SHADWELL-BAIN RITES PERFORMED IN ENGLAND

ROSEHILL, N. C.—In Cottesmore Parish church, England, at 4:30 P. M., November 27, 1944, Lieutenant Lola Bain became the bride of Major Ralph Edward Shadwell, Jr. The rector, Rev. Edward M. Guilford, officiated using the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was rendered by Capt. Vaught, organist, and Chaplain M. H. Willard, of Sacramento, California, as soloist. The bride was given in marriage by her commanding officer, Major Roger Dornberger. Her only attendant was Lt. Cordelia White, who was maid of honor. The groom had as his best man his commanding officer, Col. Leonard Fletcher.

The church, which dates back to the early Thirteenth Century, was tastefully decorated with greenery and ferns. Large vases of white chrysanthemums and candelabra holding white tapers completed the background for the vows. The bride wore her dress uniform and carried a white prayer book. Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to Edinburgh and Glasgow, Scotland. They also visited Ben Venue, Ben Au, Lochs Achray, and Katherine and other places in the County of Perthshire and the Highland Mountains made famous by Sir Walter Scott in "The Lady of the Lake."

MAJOR ROBERT COVINGTON SENDS INTERESTING CARD

Friends of Major Robert Covington received a most interesting Christmas card from him mailed from England. It was a printed letter to home folks, answering the many questions about England that would be asked of him if seen in person.

The bride, who is the attractive daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Bain of Rosehill, N. C., received her education at Seventy-First high school, Fayetteville, N. C.; Flora Macdonald College; and later graduated with honors from the Highsmith Training school in Fayetteville. She received her air evacuation training at Bowman Field, Louisville, Ky., and Seymour-Johnson Field, Goldsboro. Since March she has been in England serving as a flight nurse in the 818th Medical Air Evacuation Transport Squadron.

Major Shadwell is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Shadwell of Los Angeles, Calif. He was graduated from Los Angeles College. For the past two years he has served overseas in the U. S. Army Air Forces having taken part in the invasion of Africa, Sicily, Italy and Normandy.

HARLEYS VISIT RAEFORD EASTERN STAR CHAPTER

The Raeford chapter of the Eastern Star enjoyed the official visit from Mrs. Amelia Harley, district deputy grand matron, and George Harley, district deputy grand patron, at their regular meeting held Monday night.

There were thirty eight members present and the district deputy grand matron complimented the new officers very highly on the way the chapter was exemplified. Both Mr. and Mrs. Harley expressed new thought in their message for truth, loyalty and service.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley were remembered with a gift from the chapter. Sandwiches, cookies and coffee were served at the close of the meeting.

COX-COTHRAN

Miss Juanita Cothran and Pfc. William B. Cox were united in marriage in York, S. C., on December 31 at 8:30 P. M.

The bride, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cothran of Red Springs, is a graduate of Hoke high school, class of '44. She now holds a position as nurses aide at the N. C. Orthopaedic hospital in Gastonia.

Mr. Cox, who now has a medical discharge for wounds received in Italy, is the son of Mrs. Frances Cox and the late Mr. Cox of Gastonia. He served fourteen months overseas and has been presented the Purple Heart, the Presidential Citation, the American campaign ribbon and the good conduct medal. They will make their home in Gastonia.

MRS. DAVIS AND MRS. HALPERIN ARE HOSTESSES

Two of the most attractive post-holiday affairs were the two bridge parties given last Thursday by Mrs. Mary Snead Halperin and Mrs. Donald Davis at the home of Mrs. Davis.

Guests making up four tables were invited for the morning party. Mrs. Alfred Cole and Mrs. Colon Scarborough received high prize and consolation. Mrs. Frank Walser of Raleigh, house guest of Mrs. Davis, was remembered with an attractive gift. Luncheon was served at 1:30.

Again that afternoon four tables were in play with Mrs. Dwight Brown making high score and Mrs. A. L. O'Brian low score. They received prizes. Miss Aris Shankle, bride-elect, was given a bride's book. A delicious meal was served at 6:30.

The living room of Mrs. Davis' home was made most attractive for the occasion. Pink snapdragons with fern were the flowers used. A open fire added to the cheerful scene.

Seven million people saw their homes blacked out

This shows the hurricane's path as it tore up the Atlantic Coast.

On the job in Connecticut. Line crews came to the rescue from as far away as Detroit.

The big blow twisted the steeple off this Massachusetts church and toppled it into the street across the electric wires. Another headache for hard-working linemen!

LAST FALL, a raging hurricane roared up the eastern seaboard and left a $400,000,000 trail of wreckage from North Carolina to Maine.

Falling trees crushed houses, cars and power lines. Poles were snapped off by the fury of the storm. Hundreds of towns, millions of people had no electric service.

The electric light and power companies moved fast. Line crews worked around the clock. 18-hour stretches were common. Clerks, meter readers—everybody—pitched in to replace workers now at war. Short-wave radio helped direct the job.

Men and equipment came to New England from other electric companies as far west as Ohio and Michigan. In fact, some trucks were already rolling before the storm struck.

In most cases, service was quickly restored. Hospitals got first priority, then war plants. It was a staggering job, swiftly done—and helped immeasurably by the patience and understanding of customers.

This hurricane—like fires, floods, tornadoes across the country—dramatized anew the fact that only a major disaster can interrupt electric service.

It proved again that business-managed electric companies are organized and able to meet any emergency as completely as they met America's greatest emergency—war.
