Former Officers Are Urged To Join Reserve

Charlotte, Oct. 23.—Former officers of the U. S. Army who have been separated from service may apply for commissions in the organized reserves, according to Lt. Colonel Ralph E. Keyes, Commanding Officer of the U. S. Army Recruiting Station in Charlotte.

All male officers who were physically qualified for either general or limited military service at the time of their separation from service, and who were separated from active duty under honorable circumstances are eligible, Colonel Keyes said.

The Army's announcement of the opportunity for former officers follows:

Men accepting appointments in the Officers' Reserve will have a military status and a definite place in the post war Army of the U. S. They'll receive an initial five-year appointment in the Corps in the highest grade held at the time of relief from active duty. They will have a full opportunity, with their consent to acquire additional practical experience through temporary active service to receive promotions, by successive steps, to any ranks for which they can definitely qualify. They will have opportunities to accept tours of active duty with full pay and allowances.

In the event of future active duty or of another emergency, they'll insure their continuity of commissioned service for longevity pay, as well as for any authorized retirement benefits.

Reserve officers are able to maintain and enjoy the comradeship of their fellow officers of this war. They may exert an active influence on the future military policy of the United States through membership in the Reserve Officers Association of the United States. This voluntary association of Reserve Officers has been in existence since 1922, and was largely responsible for the availability of more than 100,000 Reserve Officers at the beginning of World War II.

Is Hit In Head And Chest By Buckshot.

John C. Story of Greensboro, was shot and fatally wounded at about ten o'clock last Saturday morning while hunting deer about five miles north of here. He was forty-five years old and was sheriff of Guilford county.

An inquest was ordered following the shooting and a coroner's jury ordered Guy Taylor, thirty-five-year-old farmer of this county, who was hunting near Sheriff Story at the time, held under bond of $1000 pending further investigation. At the conclusion of the investigation the jury decided that Story had died from accidental causes and that no one was responsible. Taylor, therefore, will not be indicted in connection with the shooting.

Sheriff D. H. Hodgin said he received a call at around ten o'clock and that he went to the scene of the hunt with a doctor. Sheriff Story was unconscious when they arrived and died at eleven-twenty, according to Sheriff Hodgin, from three buckshot wounds, two in his head and one in his chest. Another shot was found imbedded in his ankle.

Coroner William L. Poole ordered an immediate inquest at the scene of the killing. Taylor at that time told the jury that he and Story were approaching a swamp on opposite sides of a small branch. He admitted firing three times at a running deer and three shells of the same gauge as Taylor's were found about sixty-one yards from where Sheriff Story fell. Taylor insisted that he had not been within 200 yards of Story when he shot at a deer.

Sheriff Story's gun was raised to shoot at the time he was fatally hit. His gun was fired as he fell and the shots went into a small pine tree nearby.

Taylor told the jury that as he approached the spot where the sheriff fell he heard groans, discovered the wounded man and immediately called for help.

Sheriff Hodgin said that he believed the shooting was accidental and that both Taylor and Story were shooting at a deer at the time. He said the woods were thick and that Taylor could not have seen Sheriff Story from the point where the three shots fell.

Sheriff Story was elected sheriff of Guilford county in 1943. He was a member of the Corinthian lodge of Mason and of the Oasis temple of the Shrine, of the Elks, and of the American Legion. He is survived by his wife, one son, one daughter, and several brothers and sisters.

Airport Meeting Held Last Monday Not Well Attended

Due to a variety of conflicting information and the fact that John McGougan was out of town last Wednesday, it was announced in last week's paper that the airport meeting at the courthouse would be on last Tuesday instead of last Monday afternoon. For this and other reasons unknown, the meeting at the courthouse on Tuesday afternoon was quite small.

The commissioners discussed ways and means of having an airport with those present and with a representative of the Civil Aeronautics Authority who was present. The conclusion reached was that it is probably advisable and will be beneficial for this town and county to have an airport. The CAA representative informed the gathering that bills were at present before congress authorizing the government to pay as much as any community pays toward building an airport for that community. He also gave some interesting information on the size of the tract of land needed and other physical characteristics necessary for the most economical construction of a good field.

A committee to further investigate the advisability and practicability of the scheme was appointed. This included Tom Cameron, J. H. Blue, Ben Currie, N. H. G. Balfour, Mrs. P. P. McCain, Mrs. W. L. Poole, and Neill A. McDonald.
