CHAMINADE MUSIC CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. McLAUCHLIN

The Chaminaide Music club met on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. T. N. McLauchlin with Mrs. Walter Baker and Mrs. W. B. McLauchlin serving as associate hostesses.

Plans for national music week, which featured a private concert by Miss Aileen McMillian of Flora Macdonald college, a public sacred concert at the Methodist church, and a public community sing in the high school which will also feature the film showing of the national music camp at Interlocken, Michigan, were completed.

The following program was given: Study, Mrs. Clyde Upchurch; vocal solo, Mrs. A. K. Curdie, accompanist Mrs. Luke Bethune; double trio, "Native Land" Mrs. R. B. Lewis, Mrs. H. R. McLean, Mrs. J. S. Poole, Mrs. A. L. O'Brian, Mrs. Fred Culbreth, Mrs. T. N. McLauchlin, accompanist Miss Jessie Bright Ferguson.

After the program chorus practice was held with Mrs. Clyde Upchurch directing and Miss Jessie Bright Ferguson, accompanist. During the social hour the hostesses served block ice cream with cake and nuts.

MRS. DAVIS CLUB HOSTESS

Mrs. Frances Davis was hostess to her bridge club on Wednesday evening. After several progressions of bridge Mrs. Van Hartsell won ladies high and Ben Robinson won the mens high score prize. At the end of the game delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Stevens had as their guests for several days last week Mrs. Stevens' brother, Claude Ripley of Los Angeles, California.

GARDEN CLUB HAS INTERESTING MEETING

The Raeford Garden club met with Mrs. Clyde Upchurch and Mrs. H. A. Cameron at the home of the latter on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Cameron had planned to have the club meet in her summer house, but the inclemency of the weather prohibited this. There was a full attendance. Mrs. Watson Fairley, a charter member, was a guest of the club and several new members were taken in. This brought the club membership to its full quota of twenty-five.

Mrs. Cameron had daffodils of many varieties which were exhibited by name. These were the finer late varieties, and many were new.

Mrs. W. T. Covington read a most interesting article on the lily and Mrs. Clarence Lytch discussed varieties of chrysanthemums. Mrs. Lacy McFadyen gave a very timely article on gladioli and the proper way to plant them. The discussions after each number was practical and beneficial.

A contest fitting the everyday name of the flowers to its scientific name was held. Mrs. Fairley won the prize for naming all correctly.

The hostesses served Russian tea with a variety of sandwiches.

Miss Mary Stuart Covington of Peace college spent the week end at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Covington. She had as her guest Miss Alice Gordon Tuttle of Raleigh. Other guests in the Covington home Sunday were Mrs. Chalmers McCreight of Hamlet, Mrs. Nancy Gordon Barbour of Hillsboro, Representative and Mrs. Crawford Kearney of Franklinton, Miss Julia Stuart and Watt Stuart of Laurinburg.

MISS RUTH COX WED IN CALIFORNIA

Miss Ruth C. Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Cox of Raeford, became the bride of Leonard G. Seamans, son of Mrs. C. J. Millard and the late P. J. Seamans of Syracuse, New York, on Thursday evening, April 3, in a candlelight ceremony in the quaint "Wee Kirk O' The Heather" chapel in Glendale, Calif. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul F. Heubner.

The altar was decorated with Easter lilies, seven branched candleabra and tall baskets of mixed flowers. A program of nuptial music was presented by the church organist.

Miss Ruth Thompson accompanied the bride as maid of honor, and J. R. Urquhart, Jr. was best man.

For her wedding the bride chose a grey gabardine suit, designed by Fred Block, with white accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for a brief honeymoon in Palm Springs, California, after which they will be at home at 636, North Wilton Place, Hollywood, California.

Looking Pretty While She Waits

If you're going to have a baby, you can expect the compliment ever so often that you never looked prettier. Partly, it just seems to happen. But today's expectant mother knows, too, that it's also because she gives her hair and her health and her clothes extra attention. She wants to look neat and fresh above all, but she wants to dress as much like everyone else as possible.

Green chambray (left) with eyelet touches for the expectant mother. Brown spun rayon (above) in a sundress with striped bolero.

Such dresses as these shown from the collections of New York designers of maternity fashions are examples of how little difference in style an adjustable waistline needs to make. The youthful green chambray frock has its belt set in in front but released at the sides to tie in back of the snap-adjusted waistline. Although practical for home and marketing, it's dressy enough for visiting and town. The other dress is equally versatile, a practical sundress without the jacket, and a smart street costume with the jacket. It can also be worn with blouses, as a jumper.

The long cotton housecoat that is again shown in New York maternity collections is a delight before and after baby comes. Becoming styled with a drawstring waist and full skirt to the ankles, it's the type of thing any woman feels her best in when relaxing at home.

Miss Lizzie Niven left Saturday morning for Townsends Inlet, New Jersey, where she will spend this week visiting her niece, Mrs. William Shellem.

John Murdock McDuffie has been a patient at Duke hospital since Monday.
