The people in the community plan to raise money during the summer and fall and hope to start the building next winter. Mrs. Matthews offered the plot of land at the March meeting of the Buchan Home Demonstration Club and after some discussion it was decided to plant sweet potatoes on the land, harvest them in the fall and sell them to make some money to be used toward building. Ufa Matthews, Talmadge Bobbitt and others in the community bedded the potatoes and are taking the responsibility of setting out the slips. The Home

Early efforts against cotton insects included such primitive methods as carrying torches through the field at night and building fires around the borders
