GARDENTIME

By Robert Schmidt

This week I wish to make a few suggestions about exhibiting flowers—individual specimens or collections—at fairs and shows. I do not intend to give any advice on flower arrangements.

As with fruits and vegetables, be sure you enter the flowers in the proper class and that you have fulfilled all the requirements of that class. For individual specimens, perfection is the goal and they are judged accordingly. Flowers, because of their perishable nature, are usually placed on the exhibit tables in the morning and judged as soon as entries are closed.

Remember, the condition of the flower at the time it is judged is what counts. For example, the American Rose Society rules that a rose should be from one-half to three-fourths open when judged. Therefore, if you have entered a tight bud, an experienced judge will give it no consideration. Two or three hours later, the bud may have opened and may be the best specimen on the show table.

Dahlias, which are popular flowers, should be fully open when cut. They do not open in water. Most flowers, except roses and glads should be fully open. It is best to cut flowers for exhibition the night before they are to be shown and the stems should be put in a deep container of cold water and placed in a cool location until ready for show.

Discard all specimens with weak stems, diseased leaves or insect damaged petals. Dahlias and roses should have been disbudded several days before the show—that is, side buds should have been removed. Dahlias should be handled as little as possible and should not be subjected to wind or heat because they wilt very easily. Remember—perfection of stem, leaves, and flower, and then care to get them to the show table in the best possible condition.

STATE COLLEGE HINTS TO FARM HOMEMAKERS

SAVING STITCH

A stitch in time may save more than nine. It may save a whole dress, blouse or other expensive item of clothing or household goods. The time to take that stitch is before articles go into the wash or out to the dry cleaner, clothing specialists remind thrifty homemakers. A little hole or tear that can be mended in a moment may grow big in just one laundering or cleaning and there's a difficult repair job, ready and waiting, or fabric so damaged that even the best mending will never make it look the same.

It pays to mend in advance—if you're interested in economy.

LAUNDERING ACCESSORIES

Laundry accessories for both ironers and hand irons include plastic film bags to store dampened clothes in, smooth lintless pressing cloths, sponges to dampen "too dry" spots, sprayer tops for bottles to make dampening easy, hangers and fold-away racks to hang freshly ironed articles on.

There are the new open weave cotton mesh bags you can put delicate clothes in for washing. There are new clotheslines of every type and for every need. Non-rust wire clotheslines are best for outdoors. The new nylon lines are good. Clothespins have gone plastic and gay in colors. Some have graduated slits to fit various thicknesses or lines. Some have spring clamp closings.

The Agricultural Act of 1949 re-defined "parity" in order to correct certain objectionable features in the old formula. The new definition substantially lowers parity on some commodities while raising it on others.

IT'S A FIREBALL ENGINE

You never tried a fine car like This One

You've a right to set your sights higher when you buy a fine car.

You can rightly expect more room—more comfort—more performance—and a lordly smoothness in the way it carries you.

So we present these facts:

You'll find, in a ROADMASTER, more usable room than you'll find in any other six-passenger car in America.

You'll find the extra comfort of double-depth Foamtex cushions in ROADMASTER only.

You'll find that the ROADMASTER has a high-compression, valve-in-head power plant that is also exclusively Buick's—a mighty Fireball Engine endowed with more performance than most owners will ever need.

And you'll find that a ROADMASTER rolls with unsurpassed levelness and poise, thanks to coil springs on all four wheels—which is still another feature found on no other car in the fine-car field.

But the thrill that is yours, when you get this willing beauty out on the open road, is something that can't be summed up in any listing of features, one by one.

It's a "feel" which, we honestly believe, no other car can approach.

It's the sure way this dazzling performer holds the road—the way it responds to your slightest wish—the quick answer you get when you nudge the throttle—the extra security you feel in the velvet grip of the brakes—the complete freedom from tension you find in Dynaflo Drive—the sense of mastery that makes every mile a joy.

And, confidentially, there's one more important way in which ROADMASTER stands alone, and that is in the modest cost of its pounds and performance.

Better come in soon and check for yourself what a great car and a great buy this one really is.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.
