State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Question: Are there any new vegetables recently developed for use in this state?
 Answer: Yes. The Wando garden pea is new and, although it comes in late, out-bears the old standby, Early Alaska peas. The Wando variety is exceptionally sweet and superior in quality to the Early Alaska strain. Some growers this year found that while the Wando was just coming in as the Alaska stopped bearing, and families had begun to grow tired of garden peas, the sweetness of the new variety made many ask for second helpings.

Question: Is it safe to leave off dusting of cucumber and melon crops in North Carolina this year?

Answer: Pathologist and entomologists are concerned about the early appearance and probable spread of the highly destructive downy mildew disease in these cucurbit crops this year and recommend the immediate dusting of commercial crops with copper dusts. These dustings to be repeated every 10 days during the growing season. Mildew has already been discovered in Scotland County cucurbit crops this season.

Question: Have the recent heavy rains in the flue-cured tobacco belt damaged the leaf crop other than by drowning?

Answer: Some tobacco has been scaled in areas of heavy rainfall but probably the greatest difficulty in leaf production thus far this year has occurred in leaching of fertilizer from the soil. Many growers have found it necessary to replenish original applications of fertilizer and to top dress leached land.

MEMORY VERSE: "And The little dabs of feather and veiling our women call hats add up to a 250-million-dollar a year retail business."

Hoke Narrative Report For May

by Josephine Hall

Thirteen (13) Home Demonstration Clubs met in Hoke County in May with the attendance of one hundred and thirty-nine (139). The demonstration was on "The Modern Farm Kitchen". Plans for the floor and wall space, work centers, heights for working surfaces, color, storage for canned foods, and wiring lighting were among the things discussed.

The Older Youth's Club met on the evening of May 1 at the Raeford Armory. The young people enjoyed a weiner roast through the courtesy of the Raeford Kiwanis Club and T. B. Upchurch, Inc. After a business session, a square dance was held.

The U. S. D. A. County Council met on the afternoon of May 6. Eight agricultural workers attended.

Three Home Demonstrations Clubs gave away quilts during the month. Clara Mae Gibson won the Milledousson quilt. Bill Jones received the quilt made by the Arabia club women, and Mrs. Dan Conoly was the lucky winner of the Raedeen Club quilt.

The Hoke County Club women celebrated National Home Demonstration Club week by getting out a special section of the local newspaper and by collecting 815 cans of food to ship overseas to the starving people in the war-ravageed countries.

Three Hoke High 4-H club girls, Elizabeth Parker, Betty McFadyen, and Martha Harris of the Wayside Community assisted the Home Agent in making 200 cookies for sick soldiers at Fort Bragg for Mother's Day.

The Home Agent attended a meeting of the Rockfish Grange, the Hoke County Library Board, and the meeting of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Convention in Pinehurst during May.

PLANS CAMERA SHOT; SHOOT WITH GUN

J. Dewitt Tapp came to town from Timberland this week with a long story about a large snake.

Dewitt says he was out in the woods sitting around a beaver dam with his camera waiting for a beaver to show up so he could take his picture. After he had waited thirty or forty minutes he saw a snake coming through the water and decided to get his picture instead of the beaver's.

He waited there on the dam until the snake mounted it also and when it was about five feet away he observed that it was a rattlesnake and a fairly large one then something went wrong with the camera. It shook violently and gave evidence of preferring to take pictures of birds. Dewitt arrived at the same preference and made tracks, one after the other, rapidly, cane and all.

He did return with a shooting iron and liquidate the monster, though, he says. Measurements, according to Dewitt, are length 54 inches, rattles, 14.
