Scout Anniversary Commemorated At Special Union Service

By Pvt. Hart Mershon

Paying tribute to the Boy Scouts of America at a union service in the Baptist Church on Sundoy night, the Rev. W. L. Maness, pastor of the Methodist Church, advised the local Scouts to follow Jesus as a personi-fication of the Scout law, "On my honor I will do my best," The Scout law and Jesus' words about Mary, "She hath done what she could.'I were the basis for the text of Mr. Maness' sermon. "Doing the best possible is all that is re-quired of any man, woman, boy or quired of any man, woman, boy or girl," the speaker stated. While still a boy, Jesus, Mr. Maness pointed out, was about his Father's business at the age of 12, grew both in wisdom and age of 12, grew both in wisdom and accompained the vocal selections.

outlining the duty of Scouts to God, their country and their fellow men, Mr. Maness said that we owe everything to God and that today we realize what a tremendous debt we owe to our country. "We also girls and twelfth grade boys against tenth and eleventh grade boys. The ninth grade girls and twelfth grade boys won. realize how much we should pay that debt," Mr. Maness declared. As for duty to our fellow men, the pastor told the Scouts that their duty would be done if they possessed the characteristics of a good Scout as listed in the Scout Manual.

Mr. Maness advised the Scouts to be physically strong, saying that many men were being rejected by the arm-ed forces by illness or weakness. "Be mentally awake, know what is going on in the world, and be morally straight," he admonished.

The service on the 34th anniversary of Scouting was in charge of the Rev J. D. Whisnant, pastor of the host church. The Rev. Harry K. Holland, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, gave the prayer and Mr. Maness offerred the benediction.

Much has changed in building styles ince this building was "the thing" back in the days when turpentine and long leaf pine timber were the principal products of this section. Fire-proof construction has long since outnodeled it as one suitable for commer. cial concerns in densely built-up business sections and it was condemned a number of years ago. Built of heart pine it has lasted for into the modern age of brick and concrete and stone and only in the past year have extensive repairs been needed for it to serve as a storage warehouse for the hardware con-cern. Last fall it was necessary for part of the picturesque false front of the gabled end of the building to be removed because of danger that it might blow down in case of high Generously decried by many citizens as an "eyesore" a "firetrap" and other derisive terms, because since ft vas condemned no repairs or improvements could be made on the building, demolition will mark the passing of the last of those old buillings that made up Raeford's earliest business section and mark up another victim to the steady march of progress down the town's Main Street.

The trophy, given each year by the Atlantic Cotton Shippers association of Atlanta, has been given only once before in this state. Last year it went to Halifax county. Due to the marked improvement in the grade of cotton and the large percentage of that graded under the Smith-Doxey act from Hoke county this year, is was announced that Hoke county was far out in front of all North Carolina counties this past year in improve-

The grades and percentage are compiled and reported by members of the agricultural faculty of State College, and the announcement of the award was made here this week by Dan Holler, Jr., Henry Maddux and J. A. Shanklin at a conference of members of the county group held at County Agent A. S. Knowles' office Monday.

Among the factors which gained this outstanding recognition for the county were: improvement in gin practices which reduced the gin-damage to the extremely low perentage of 1.6 while the state average is above 12 percent; the one-variety program wherein a very large part of Hoke's acreage is now planted to Cokers 100 Wilt variety; to the excellent work done in the improvement of seed stock, cultivation and fertili-zation which gives a higher yield per acre; and the increased percentage of the county's crop which is classed, graded and marked with loan value under the Smith-Doxey grading act. Tommie Upchurch, Mr. Knowles and Mr. Potter have outlined a program of great interest for the oc-casion and expect to entertain some 200 persons, representing each com-munity of the county, and have as special guests representative farm-ers, ginners, and cotton textile leaders from the surrounding counties

State Plans Place Sheep On Farms Of This Section

R. S. Curtis, sheep marketing specalist with the State Department of Agriculture, and Thompson Greenwood, public relations director of the department, were in this area for ilitation program for North lina now being purhed in the South-ern counties of the State.

Referring to themselves as "sheep missionaries" working to increase the sheep population of North Caro-lina, these representatives of the State Department pointed out that the number of sheep in the State has dropped from 560,000 head in 1870 to 50,000 head today.

Within the past two years a total of 2,500 ewes have been imported from the ranche; of Montana and Wyoming and sold to interest farmers

The 1944 project has begun with the importation of 250 ewe lambs which will be sold from Faleigh at approximately $12.00 each.

Curtis explained that these lambs are 10 months old and will be ready for breeding in July. He said that the wool clip in April would offset to an appreciable degree the initial cost of the lambs.

Anyone interested in purchasing the sheep is requested to write the State Department of Agriculture, Raleigh. The lambs are now on pasture sear Raleigh and may be by any farmers interested in making surchases, said Curils.
