Soil Conservation
Points The Way To Better Farm Yield

North Carolina agriculture, determined to hold its war-expanded markets by maintaining quality production, has placed more than 27,000,000 acres of cropland under the soil conservation service.

"This growing emphasis on soil care means that we food distributors can anticipate receiving improved quality of produce from North Carolina farms," said Harvey A. Baum, head of A & P food stores' produce-buying operations. "As purchasers of $607,538 of this state's produce last year, our company has a stake in the efforts of growers to step up fertility of their soil. In many soil conservation districts during the war our field buying offices found production of fruits and vegetables up as much as 20 percent. Much of this was due to pre-war soil-saving practices."

Baum pointed out that at the present time more than half of the nation's agricultural land—nearly 800,000,000 acres on 3,592,000 farms in 45 states—is under such planning, more than 228,000 North Carolina farms enrolled.

Besides improving the quality and increasing the volume of farm production cropland conservation coincides with a growing efficiency in the distribution of food, he said. The war emphasized the need for better packaging, speedier shipment, more effective refrigeration and a concerted war on waste.

Combined with such improvements in distribution, the efforts of farmers to produce more efficiently will mean a general reduction of the nation's food bill and an increase in farm income, Baum said.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

To Our Fertilizer Customers:

It looks as if the steel strike, followed by the coal strike, has just about ended whatever hope we had of getting an adequate supply of Nitrate of Soda, Cal-Nitro, or Sulphate of Ammonia, this season. The manufacturers simply cannot run without coal, and the demand made on them for nitrogen materials is heavier than ever, not only from this country, but also from abroad.

The only safe answer we know now to the situation is prompt use of regular crop fertilizers for top dressing. We have a limited amount of 5-10-5 premium goods, and also a limited amount of 6-8-6 general crop goods. In addition to this we may be able to supply very small amounts of 10-0-10 or Cyanamid later.

Whatever supplies of Nitrate of Soda, Cal-Nitro, or Top Dressers, are available to us will be delivered as they come in, on a pro-rata basis of our early bookings for these materials.

Your patience and forbearance are appreciated. We are doing our very best to obtain all the nitrogen materials we can for you.
