8,408 Farmers Participate In Crop Insurance Program

A total of 8,408 North Carolina farmers participated in the Federal crop insurance program last year, State Director Julian E. Mann reported at the annual meeting of crop insurance committeemen and workers in Wilson recently.

Of the seven counties offering tobacco insurance, Pitt led with 1,468; Columbus, 1,268; Wake, 1,054; Surry, 633; Wilson, 568; and Vance, 417. In the two counties with cotton insurance, Cleveland led with 592 participants, and Mecklenburg had 433.

All nine of these counties will continue their insurance program in multiple crop insurance, offering farmers protection on corn, soybeans, cotton, and peanuts. Perquimans was chosen for this test because of its diversified farming system, and is the only county in the South ever to be selected for such a program.

Wilson and Vance tobacco growers whose crops were insured in 1948 will receive a 30 per cent discount on premiums in 1949, because they have built up sizeable reserves. The discount provision is a new feature of the Federal crop insurance program, and Wilson and Vance are the only two-flue-cured tobacco counties in the United States which are able to take advantage of the new plan this year.

The State meeting in Wilson was attended by 75 committeemen and workers from all 10 counties participating in the crop insurance program. Also present were a number of officials from Washington, D. C., including G. F. Geissler, manager of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation; Earl Nikkel, in charge of sales; Tom Ragsdale, tobacco specialist; and Homer Simpson, of the underwriting division staff.

Schools of instruction for tobacco growers are being held in most of the major leaf-producing counties this month and next. Conducting the schools are R. R. Bennett and S. N. Hawks, tobacco specialists for the State College Extension Service.

State College Hints To Farm Homemakers

It often pays to shop around for different makes of patterns, clothing specialists say. If the kind you have been using needs many changes for a good fit, try other makes to find one that more nearly meets your individual specifications.

Long experiences in fitting patterns to people has led our specialists to conclude that because of figures irregularities there are about 45 different ways that patterns may need to be altered. How best to make these changes is described with illustrations in a bulletin entitled, "Pattern Alteration," (F. B. 1948) which may be purchased for 10 cents in coin (not stamps) from the Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

Probably the most useful "must" when it comes to ironing all of the children's school things isn't actually a hint but a suggestion that starching will cut the ironing time in half. It means that dresses, shirts, skirts and blouses stay cleaner longer, shed dirt and dust more easily and keep that crisp look two days instead of one.

Occasionally starch sticks to your iron. A very fine non-abrasive cleaner or some fine steel wool rubbed lightly over the shoe will remove all of the starch. If you have trouble with starch sticking to the iron from regular cotton garments, it may be due to the fact that the water was not boiling rapidly before pouring it into the starch. This is very important as starch not thoroughly cooked before going into the fabric will cook when it comes in contact with the heat of the iron and then peel off the clothes and cling to the hot shoe.

Sprinkling starched clothes for ironing is very important if you want the finished garment to look right. Heavily starched clothes should be much damper than lightly starched or unstarched clothes. It is also important to sprinkle the starched pieces at least four to six hours ahead of ironing.

Martin County 4-H Club boys participating in the 1948 corn growing contest averaged 78.9 bushels per acre as compared with an overall county yield of about 30 bushels per acre.
