afternoon. The subject for study and discussion at this meeting was "The Teaching of Spelling."

At a principals meeting held last week it was decided to operate the colored schools on short day schedule through next week. The consensus was that most of the cotton would be picked by that time if the weather remained good.

We hope that every patron will make an effort to get the crop gathered as early as possible and then get their children in full time. The schools are trying to cooperate with the parents 100%. It is hoped that in turn the parents will cooperate by sending the children regularly when they finish gathering.

contestants being selected by Lunsford, will enter the competition.

Lunsford — the singing, dancing, guitar-strumming lawyer from Turkey Creek in Buncombe County — has asked that wouldbe contestants write him in care of the State Fair in Raleigh.

"Church choir and gospel quartet entries are especially urged to enter the State Championships," Lunsford said.

The state's No. 1 mintrel said he would send fair tickets to all contestants who get in touch with him.

The contest will be staged each evening prior to the regular grandstand show, Manager Dorton said, and each contestant will be judged on a one-time performance. Other performances will be held, however, so that everyone will have a chance to see what the state's best folk singers, dancers and instrumentalists can do.

Dr. Dorton said that he plans to make the State Fair Folk Festival an annual event, with the best in North Carolina battling it out for Tar Heel titles.

Announcement

We are pleased to announce that on October 17th, Mr. M. Donald Yates will join our organization as manager.

We consider ourselves very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Yates. He is one of our own Hoke County citizens and has had quite a number of years experience along our line of business.

We invite you to stop in and meet Mr. Yates, and give him and The Johnson Company an opportunity to serve you in the same friendly and business like way as we have done in the past.
