four large groups known as Head, Heart, Hands and Health. Each group will see one of the following demonstrations each morning: "Boy Dates Girl," sponsored by Wayne County; "My Spokesman! My Record!" led by Miss Emmie Nelson of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club work; song leadership under the direction of Dr. Frederick S. Smith of Christ Episcopal Church in Raleigh; and "Home Is What You Make It," led by teams from Northampton, Nash, and Hyde Counties. The boys and girls will be separated but will still remain with their large group. Demonstrations for the boys will be dairy production, poultry, soil conservation, and farm management. For the girls, there will be demonstrations on the proper use of clothing, sewing, and floor sanding.

A recreation program consisting of sharpshoot, fishing, golf, dancing, softball, and other sports will be a part of the State 4-H dress parade program, opening with a ceremony, and a parade. Each club in the State is invited to send one representative to the State 4-H Week in Raleigh.

Acclimated death losses, and suffering of the birds may result unless extra effort and extra thought are applied to mid-summer marketing of hens. He offered six tips that should aid the farmer in getting the best possible price for his birds at market. First, he advised, make certain that the birds have access to plenty of clean, fresh water while holding just before marketing. Second, always market live poultry in clean coops, and do not overcrowd. Third, provide plenty of ventilation. Good ventilation is important at all times, but it is doubly important in hot weather. Be sure your poultry has plenty of fresh air to breathe when you take it to market. Load poultry coops on the truck in a manner that will be sure to provide a constant flow of fresh air through each coop, and do not permit the loaded truck to stand in the sun for long periods.

Never use shells or any other material in which to pack the poultry.

Never pack shells together.

And sixth, market only those birds of good appearance, and bring them to market according to quality. Do not mix and grade your birds with those of poor quality. These are some tips of those who have been successful in marketing their poultry. Never forget to call your local 4-H agent for more information.
