At a principals meeting Tuesday afternoon some of the commencement dates for the white schools were set. Graduation exercises were set for Wednesday evening, May 31, Skip Day, May 31; Seventh Grade Promotion Day, Tuesday, May 30; Baccalaureate Sermon, Sunday May 28. Dates for other closing exercises will be announced at a later date.

Arrangements were made at the principals meeting for a county-wide spelling match for elimination previous to a spelling match that will be broadcast from station WEWO about the last of April.

A great deal of interest in spelling is being evidenced by the pupils in the various schools as the various interschool matches indicate. Matches have been held between Rockfish and Mildouson, Mildouson and Ashemont, and Ashemont and Rockfish. Next Friday Mildouson will come to the Raeford Graded school for a match and the following Friday Ashemont will be here.

Miss Lunette Barber of the State Wild Life Commission came to Ashemont to take pictures of the bird houses made by the pupils. She also expected to get pictures of the beaver dams and houses discovered by the pupils in nearby creeks and branches. Owing to the bad weather she didn't get the last mentioned pictures and will return at a later date for them.

Last Monday Mrs. Shelton's room of the Raeford Graded school went to Ashemont for a meeting with the Ashemont 5th grade under Miss Thornburg. The purpose of the trip was to exchange ideas with the Ashemont Wild Life club. A most profitable meeting was held. Both clubs got new ideas that could be put into practice in their local club work.

Yesterday Mrs. Ruria Shelton, Miss Hilda Priest and J. W. Turlington went to Lumberton to a science meeting sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction. Discussions were held as to the teaching of science both in the elementary and high school.

Mrs. R. A. Matheson, teacher in the Raeford Graded School and Mrs. C. S. Osment, Elementary Supervisor, attended the school clinics at Duke University hospital yesterday.

The final phase of the school health program for the year, which will deal largely with corrections, has been worked out. There will be the closest cooperation between the schools, health department and welfare department. With all of these agencies working in cooperation a great deal should be done before June 30.

The final meeting of Group 4 of the Colored schools was held at the Laurel Hill school. A resume of the work done in reading was given. A great deal of progress both in methods and in results was shown.

Below is a schedule of the preschool clinics to be held this spring. It is suggested that parents clip this schedule and keep it so that they may be ready to take their children to the place indicated for their school. It is hoped that all parents will cooperate and that every child who will enter school for the first time next fall will attend.

Attention is called to the fact that according to law only children who are 6 years old on or before October the first are eligible. (Continued on Page 4)

Bill Horner Is After Seat Now Held By Deane

W. E. Horner, publisher of the Sanford Herald and former member of the North Carolina General Assembly, is a candidate for Congress from the Eighth District, and will oppose Congressman Charles B. Deane of Rockingham, who is a candidate for another term.

Horner ran in 1946 for the seat in Congress then held by Miss Jane Pratt, who was appointed to serve the unexpired portion of the term of Congressman W. O. Burgin, who died April 11, 1946, after having announced that he would not be a candidate for another term.

Horner was defeated in the primary by the present Eighth District Congressman, Charles B. Deane in a close contest by less than 400 votes out of 37,000 cast. Mr. Deane had no opposition in 1948.

Horner describes himself as a middle-of-the-roader and as being opposed to big government and too much taxing and spending.

Senate Told A & P Makes Only 1c Lb. On Coffee

The great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company has made only slightly more than a penny a pound profit before taxes on its coffee sales the past two years, a senate subcommittee investigating coffee prices was told.

Francis M. Kurtz, president of A&P's coffee division and its affiliated American Coffee corporation, informed the committee that in the two-year period ended Feb. 25, the food store chain had an identical net profit in each year of .0105 cents per pound before taxes.

The period covered included the last few months of 1949 and the early part of this year when sharp rises in coffee prices caused the committee to undertake the current investigation.

Kurtz told the committee what A&P "has done to keep the prices of its coffee at relatively low levels, often 20 cents or more per pound lower than the retail price of other coffees."

The coffee official, a veteran of 28 years in the industry, said the company's one-cent margin "is the total profit A&P receives for procuring and processing the green coffee, importing, roasting, packing, transporting, grinding, retailing it to the American consumer who buys it in our stores."

"To my knowledge," he said, "this is the first time A&P has ever divulged its profit per pound of coffee, and I am personally sorry that it has been done before as it is an accomplishment of which any company in any country can rightfully be proud." A&P's coffee is "priced much lower than other brands" for two reasons, Kurtz said.

"The first lies in A&P's business philosophy—that we should sell the best possible food at the lowest possible prices," he said. "The second is found in our method of buying, processing and retailing coffee."

By distributing its own coffee in its own stores which have built up a steady day-to-day demand, he said, A&P is able to schedule its buying and processing operations in an orderly, efficient manner. "We do not take a speculative position at any time, he said. "Nor do we do any hedging, or have any transactions on any coffee exchange. We simply buy green coffee, import it, roast and pack it, and supply our stores with enough to take care of the demands of our customers."

When prices began to soar, he said, A&P had two alternatives. One was to sell its coffee without increases until stocks were exhausted and then boost prices as much as 25 cents a pound overnight on the basis of the higher replacement costs.

"The second alternative was to move up in price to a level still well below replacement cost, he said, and hold that price until any abnormal pickup on our inventory was entirely handed back to the consumer."

Kurtz said A&P chose the second method and thus was able to (Continued on page 4)

Hoke High Students To Get Instruction In Driving Safety

Students of Hoke High school will have an opportunity at 1:30 p. m. Friday, March 24th to see for themselves how the false impression and sense of security that a driver of a modern automobile gets, can and does, often lead into the danger zone and trouble, when they participate in a series of driving tests, W. T. Gibson, Jr., principal has announced.

The tests, which will be in two parts, will be given under the direction of George M. Tewksbury, Jr. safety engineer, of the Farm Bureau insurance companies.

The first section will be a lecture and movie in the Hoke High School auditorium, while the second will be a demonstration on the North end of Main street, one block East of the school. Mr. Tewksbury will also demonstrate the correct and incorrect driving habits.

High point of the demonstration will come, however, when driving tests are made with various students and faculty members in the specially equipped car of Tewksbury. Three revolvers which are mounted on the front bumper of the car will fire yellow paint bullets to indicate the distance required to stop the car in an emergency.

The driver being tested will be signalled to stop by a red light mounted above the radiator. The first paint bullet will be fired automatically at the same instant the stop signal is flashed. The second will be fired automatically when the brake is applied and the third when the car halts. Distance between the spots of paint will then be measured to determine the reaction and braking distances.

Tests will be limited to 20, 30 and 40 mile per hour speeds because of the danger in making emergency stops at higher speeds. Police officers will be used as drivers in the high speed tests.

As part of a program for safety on the highway, the Farm Bureau Insurance Companies have presented the driving demonstration and test before the student bodies of more than 3000 high schools and colleges in 12 states. The program is being brought to Raeford under the sponsorship of the Kiwanis Club.

The public is invited to attend the lecture as well as the demonstration.
