Classic Overcoat

Girls who know about the serviceability of clothes from experience agree that a black overcoat is an indispensable item in every careerist's wardrobe. Note this one of black wool on Martha Scott, who co-stars with John Mills, Patricia Roc, Trevor Howard and Richard Carlson in the RKO Radio-J. Arthur Rank production, "So Well Remembered." It has a round collar, wide revers and loose back.

Hoods In The News

Hoods lend enchantment to girls who wear them. Outstanding among those to choose from this year is one purchased by Loretta Young (above), dewy-eyed star who shares stellar honors with Cary Grant and David Niven in Samuel Goldwyn's production of "The Bishop's Wife," released by RKO Radio. Made of wool jersey and studded with nailheads, it drapes over the shoulders along the sweeping lines of the cowl that adorned King Arthur's gallant knights. An added attraction to daytime coats on cold and windy days, it's comfortable and graceful with formal evening capes.

Dressed For A Date

A dark bolero suit is the answer to every school girl's prayer for an outfit that will slip easily from class to date in town. Shirley Temple wears one such suit in blue wool (above) in "The Bachelor And The Bobby-Soxer," RKO Radio's riotous romantic comedy co-starring the petite favorite with Cary Grant and Myrna Loy. The waist-length, bellhop jacket has little revers and cuffs edged in red-and-white checked crepe, carrying over the motif of the high blouse that tops the contour skirt. Worn with it are a tiny blue feathered hat, blue calf shoes, bag and gloves. For a dash of the divine, take a fling at a red hat. Another time, wear all blue accessories but spot red in your shoes or your handbag. And remember to be sparing with color for more than a touch of it against a dark background will result in confusion.

Tweeds Are Back For Casual Life

Plan on one well-made tweed suit for spectator sportswear and traipsing around town all day, says well-dressed stage and screen actress Judith Anderson, who plays an important role in "Tycoon," an RKO Radio picture featuring color by Technicolor and co-starring John Wayne and Laraine Day. Her own, a brown-and-white check, has the long, full-hipped jacket with flap pockets and bone buttons. Backed up by an array of accessories, this attractive tweed suit fills an important need in Miss Anderson's life. Choose your accessories to sharpen your suit—tailored flats or shoes with modified heels, classic hats, capacious leather bags, matching chamois or pigskin gloves, perhaps a thin leather belt, pins made of odd coins, and silk squares in spice tones.

New Gibson Blouse

When grandma was a girl she had the Gibson look inherent in this pretty blouse worn by Merle Oberon, who co-stars with Dana Andrews and Ethel Barrymore in "Memory Of Love," a John Cromwell production and an RKO Radio picture. Important accessories are the high collar and the blouse's ribbon bow, the full bodice, little buttons, the fine cording.

Virginia Huston

Separates Go Together

Most popular with career and school girls alike are skirts and blouses... because paired with imagination they complete a costume, dress up with accessories and make a few clothes seem like many. Right: Virginia Huston, whose next RKO Radio film is "Out Of The Past," co-starring Jane Greer and Robert Mitchum, wears a pin-tucked white blouse with full sleeves and high collar. An "order" ribbon is clipped under the blouse. The good knit skirt is in gold. The brown leather belt features gold buttons, the fine cording.

Seductive Slipper

Once again black satin shoes are gleaming softly and seductively from under satin dresses after dark. They come in a multitude of styles but, with the exception of the slender-heeled opera pump, most make an issue of the thin ankle strap. One shoe we saw had bracelet bands going twice across the toes and high about the ankle. Another sandal was banded and fastened down the outside of the foot with buckles. Faithful model, though, is this little platform pump seen on actress Ann Southern, co-starring with Alexander Knox in RKO Radio's "Indian Summer." An urban slipper, it makes a stirring foil for the new late-in-the-day dresses.
