

SOIL LOSSES FROM ONE ACRE IN ONE YEAR

Good Pasture Sod's Prevent Soil Erosion

Improved pastures not only produce cheap feed for livestock but also prove to be excellent conservers of soil and water, says T. L. Copley, soil conservationist with the North Carolina Experiment Station.

An experiment at the Stateville Experiment Station has proved that good pasture is almost as effective as protected woodland in conserving soil and water.

At the beginning of the experiment a good, permanent sod was established on a 10 per cent slope. An adjacent field of the same size, slope and soil type was planted to cotton. Water and soil measuring devices were installed at the base of both fields.

During the first year of the test while the pasture was being established, some soil was lost. When averaged in with losses for succeeding seven years, the soil lost per year was three-tenths of a ton per acre. The total loss for the succeeding seven years was only 140 pounds of soil per acre.

The adjacent field of cotton during these same years lost a total of 475,000 pounds or 237 tons of soil per acre.

The story on water run-off was similar. Only seven-tenths of an inch per acre was lost from the pasture during the seven-year period. Water lost from the cotton field during the same period was 40.9 inches per acre or an average of 5.84 inches per acre per year.

Copley and Woodhouse conclude from their tests that a grass pasture sod does three things: (1) forms a cover over the soil, protecting it from heating action of heavy rains; (2) slows the movements of water, allowing it more time to soak in and keeping it from carrying away soil; and (3) the heavy mass of grass roots generally hold the soil in place.

$10, advance $33; low orange, $32, up $8.50, advance $20; nondescript best thin, $16.50, up $4.25, advance $10.

Armed with government loan rate sheets farmers followed the sales carefully to take advantage of the differential between what the buyers would bid and the government's yardstick on the various grades. But all down the line the buying companies—and not the government—got the bulk of the offerings.

The Flue-Cured Cooperative Tobacco Stabilization Corporation continued to lure members even after sales Tuesday—membership is necessary to get the benefit of support prices.

Government loan rates this year are $45 per 100 pounds as compared with $42.50 per 100 pounds in 1949.

C. B. Stafford, sales supervisor at Fairmont, who has spent 30 years on market handling flue-cured tobacco, 16 of which were spent at Greenville, said the prices he saw Tuesday on most grades were the highest since 1919.

Cigarette manufacturers which will be using tobacco brought on the Border Belt in their product liked the wholesale price of cigarettes several days ago and sent the retail price up one to two cents. Production costs were blamed. And during Tuesday's auctions there were many farmers who weren't forgetting that production costs had hit them, too.

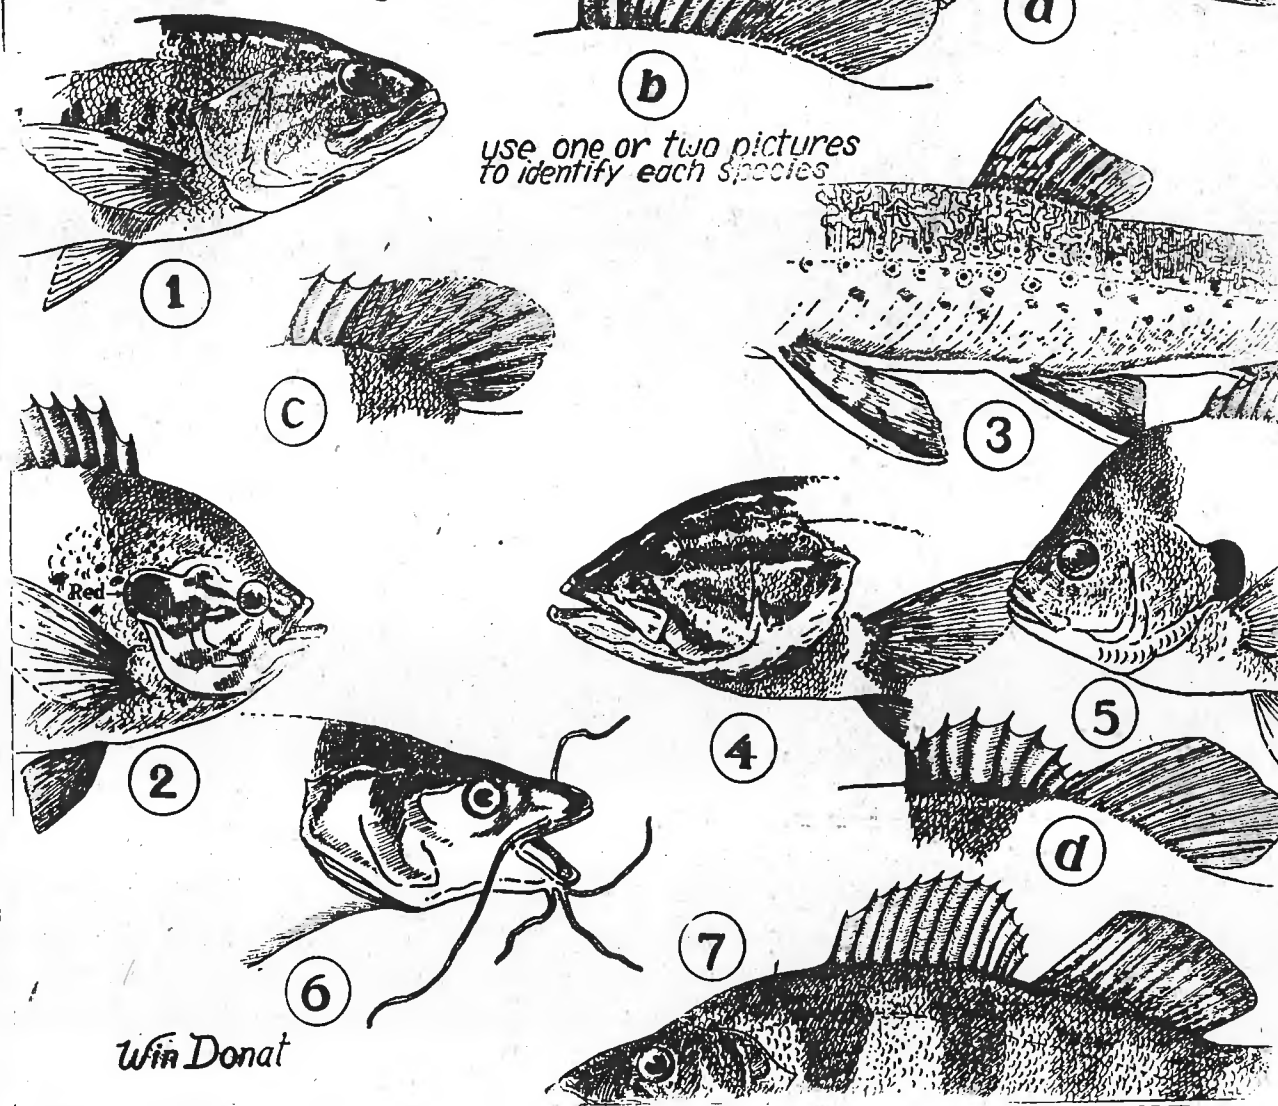

Many farmers expressed concern Tuesday that since so much tobacco was in the fields when the belt opened, some of the company buyers might go to other belts later and reduce bidding competition for Border Belt tobacco remaining to be sold.

Sales Supervisor D. T. Perry of Fayetteville estimated the total offerings of his market between 300-thousand and 315-thousand pounds. The market had a capacity sale, Perry explained and the average ranged between $56 and $58.

Sales Supervisor C. B. Stafford of the Fairmont market said the market sold 100,354 pounds Tuesday at an average of $58.61. There was a good break of tobacco and farmers seemed pleased with the prices.

Mrs. Ann Poling, 609 Delaware St., Indianapolis, Indiana, who was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron, and self another cup of coffee. Mrs. Poling says life lately is like it used to be years ago... "that is, of course, since I've been taking HADACOL." She can't get over what a difference HADACOL has made in her outlook on life.

Mrs. Poling says: "Three months ago a good friend of mine told me about HADACOL—she knew how much stomach distress I had. Any type of food that was fried or that had acid in it I just couldn't eat. It affected my sleep, too. In fact, I couldn't have been in a worse condition. When I ate what I wanted to I felt miserable and when I didn't eat these things—I didn't have a proper diet and still felt bad. Then, when I started taking HADACOL, I felt better immediately. I've got a bottle in the house now—and will continue to keep HADACOL from now on. I have told many folks about HADACOL—and they all thank me for telling them about HADACOL. They all have gotten wonderful results from HADACOL like I have. Now I eat anything I want and get a good night's sleep. I can't praise HADACOL enough."

HADACOL Can Help You, Too! ... as it has helped thousands of others whose systems lacked Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin. Yes, even hundreds of doctors have recommended HADACOL to their patients. The HADACOL formula is so effective for stomach distress, nervousness, insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis, and a general run-down condition caused by such deficiencies.

Make Up Your Mind ... to give HADACOL a chance to help you, as it has helped countless thousands of others. Remember, there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved. Buy a bottle of HADACOL, either the trial size, $1.25, or the large family or hospital size, $3.50, and if HADACOL does not help you your money will be refunded. © 1950, The LeBlanc Corporation
