children are at home except the oldest, who lives in Burlington. He is also survived by both parents, five brothers and three sisters. Two sisters live in Hoke County and four brother, Governor, Gilbert, David and Tom, also live in the county.

Five Ways Suggested To Save Those Tires

From A. B. Gehring, a farmer of Freeville, N. Y., comes these five good rules for saving tires:

1. See that wheels are aligned, keep tires properly inflated, watch out for and repair cracks or cuts before they turn into blowouts, and don't drive faster than 30 miles an hour.

2. Pick up all nails, pieces of board, broken glass, jagged rocks in the highway and around your own buildings and driveways.

3. Make sure that you carry an auxiliary spare tire, or air-pump and patching kit. A ruined tube or casing now is a tragedy.

4. Cut driving in bad weather to a minimum. Mud is hard on tires.

5. Keep your car and truck—and spare tire and parts—under lock, especially at night.

Ingathering Day At Montpelier

The annual ingathering harvest will be held at the Montpelier Presbyterian church, Wagram, on Thursday, Oct. 29th.

It will be different this year, so you will want to be there. There will be four booths with various fruits, vegetables, fancy work, shrubs and the like on sale, where you can go and purchase just what you want right across the counter. This will eliminate the usual wait made necessary by a complete auction sale.

However, many products will be on sale at auction, especially articles that are scarce and are in demand. Then those "Wagram cakes" will be on sale at auction to the highest bidder, and this will be an opportunity to get a real country style cake for your family use. You know what you are buying when you buy a Wagram cake.

The lunch time is simplified this year. When you get ready for dinner, you will find one booth where you can get barbecue and the trimmings, and another where you can get a general plate, and if you want just sandwiches and a cup of coffee there will be a place that you can get this. And there will be ice cream for the kiddies. So plan to attend now.

Fire Prevention Vastly Important During Wartime

Raleigh, Oct. 21—Sharp curtailment of the supply of fuel oil this winter probably will increase largely the use of small, portable heaters with resultant fire hazard. Ben E. Douglas, State Director of Civilian Defense said in urging all people to be extremely careful with such equipment.

"Because of the importance of preventing waste in all forms and because fire is one of the most wanton wastes, Civilian Defense is actively encouraging widespread education on fire prevention, because of their particular hazard, the safe operation of these heaters is an important part in the fire prevention program," Douglas said.

The dangers will be minimized, Douglas added, if operators of portable heaters will observe the simple rules laid down by the organizations sponsoring Fire Prevention Week:

1. Be sure that the heater is automatically sound. Defective electric equipment should be repaired by a licensed electrician. Worn or frayed cord or plugs should be replaced. Gas and kerosene heaters should be thoroughly tested for leaks and mechanical faults.

2. Locate heaters so that they are away from domestic traffic and safe from contact by children. Fires are caused by portable heaters being tripped over and upset, or molested by children.

3. Be careful that heaters are always kept a safe distance from combustibles. Woodwork, furniture and other household combustibles can be set afire by prolonged exposure to kerosene and gas heaters, and to some extent electric heaters.

4. Keep heater wicks, burners and other parts clean and in good repair.

5. Keep portable heaters turned off except when a responsible adult is present.

6. Kerosene is a definite fire hazard. It should be stored in safety cans in a cool place out of doors. Avoid spilling it when filling heater tanks and adjust burner to prevent flooding and overflow.

7. If it is necessary to use a stove kettle to obtain adequate hot water do not get into the habit of leaving a small flame constantly lighted under the kettle. Such flames are easily blown out, filling the room with highly inflammable gas. Or a curtain, tea towel or other combustible material may fall or blow onto the burner in such a manner as to ignite. In addition, many types of ordinary heating insulation are not designed to withstand prolonged and excessive heat. Near by woodwork may become charred and create a fire hazard.

8. Regard all emergency heating devices as temporary expedients requiring extra care and caution. The time spent in a second look may save you the trouble of rebuilding your house.
