PAUL DICKSON
1889 - 1935

MRS. PAUL DICKSON.....Editor

Entered as second-class mail matter at the Post Office at Raeford, N. C., under act of March 3, 1870.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1942.

The News-Journal has been fortunate this week in having one of the best printers that ever worked in the News-Journal shop with us—John Russell. He is employed at the Navy Print Shop in Portsmouth, Va., and was on a 15 day leave visiting his sister, Mrs. J. L. Nichols, at Ashley Heights. T. P. Hogan, the regular linotype operator is not yet able to be back at work.

HASH & PATRIOTIC

Salvage is not furnishing munitions of war only. The American Nation is profiting in many ways.

Up in Vermont, for instance, 1943 motor license tabs, to be bolted to 1942 plates, are being fashioned from tin cans salvaged from State institutions. Out in Wilmette, Illinois, contributions of metal, rubber, rags, and newspapers have enabled this Chicago suburb to pay all its cost of civilian defense. Citizens gladly contribute the materials since municipal expenses thus are reduced. City employees sort the materials, which thus bring a better price—and homes are reducing fire hazards. Are all governmental units alert to these salvage possibilities?

Individuals, too, can learn lessons of avoiding waste in these days when many materials and products are scarce. Even the old-fashioned soap saver may come into vogue at the kitchen sink. And when it comes to salvage, what household is not utilizing leftovers since meat rationing began? Certain members of the family may still look down their noses at hash—but they eat it.

POOLE'S MEDLEY

By D. SCOTT POOLE

and it did. No other man on the earth are equal in combat to Americans. Breathing Freedom makes different men of them.

Why would the Jap or German fight? The time is coming when Freedom will be known and appreciated. Our Creator gave us the right to choose or reject any proffered good or evil.

England had but 100 tanks in 1940 when this war started, and these were not sufficiently strong to withstand the German heavy artillery. And, German, Japan and Italy signed the worldwide peace pact in 1921.

Reading the cruel, heartless tactics in modern warfare turns a man into a savage in some instances doubtless. However, the editor of The News and Observer urges us to fight with hate. That's hard done.

Wonder why the world thinks cotton growers are not entitled to a living. I think he is, but he cannot pay expenses and break even on 18 cent cotton, and with contingent living expenses apart from farm cost in taxes, travel, charity makes existence questionable.

It is said a certain man of Hoke orders three eggs when he eats at a restaurant, two to eat, and one to spread on his vest.

It is a cause of rejoicing that the U. S. Navy is now as strong as it was the day before the Pearl Harbor cowardly assault. But think of our eighteen warships, and hundreds of airplanes destroyed. Those Japs were never outlive that assault and deception. Something like 3,500 Americans lost their lives.

During my 38 years of editing news papers, I often differed from my fellow-editors on questions. They said the Americans would not be efficient soldiers when they entered World War No. I, but they were just as I said, they proved all it takes to make an American a soldier is to tell him what you want done.

I opposed the League of Nations, for might is not always right. If America effects peace by the League of Nations, then our nation takes the place of the Germans, and Might Makes Right.

The Hoke County Journal was saying that smashing by the Germans would stop when they met Americans. In some old English Grammar there is a sentence. "God tempers the mind to th' shorn lamb.

Were the Axis to win this war, and we would become all subject nations, it would take a tremendous Gestapo to keep order.

Men are enquiring: Why does a just god allow such terrible punishment inflicted on people who are not responsible for the great offences coming to the people of the world. Well. God makes the wrath of man to praise Him.

People are wanting in interest in music, particularly, sacred music. There is a surfeit of clamor, discordant, instrumental harrange. Learning to read notes by a music reader, is essential, and awakens a new interest in a sweet harmony of sounds. A knowledge of the rudiments of vocal music is an interesting and soul-stirring and informing study.

When something occurs we think at once: Has such an occurrence been known before? For instance, one fair, hot July day in 1887, at 1 o'clock, p.m., only one small cloud was in sight, which looked about the size of a city block, furnished the Jackson Springs vicinity the most terrific thunderstorm the people ever experienced for two hours or more.

1943 BEST WISHES

We remember, and will always remember, your kindness and loyalty to us through this and other years. We wish you and yours for 1943 the best of everything.

RAEFORD HARDWARE COMPANY

Lightning poured down across clear sky like liquid fire.

There was rain and hail, a damaging hail four miles south of the springs, but there were only an occasional hailstorm fell in the immediate community, and no rain at all. A woman attracted to a window in her home by the heavy thunder, was instantly killed by lightning. The turpentine woods were set on fire in more than a dozen places during the electrical bombardment.

In 1893, at Shannon and surrounding country, for a space of two or more hours, one July evening, thunder peal, after thunder peal interlocked, jammed into each other, echoed and resounded, reverberated while rain beat time on roofs around the country. In all my life I have never known anything like it.

In 1894, there was about a 4-inch snow on Monday after Christmas on Thursday, if I make no mistake. I know the snow fell Monday after Christmas, but I am not so sure about the Thursday being Christmas. Between February 1st, 1895 and March 20th that winter, six snows from 4 to 10 inches deep. The winters for ten years, thr had been mild, but little snow falling, nor was there very much cold weather. The winter of 1893-94 was unusually mild.
