

State College Hints To Farm Homemakers

Dry milk can be used to good advantage in meal planning, say nutrition specialists. Use it in beverages, breads, soups, main dishes and desserts.

Dry milk is easy to carry home and takes little storage space. Nonfat dry milk has all the nourishment of fresh skim milk. Whole dry milk has, in addition, the fat and the vitamin of the cream part of whole milk.

Dry milk products make it easier to get more milk into family meals, especially helpful in families where children or others do not drink enough milk.

One pound of milk powder and four cups of water make one quart of liquid milk. In the same proportion 1-4 cup of milk powder and 1 cup water make 1 cup of liquid milk.

One pound packages of both nonfat dry milk and whole dry milk now are carried by grocery stores.

Clothing specialists say the latest style in skirts may be long or short, tight or full, pleated, gathered or dressed up with trimmings, flaps or other fancy extras. But for work around the house or yard, the wise housewife will choose a skirt designed for safety, comfort and convenience. A skirt which is moderately wide but not full is safest for work around the house. Skirts are somewhat shorter this year—and that is all to the good for working convenience and safety.

A gored skirt, the specialists suggest, may be cut wide enough around the bottom to allow for walking, or running when necessary, also for climbing and stooping. Yet it is fitted about the hips so that it stays in place and does not get in the way. In contrast, a full skirt like a dirndl has a way of billowing out when you bend over so that it may be stepped on in going down a ladder to wash windows, or in stooping to low shelves. A tight skirt which is close around the bottom restricts steps, may catch and pull uncomfortably and unsafely, often just when the wearer is in a hurry. Sashes, bows, flaps and fancy loose pockets are accident hazards because they may catch on door knobs or hooks.
