Deserved Cooperation

The way the workers in the March of Dimes drive are pitching into their job is a credit to them and to the county. It is also deserving of the complete moral and financial support of all of us, for such hard work deserves success. Success in this case will be the raising of a substantial amount of money by January 31 when the drive ends.

News and advertisements of the various money-raising projects being attempted by the workers in the various communities appears in the paper. One way we can all cooperate and contribute is to lend our presence to these suppers, concerts, dances, etc. And for any of them we plan to attend in spirit only, we should certainly buy the spirit a good seat.

Another thing, almost beside the point, is the fact that in every case we'll get full value received for our money in entertainment or food or dancing.

Peach Growers Plan School At Pinehurst

L. Y. Ballentine, State Commissioner of Agriculture, will be the principal speaker at a banquet for Tar Heel peach growers in Pinehurst on Wednesday evening, January 26. He will discuss "Looking Ahead in North Carolina Agriculture."

The banquet will be one of the highlights of a two-day peach school which will be held at the Pinehurst Country Club January 26-27 under sponsorship of the North Carolina Mutual Peach Growers Society, Inc. C. D. Matthews is president of the society.

Major problems in producing and marketing peaches will be discussed by more than a score of specialists from N. C. State College, N. C. Experiment Station and Extension Service, State and Federal Department of Agriculture, and commercial organizations. J. Claude Epting, Hamlet, is in charge of the program, which will be built around the theme "Analyzing the Peach Situation."

Appearing on the program will be M. E. Gardner, head of department of horticulture, and Ivan D. Jones, research professor in horticulture, both of the N. C. State College faculty; C. F. Smith, entomologist, C. N. Clayton, pathologist, and R. W. Cummings, associate director, all of the N. C. Experiment Station; H. R. Niswonger, horticulturist, J. T. Conner, Jr., entomologist, and H. R.

Garriss, pathologist, of the State College Extension Service.

Federal specialists who will speak include J. H. Weinberger, pomologist, Horticultural Field Laboratory, Fort Valley, Ga.; J. C. Dunegan, senior pathologist, Beltsville, Md.; Phillip Gorman, entomologist, ew HaNven, Conn.; and Walter Reuther, principal horticulturist, Orlando, Florida.

Coming from Clemson, S. C., to speak at the school will be J. H. Cochran, entomologist, and L. O. Van Blaricom, associate in horticultural manufactures, both of the South Carolina Experiment Station, and Roy J. Ferree, horticulturist, South Carolina Extension Service.

Other speakers will include H. T. Westcott, acting head of the markets division, N. C. Department of Agriculture; D. L. White, orchardist, West End; Bruce Gleissner, American Cyanamid Company entomologist; and three representatives of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, including J. Claude Epting of Hamlet, F. P. Abbott of Savannah, Ga., and J. A. Shea of Jacksonville, Florida.

MORE ABOUT National Guards

Capt. Dickson announced that there were 33 vacancies for enlisted men in Battery A, which now has a strength of 98.

Governor Cherry last summer issued the proclamation making it possible for 17 and 18-year-olds to take their military training at home without interrupting their education or their careers, he said.

"Those men interested in joining the Battery A should apply to the local armory between the hours of 8:00 and 5:00 daily. Applicants also can report at the regular, weekly training period which is held from 7:30 to 9:30 every Monday night at the armory."

National Guardsmen receive a full day's pay at Regular Army rates for each training period. Veterans receive an additional five per cent for every three years of service, whether in the National Guard, Air Force, Navy (Marine Corps or Coast Guard).

MORE ABOUT March Of Dimes

"funds given to the March of Dimes will be used not only to help those whom polio may strike but we still have to meet the continuing cost of care and treatment of boys and girls stricken in prior epidemic years, and insure that there is no interruption in research for a cure or preventive of the disease."

Mr. Upchurch urged all who received March of Dimes Coin Cards and School Cards to return them promptly with as generous a contribution as possible, if they have not already done so. Coin collectors, he said, will continue on display throughout the concluding week of the campaign. He appealed to shoppers to donate whatever loose change they can spare daily to the fight against polio and help speed the drive to victory by January 31.

"Nine of us," Mr. Upchurch concluded, "can afford to take chances with a possible polio epidemic this coming summer. But all of us can afford a dime or a dollar toward assurance that we will be ready should infantile paralysis hit our county this year."
